Doctors Named in Spinster's Death

In an official finding July 2 in Superior Court, Bridgeport, Conn., resigned County Coroner Theodore Steiber charged Dr. Donald F. Gibson (right) "precipitated or caused" the death of Miss Elizabeth M. Ayres, 74, with whom he lived. Steiber's finding also said Dr. Frank Genovese (left) also was criminally responsible in the aged spinster's death. Miss Ayres died a year ago in Danbury, Conn., leaving her entire estate to Dr. Gibson.

Boy, 3, Is Drowned At West Saugerties

Peter Ferrara Slipped Into Water at Four Foot Depth

Peter Ferrara, 3 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfonzo F. Ferrara of West Saugerties, was drowned in a small pond across the road from his home Monday afternoon. The boy had gone to the pool and was playing with a tire pump when he apparently slipped into the water which is from 4 to 5 feet deep.

The body was discovered by his five year old brother, Anthony, who ran to the house and summoned Mrs. Ferrara. Louis Spadaro, Brooklyn, a summer neighbor, rushed the little lad to Saugerties and Chief of Police Arthur W. Richter was summoned and arrived at the office of Dr. Lester Sonking with a pulmotor. Efforts to revive the boy failed and he was pronounced dead by Dr. Sonking. Artificial respiration had been administered en route to the doctor.

Two Are Notified

Sergeant John Metzer and Trooper Devine of the Lake Katrine state police barracks were notified and conducted an investigation.

Coroner Michael A. Galietta of Glasco was notified and after an investigation gave a verdict of accidental drowning while at play.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 9 a. m. from the late residence and at 9:30 o'clock from St. Thomas Church, Veteran, where a Mass of the Angels will be offered. Interment will be in St. Mary's Cemetery, Barclay Heights, Saugerties.

Reports Boat Stolen

Joseph Duncan of 95 Shufeldt street reported to the sheriff's office this morning that his 12-foot flat bottom boat had been stolen from the lower Ashokan Reservoir. The metal boat, painted gray outside and green inside, had a patented oar-locking device under the seat and was valued at $100. The chain which made the boat fast had been sawed through, Duncan said. Sheriff's department men ask that anyone having seen a boat answering the description of Duncan's craft notify them.

Navy Liquidated

Bangkok, July 3 (AP)—The Thailand government virtually liquidated the royal navy today for its attempt last week to overthrow Premier Pibulsonggram's regime. The navy commander-in-chief, Adm. Luang Singu Songgramchai, and most ranking officers were discharged. The admiral and many of the others then were arrested. Seventy-five per cent of all naval personnel were dropped from the pay roll for at least six months.

Suggests HST Appear'

Washington, July 3 (AP)—One of President Harry S. Truman's advisers has suggested the President go before Congress to plead for strong economic controls legislation. Mr. Truman's press secretary, Joseph Short, told reporters that nothing has been done about the suggestion and that he did not know whether anything would be done. He did not name the advisor.

Coroner's Report Places Accusation Upon Physician in Ayres Death

Bridgeport, Conn., July 3 (AP)—State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis searched law books today to determine what action could be taken against a middle-aged doctor accused of hastening the death of his wealthy, elderly "sweetheart."

The doctor, Donald F. Gibson, 49, of Danbury, was charged by former Coroner Theodore F. Steiber yesterday with having "caused or precipitated" the death of his "housekeeper and sweetheart," Miss Elizabeth M. Ayres, 74, last year.

Gibson's purpose, said Steiber, was two-fold:

"To be unfettered in his marriage" to his office receptionist, the former Mrs. Frank Wetmore whom he married 10 days after Miss Ayres' death; and

To get full control of valuable real estate held jointly by him and the aged spinster under survivorship deed after he had "denuded her bank account."

Embalming Stands in Way

Willis noted that Steiber's official finding, dated before his recent resignation as coroner, reported that embalming had made it impossible to determine by autopsy the specific cause of death.

"If I can't prove what caused the death, it makes it a very difficult matter," the prosecutor commented.

Under Connecticut law coroners, who are attorneys rather than physicians, have the duty of investigating deaths in cases where they have reason to believe negligence or law violations were involved and of determining whether anyone was "criminally responsible."

Coroners' findings are filed with appropriate law enforcement authorities who have discretion over what further steps, if any, to take.

It Is Up to Willis

In the Gibson case it is up to Willis to decide whether to institute prosecution. If he decides to prosecute, he can ask the Superior Court to issue a warrant for the doctor's arrest or to convene a grand jury to consider an indictment.

Steiger attributed the death to "calculated, intentional mistreatment." He said a conversation between Dr. Gibson and another Danbury physician, Dr. Frank Genovese, could be made "a potent weapon in the hands of the state to assure that justice be done."

McGrath Says Trouble Faces Any Who Aid Fugitives

New York, July 3 (AP)—Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan today forfeited the bonds of four of the 11 convicted Communist leaders when they failed to surrender in court.

The motion to forfeit the bonds, totaling $80,000, was made at the request of the government when the names of the missing Reds were called and there was no response.

Seven other leaders, also members of the party's American Politburo, began serving their prison terms yesterday. The four missing leaders also were to have appeared in court at the same time.

The four, object of a nationwide FBI and police search, are Henry Winston, the party's national organization secretary; New York State Chairman Robert Thompson, Illinios Chairman Gilbert Green and party National Secretary Gus Hall.

When they failed to appear yesterday, Judge Ryan gave the quartet until this morning to show up or else forfeit their bonds of $20,000 each.

The 11 leaders were convicted nearly three years ago of plotting to teach the forcible overthrow of the United States government. The U. S. Supreme Court upheld their convictions last June 4. Their prison sentences ranged from three years for Thompson to five years for the others.

Prosecution Threatened

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Attorney General McGrath today threatened to prosecute anyone helping the four fugitive officials of the Communist party to evade arrest.

McGrath warned, in a statement, that "any person concealing a fugitive from justice is liable to federal prosecution."

He noted the law provides fines of $1,000 and six months prison terms, or both for persons convicted of such concealment.

McGrath's statement followed a vain 24-hour hunt by the FBI for four leaders of the party who failed to show up in federal court at New York yesterday to start serving prison sentences for advocating violent overthrow of the government.

When the four again failed to appear today, after warrants for their arrests were issued, the court forfeited their bonds, totalling $80,000.

And So They'll Stay

Baltimore, July 3—An old white shepherd dog that bummed around the woods on estates outside Baltimore today has chosen a life of captivity with his vagrant pal, a five-year-old bay horse.

The Humane Society caught the horse and loaded him in a truck. Without so much as hesitating or looking back, the dog jumped in along with him, and trotted into a corral with the steed.

The horse and dog had grubbed for food off the land in summer and lived off handouts from friendly farmers in winter. Humane Society officials say they may use the horse for riding classes, and they'll let his canine pal stay with him.

Yoshida Asks And Gets His Aides to Quit

Yoshida immediately began forming a coalition government in preparation for peace treaty conferences.

The cabinet members handed Yoshida their resignations this morning. The shuffle will affect primarily the cabinet posts concerned with the Japanese national economy.

The changes may be made more quickly than in the case of previous cabinet shakeups. Yoshida is expected to name the new members without consulting the counsel of advisers.

Some sources said the imperial attestation ceremony—traditional in all cabinet appointments—may take place as early as Wednesday.

Yoshida asked some leaders of the People's Democratic party to take part in the formation of a coalition government to clear the way for the peace treaty talks expected in a few months. The People's Democratic party issued statements calling Yoshida's move unconstitutional. (That stand was not explained.)

Would Get Support

The prime minister, one source indicated, would obtain the full support of the Ryokutukai (Green Wind) Party. Yoshida's own Liberal Party controls the Japanese House of Representatives but the House of Councillors must have the support of the Green Wind Party to win any vote.

Yoshida visited Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway after the cabinet meeting this morning, apparently to inform the supreme allied commander of the cabinet reshuffle.

Some circles said Finance Minister Hayato Ikeda, Attorney General Ohasi, Education Minister Teiyu Amano and Labor Minister Shigeru Hori would be asked to remain in the cabinet.

Three former executive leaders of Yoshida's Liberal Party—Hsuji Masutani, Eisaku Sto and Ryutaro Nemoto — are being talked of as strong cabinet possibilities.

The cabinet now being reorganized is the third under the Yoshida regime. Yoshida's cabinet was formed in February, 1949. It was reshuffled in June, 1950.

Candle Factory Burns

Mamaroneck, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—Fire swept the A. Ajello & Co., candle-making plant today, destroying a 16-foot tall candle molded for the United Nations as an emblem of everlasting peace. The wax-fed blaze, which raged for an hour, caused an estimated $50,000 damage to stock and equipment.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, July 3 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 29: Net budget receipts, $358,636,688.24; budget expenditures, $1,254,839,754.25; cash balance, $7,356,578,123.19; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $48,142,604,532.62; budget expenditures fiscal year, $44,632,821,908.37; budget surplus, $3,509,782,624.25; total debt, $255,251,203,983.82; increase over previous day, $689,656,283.40; gold assets, $21,755,685,907.36.

Newkirk, Kelly Chosen For Republican Ticket

GOP Candidates for Fall Election

OSCAR V. NEWKIRK JOSEPH KELLY

At last night's unofficial city convention in the Ulster county courthouse on Wall street, the Republican party re-nominated Oscar V. Newkirk for his third term as mayor of Kingston and chose Joseph Kelly to run for his second term as alderman-at-large.

City Convention Selects Mayor, President of Council

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who has twice been elected mayor of Kingston, was the unanimous selection of the Republican city convention Monday evening to again become the party's candidate this fall for a third term of two years.

Placed in nomination by County Judge John M. Cashin, Mayor Newkirk was referred to as a man with experience, a man thoroughly honest and a man who is willing to work, all three qualifications absolutely essential in the man who serves as mayor of any city, Judge Cashin said.

Kelly Is Running Mate

As his running mate for alderman-at-large, the convention selected Joseph Kelly who has served during the past term in a most efficient, impartial and practical manner.

Both Mayor Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly accepted the nominations and promised to continue to give the city a good clean, honest administration and to serve all of the people of the city to the best of their ability.

The convention was called to order by Vincent G. Connelly, city chairman, who stated the purpose of the meeting. The roll was called by Clerk Robert A. Snyder and the temporary roll was made the permanent roll of the convention.

Ballots for Service Folk

Secretary Snyder then announced the manner in which ballots may be acquired by members of the armed forces, stated that central registration was now going on at the Board of Elections office on John street where voters who expect to be absent from the city on registration days may register until September 19 and also apply for absentee ballots.

When Chairman Connelly called for nominations for mayor, Judge Cashin was recognized and contrary to the usual nominating speech procedure Judge Cashin proceeded immediately to name his candidate rather than keep the delegates in suspense until the close of the nominating speech, a proceedure which he said was usual but rarely kept the convention in suspense, since most delegates always knew who the candidates were to be.

Qualifications Cited

Three things were necessary in the man who serves as mayor of any city Judge Cashin said, and they are experience, which Mayor Newkirk has acquired as an alderman, a supervisor and as mayor for over three years; honesty, which Mayor Newkirk has displayed to the citizens of the city since boyhood; and third is the

Education Board Has Organization Session at School

Trustees Transact Routine Business—Expect 420 Children in Kindergarten

An organization meeting of the board of education was held Monday pursuant to a new provision of the law which became effective on July 1, under which the school year runs from July to July.

Arthur J. Laidlaw as clerk, called the meeting to order and Trustee Baltz moved that Clarence A. Rowland be named chairman and N. Jansen Fowler, vice-president. That motion was unanimously carried. Both had served in office since the annual meeting held this spring under the old law.

Following the election of officers the board proceeded to transact a considerable volume of routine business.

A communication was received from the Leon Wilber Coal Company accepting the contract to supply pea coal for the school year at $16.04 per ton and rice at $11.29.

A leave of absence was granted Dr. Harold Newman, dentist, from September 1951 to December 1952 in order that he may take graduate work.

A letter of thanks was received from the Albany Hospital for needlework supplied through the needlework classes of the school. This includes bandages and other forms of sewing.

Plans for the new field house to be erected south of the high school were approved by the Division of School Buildings and Grounds, Albany.

A communication was received from the Bureau of Rural Administration Services, Albany, under date of June 15, stating that the closing of School No. 1, was a matter for the local board of education to determine.

Mrs. Helen Perry, Staples street, was named as the needles trade representative on the Advisory Committee recently appointed.

Phyllis Beckler, Potsdam State Teachers College, and James Hudson, will become cadet teachers in music in the Kingston school system this fall for terms from September through December.

Kindergarten Registration

A communication was received in which it was estimated the registration at kindergarten this fall in the city schools will be 420. Last year there registration was 329.

Trustee O'Reilly for the finance committee offered the payroll and vouchers for June in the amount of $148,867.78; also warrants in payment of payroll and vouchers for June for Veterans Institutional on the Farm Training amounting to $670.75; and FDA School Lunch Program vouchers amounting to $5,363.43 for June.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Common Council to authorize the renewal of capital notes in the sum of one half of the sum of $89,000, the original

George Says Korea Move Would Ease Attitude on Taxes

Industry Witnesses to Be Heard Beginning After Holiday at Capital

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Senator George (D.-Ga.) said today he thinks any early cease-fire in Korea will make a difference in the attitude the Senate takes on a proposed steep tax increase.

"The mobilization program must go on," George told a reporter, "but there should be an end to the hysteria of giving the military everything it wants right now to the exclusion of the needs of the civilian economy."

George voiced this view as the finance committee he heads called three final administration officials today (9 a. m., EST) for anticipated pleas for a steep tax boost regardless of whether the fighting ends in Korea. They were Charles E. Wilson, director of defense mobilization, and two assistant defense secretaries, Mrs. Anna Rosenberg and W. J. McNeil.

For the time being, they will wind up presentation of the administration case for a $10,000,000,000 a year tax hike.

This would be some $3,000,000,000 more than passed by the House. The administration contends the larger figure is necessary to put the government on a pay-as-we-go basis in the fiscal year which started Sunday.

To Hear Industry

The committee will take a day off tomorrow and on Thursday begin to hear industry witnesses. George has estimated the hearings will last another five weeks.

Several of the Finance Committee members have said they feel enough of a tax increase will be passed to balance the budget in the present fiscal year.

But Senator Millikin (R.-Colo.),

Ridgway Stresses Speed to Halt Warfare in Korea; Fighting Goes On

Line Is Debated

Reds Hold Out for 38th but Rhee Says They Can't Accept

Tokyo, July 3 (AP)—The allied command agreed today to an armistice meeting next week with the Reds in Korea—and tried to speed it up to stop the killing war.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway proposed a preliminary meeting Thursday.

The United Nations commander-in-chief accepted July 10 as the time for cease-fire talks. He said he would like to meet sooner if the Communists can make it. July 10 was the earliest date proposed by the Reds' top generals.

Ridgway agreed to their suggestion that negotiators meet in Kaesong, ancient Korean capital near the 38th Parallel, instead of aboard a Danish hospital ship as he had proposed.

A reply from the Chinese and North Korean commanders was hoped for soon. None had been reported by 11:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EST) nine hours after UN radios began broadcasting Ridgway's message.

His message was the third in preliminary radio exchanges between opposing commanders.

Speed Is Stressed

Ridgway stressed speed to halt the year-old war. He said:

"Delay in initiating the meetings and in reaching agreement will prolong the fighting and increase the losses."

There was no break in the fighting. Nor in disagreement between opposing capitals.

The Chinese Reds' Peiping radio said the cease fire would be on the 38th Parallel. President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said "we cannot accept" an armistice on the 38th Parallel, old dividing line of Communist and Republican Korea.

Dispatches from the front lines told of one of the longest artillery duels of the war fought on the eastern front.

On the central front exhausted U.N. infantrymen captured the highest peak in the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang iron triangle after a three-day battle. But they failed to dislodge Chinese from neighboring hills from which the Reds poured a searing mortar barrage.

"Those hilltops looked like exploding volcanoes when our artillery hit," an officer said. "Those Chinese must be dug in deeper than at any other time of the war."

Planes Bomb Targets

Sixty American jets and six B-29 Superforts bombed, rocketed and strafed the Pyongyang downtown airfield in the heart of the Red Korean capital. Returning pilots called it a terrific blow.

Ridgway's latest message brought a feeling of relief to U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, A.P. Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported, and a feeling that the shooting would come to an end.

However, news dispatches from Moscow and Washington suggested not too much should be expected in the immediate future from armistice moves.

Ridgway selected the earliest date mentioned by Red commanders— Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai of China. In reply to Ridgway's original message they had proposed meeting between July 10 and 15.

The allied commander picked July 10. He said his representatives were ready to meet earlier if the Communists would agree.

The U.N. commander's suggested preparatory meetings would lay the ground work for the cease fire talk. Ridgway proposed sending three officers by helicopter or jeep—depending on the weather—to meet with three Communist officers in preliminary sessions. None would be higher rank than colonel.

Only Three Persons Seen

Only three persons, apparently civilians, were spotted today by observers who flew over the proposed meeting place — Kaesong. The rubble-strewn city is in Red-held territory, three miles south of the parallel 38 and 35 miles

Minority Stockholder Hits Management Of New Haven Railroad; Bid Discussed

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Recent management of the New Haven Railroad was criticized at a Senate committee hearing yesterday by a minority stockholder who termed the line's financial statements "masterpieces of disguise."

Eugene Havas of Washington, D. C., who said he owns 623 shares of New Haven preferred stock and $90,000 of its bonds, said the New Haven paid no dividends despite good earnings. He said repeated inquiries failed to bring satisfactory explanations.

Havas criticized especially the New Haven's now-withdrawn request for ICC authority to buy the late Frederic C. Dumaine's holdings in the Boston and Providence Railroad.

"It was a fantastic thing," Havas said. "What incensed me was that the directors said they couldn't pay dividends, yet they could pay cash for the Boston and Providence debentures. It just doesn't make sense."

The witness said he felt the road, under Frederic C. Dumaine, Jr., the line's new president, is heading for a new era. "But," he added, "I don't know if he is the boss or if he is being bossed."

Sen. McMahon (D.-Conn.), who headed the public inquiry by the Commerce Subcommittee on New England Power and Transportation, said the investigation was launched last March 28 because of complaints he received concerning "unorthodox management" under the late Dumaine.

Until his death recently Dumaine was the controlling stockholder, president and chairman of the New Haven's directors.

McMahon said his description of "unorthodox" did not necessarily mean bad management and that his committee was not sitting as prosecutors.

He said there had been many "unusual" things happening in the New Haven system in recent years.

Among those he listed: The purchase by its late president of voting control of New Haven, with an estimated total value of $400 million, for about $3 million; Dumaine's "decapitation" of many of the road's top administrative personnel:

The many economies affected by sale of rails for scrap; the sale of parking spaces for commuters, and an application to the ICC for authority for the New Haven to buy Dumaine's personal holdings in the Boston and Providence Railroad for about $3 million—yielding Dumaine a profit of about $1 million.

J. J. Hammill, chairman of the grievance committee of the New Haven division of the railroad brotherhood, told the committee of demoralization among New Haven personnel as a result of dismissals and inability to get

U.S. Consumers Economize By Purchasing Lightly

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Consumers are economizing on foods by such means as purchasing smaller quantities at grocery stores and by eating fewer meals in restaurants, the Agriculture Department reporteed today.

This situation was said to be reflected by studies of food markets statistics on consumer spending. The department itself did not attempt to explain the cause, but market experts said resistance to increasing prices was undoubtedly a big factor.

This cutting back in food buying has been followed by a four per cent drop in farm prices since they reached a record level in February of this year. Principal products which have declined in price include meat animals, chickens, milk, potatoes, dry beans, wheat and fresh vegetables.

The department said the economizing is shown by the fact that prices of a given quantity and quality of food increased eight per cent from the fourth quarter of 1950 to the first quarter of 1951. But consumer spending for all foods increased only six per cent.

"This indicates that expenditures for food rose less than retail prices and affords some evidence that consumers were economizing on their expenditures for food by buying smaller quantities, fewer meals in restaurants or by some other means," the department said.

Nevertheless, the quantity of food bought during the first quarter of this year was said to have taken 27 per cent of consumers' income. A slightly larger quantity took 26 per cent of this income during the last quarter of 1950.

Baltimore, July 3—An old white shepherd dog that bummed around the woods on estates outside Baltimore today has chosen a life of captivity with his vagrant pal, a five-year-old bay horse.

The Humane Society caught the horse and loaded him in a truck. Without so much as hesitating or looking back, the dog jumped in along with him, and trotted into a corral with the steed.

The horse and dog had grubbed for food off the land in summer and lived off handouts from friendly farmers in winter. Humane Society officials say they may use the horse for riding classes, and they'll let his canine pal stay with him.

Yoshida immediately began forming a coalition government in preparation for peace treaty conferences.

The cabinet members handed Yoshida their resignations this morning. The shuffle will affect primarily the cabinet posts concerned with the Japanese national economy.

The changes may be made more quickly than in the case of previous cabinet shakeups. Yoshida is expected to name the new members without consulting the counsel of advisers.

Some sources said the imperial attestation ceremony—traditional in all cabinet appointments—may take place as early as Wednesday.

Yoshida asked some leaders of the People's Democratic party to take part in the formation of a coalition government to clear the way for the peace treaty talks expected in a few months. The People's Democratic party issued statements calling Yoshida's move unconstitutional. (That stand was not explained.)

Would Get Support

The prime minister, one source indicated, would obtain the full support of the Ryokutukai (Green Wind) Party. Yoshida's own Liberal Party controls the Japanese House of Representatives but the House of Councillors must have the support of the Green Wind Party to win any vote.

Yoshida visited Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway after the cabinet meeting this morning, apparently to inform the supreme allied commander of the cabinet reshuffle.

Some circles said Finance Minister Hayato Ikeda, Attorney General Ohasi, Education Minister Teiyu Amano and Labor Minister Shigeru Hori would be asked to remain in the cabinet.

Three former executive leaders of Yoshida's Liberal Party—Hsuji Masutani, Eisaku Sto and Ryutaro Nemoto — are being talked of as strong cabinet possibilities.

The cabinet now being reorganized is the third under the Yoshida regime. Yoshida's cabinet was formed in February, 1949. It was reshuffled in June, 1950.

Newkirk, Kelly Chosen For Republican Ticket

OSCAR V. NEWKIRK JOSEPH KELLY

At last night's unofficial city convention in the Ulster county courthouse on Wall street, the Republican party re-nominated Oscar V. Newkirk for his third term as mayor of Kingston and chose Joseph Kelly to run for his second term as alderman-at-large.

City Convention Selects Mayor, President of Council

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, who has twice been elected mayor of Kingston, was the unanimous selection of the Republican city convention Monday evening to again become the party's candidate this fall for a third term of two years.

Placed in nomination by County Judge John M. Cashin, Mayor Newkirk was referred to as a man with experience, a man thoroughly honest and a man who is willing to work, all three qualifications absolutely essential in the man who serves as mayor of any city, Judge Cashin said.

Kelly Is Running Mate

As his running mate for alderman-at-large, the convention selected Joseph Kelly who has served during the past term in a most efficient, impartial and practical manner.

Both Mayor Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly accepted the nominations and promised to continue to give the city a good clean, honest administration and to serve all of the people of the city to the best of their ability.

The convention was called to order by Vincent G. Connelly, city chairman, who stated the purpose of the meeting. The roll was called by Clerk Robert A. Snyder and the temporary roll was made the permanent roll of the convention.

Ballots for Service Folk

Secretary Snyder then announced the manner in which ballots may be acquired by members of the armed forces, stated that central registration was now going on at the Board of Elections office on John street where voters who expect to be absent from the city on registration days may register until September 19 and also apply for absentee ballots.

When Chairman Connelly called for nominations for mayor, Judge Cashin was recognized and contrary to the usual nominating speech procedure Judge Cashin proceeded immediately to name his candidate rather than keep the delegates in suspense until the close of the nominating speech, a proceedure which he said was usual but rarely kept the convention in suspense, since most delegates always knew who the candidates were to be.

Qualifications Cited

Three things were necessary in the man who serves as mayor of any city Judge Cashin said, and they are experience, which Mayor Newkirk has acquired as an alderman, a supervisor and as mayor for over three years; honesty, which Mayor Newkirk has displayed to the citizens of the city since boyhood; and third is the

Education Board Has Organization Session at School

An organization meeting of the board of education was held Monday pursuant to a new provision of the law which became effective on July 1, under which the school year runs from July to July.

Arthur J. Laidlaw as clerk, called the meeting to order and Trustee Baltz moved that Clarence A. Rowland be named chairman and N. Jansen Fowler, vice-president. That motion was unanimously carried. Both had served in office since the annual meeting held this spring under the old law.

Following the election of officers the board proceeded to transact a considerable volume of routine business.

A communication was received from the Leon Wilber Coal Company accepting the contract to supply pea coal for the school year at $16.04 per ton and rice at $11.29.

A leave of absence was granted Dr. Harold Newman, dentist, from September 1951 to December 1952 in order that he may take graduate work.

A letter of thanks was received from the Albany Hospital for needlework supplied through the needlework classes of the school. This includes bandages and other forms of sewing.

Plans for the new field house to be erected south of the high school were approved by the Division of School Buildings and Grounds, Albany.

A communication was received from the Bureau of Rural Administration Services, Albany, under date of June 15, stating that the closing of School No. 1, was a matter for the local board of education to determine.

Mrs. Helen Perry, Staples street, was named as the needles trade representative on the Advisory Committee recently appointed.

Phyllis Beckler, Potsdam State Teachers College, and James Hudson, will become cadet teachers in music in the Kingston school system this fall for terms from September through December.

Kindergarten Registration

A communication was received in which it was estimated the registration at kindergarten this fall in the city schools will be 420. Last year there registration was 329.

Trustee O'Reilly for the finance committee offered the payroll and vouchers for June in the amount of $148,867.78; also warrants in payment of payroll and vouchers for June for Veterans Institutional on the Farm Training amounting to $670.75; and FDA School Lunch Program vouchers amounting to $5,363.43 for June.

A resolution was adopted requesting the Common Council to authorize the renewal of capital notes in the sum of one half of the sum of $89,000, the original

George Says Korea Move Would Ease Attitude on Taxes

Industry Witnesses to Be Heard Beginning After Holiday at Capital

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Senator George (D.-Ga.) said today he thinks any early cease-fire in Korea will make a difference in the attitude the Senate takes on a proposed steep tax increase.

"The mobilization program must go on," George told a reporter, "but there should be an end to the hysteria of giving the military everything it wants right now to the exclusion of the needs of the civilian economy."

George voiced this view as the finance committee he heads called three final administration officials today (9 a. m., EST) for anticipated pleas for a steep tax boost regardless of whether the fighting ends in Korea. They were Charles E. Wilson, director of defense mobilization, and two assistant defense secretaries, Mrs. Anna Rosenberg and W. J. McNeil.

For the time being, they will wind up presentation of the administration case for a $10,000,000,000 a year tax hike.

This would be some $3,000,000,000 more than passed by the House. The administration contends the larger figure is necessary to put the government on a pay-as-we-go basis in the fiscal year which started Sunday.

To Hear Industry

The committee will take a day off tomorrow and on Thursday begin to hear industry witnesses. George has estimated the hearings will last another five weeks.

Several of the Finance Committee members have said they feel enough of a tax increase will be passed to balance the budget in the present fiscal year.

But Senator Millikin (R.-Colo.),

July 10 Is Accepted as Parley Date

Ridgway Stresses Speed to Halt Warfare in Korea; Fighting Goes On

Line Is Debated

Reds Hold Out for 38th but Rhee Says They Can't Accept

Tokyo, July 3 (AP)—The allied command agreed today to an armistice meeting next week with the Reds in Korea—and tried to speed it up to stop the killing war.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway proposed a preliminary meeting Thursday.

The United Nations commander-in-chief accepted July 10 as the time for cease-fire talks. He said he would like to meet sooner if the Communists can make it. July 10 was the earliest date proposed by the Reds' top generals.

Ridgway agreed to their suggestion that negotiators meet in Kaesong, ancient Korean capital near the 38th Parallel, instead of aboard a Danish hospital ship as he had proposed.

A reply from the Chinese and North Korean commanders was hoped for soon. None had been reported by 11:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. EST) nine hours after UN radios began broadcasting Ridgway's message.

His message was the third in preliminary radio exchanges between opposing commanders.

Speed Is Stressed

Ridgway stressed speed to halt the year-old war. He said:

"Delay in initiating the meetings and in reaching agreement will prolong the fighting and increase the losses."

There was no break in the fighting. Nor in disagreement between opposing capitals.

The Chinese Reds' Peiping radio said the cease fire would be on the 38th Parallel. President Syngman Rhee of South Korea said "we cannot accept" an armistice on the 38th Parallel, old dividing line of Communist and Republican Korea.

Dispatches from the front lines told of one of the longest artillery duels of the war fought on the eastern front.

On the central front exhausted U.N. infantrymen captured the highest peak in the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyonggang iron triangle after a three-day battle. But they failed to dislodge Chinese from neighboring hills from which the Reds poured a searing mortar barrage.

"Those hilltops looked like exploding volcanoes when our artillery hit," an officer said. "Those Chinese must be dug in deeper than at any other time of the war."

Planes Bomb Targets

Sixty American jets and six B-29 Superforts bombed, rocketed and strafed the Pyongyang downtown airfield in the heart of the Red Korean capital. Returning pilots called it a terrific blow.

Ridgway's latest message brought a feeling of relief to U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, A.P. Correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported, and a feeling that the shooting would come to an end.

However, news dispatches from Moscow and Washington suggested not too much should be expected in the immediate future from armistice moves.

Ridgway selected the earliest date mentioned by Red commanders— Premier Kim Il Sung of North Korea and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai of China. In reply to Ridgway's original message they had proposed meeting between July 10 and 15.

The allied commander picked July 10. He said his representatives were ready to meet earlier if the Communists would agree.

The U.N. commander's suggested preparatory meetings would lay the ground work for the cease fire talk. Ridgway proposed sending three officers by helicopter or jeep—depending on the weather—to meet with three Communist officers in preliminary sessions. None would be higher rank than colonel.

Only Three Persons Seen

Only three persons, apparently civilians, were spotted today by observers who flew over the proposed meeting place — Kaesong. The rubble-strewn city is in Red-held territory, three miles south of the parallel 38 and 35 miles

Minority Stockholder Hits Management Of New Haven Railroad; Bid Discussed

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Recent management of the New Haven Railroad was criticized at a Senate committee hearing yesterday by a minority stockholder who termed the line's financial statements "masterpieces of disguise."

Eugene Havas of Washington, D. C., who said he owns 623 shares of New Haven preferred stock and $90,000 of its bonds, said the New Haven paid no dividends despite good earnings. He said repeated inquiries failed to bring satisfactory explanations.

Havas criticized especially the New Haven's now-withdrawn request for ICC authority to buy the late Frederic C. Dumaine's holdings in the Boston and Providence Railroad.

"It was a fantastic thing," Havas said. "What incensed me was that the directors said they couldn't pay dividends, yet they could pay cash for the Boston and Providence debentures. It just doesn't make sense."

The witness said he felt the road, under Frederic C. Dumaine, Jr., the line's new president, is heading for a new era. "But," he added, "I don't know if he is the boss or if he is being bossed."

Sen. McMahon (D.-Conn.), who headed the public inquiry by the Commerce Subcommittee on New England Power and Transportation, said the investigation was launched last March 28 because of complaints he received concerning "unorthodox management" under the late Dumaine.

Until his death recently Dumaine was the controlling stockholder, president and chairman of the New Haven's directors.

McMahon said his description of "unorthodox" did not necessarily mean bad management and that his committee was not sitting as prosecutors.

He said there had been many "unusual" things happening in the New Haven system in recent years.

Among those he listed: The purchase by its late president of voting control of New Haven, with an estimated total value of $400 million, for about $3 million; Dumaine's "decapitation" of many of the road's top administrative personnel:

The many economies affected by sale of rails for scrap; the sale of parking spaces for commuters, and an application to the ICC for authority for the New Haven to buy Dumaine's personal holdings in the Boston and Providence Railroad for about $3 million—yielding Dumaine a profit of about $1 million.

J. J. Hammill, chairman of the grievance committee of the New Haven division of the railroad brotherhood, told the committee of demoralization among New Haven personnel as a result of dismissals and inability to get

U.S. Consumers Economize By Purchasing Lightly

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Consumers are economizing on foods by such means as purchasing smaller quantities at grocery stores and by eating fewer meals in restaurants, the Agriculture Department reporteed today.

This situation was said to be reflected by studies of food markets statistics on consumer spending. The department itself did not attempt to explain the cause, but market experts said resistance to increasing prices was undoubtedly a big factor.

This cutting back in food buying has been followed by a four per cent drop in farm prices since they reached a record level in February of this year. Principal products which have declined in price include meat animals, chickens, milk, potatoes, dry beans, wheat and fresh vegetables.

The department said the economizing is shown by the fact that prices of a given quantity and quality of food increased eight per cent from the fourth quarter of 1950 to the first quarter of 1951. But consumer spending for all foods increased only six per cent.

"This indicates that expenditures for food rose less than retail prices and affords some evidence that consumers were economizing on their expenditures for food by buying smaller quantities, fewer meals in restaurants or by some other means," the department said.

Nevertheless, the quantity of food bought during the first quarter of this year was said to have taken 27 per cent of consumers' income. A slightly larger quantity took 26 per cent of this income during the last quarter of 1950.

The wanderer, who calls himself Frank Russo, claimed he was born in Jersey City, N. J., and that he is an American citizen. He is aboard the Home Lines passenger vessel Italia—being deported to Italy for the fifth time. The Italian government, which previously refused to accept Russo, says it now has identified him as Alessandro Russo, born in Rogobascena, Avellino province, Italy, in 1907.

Now all he has to do is exercise an option he holds on the club and it is his.

Hungary Asks Library Be Closed

Budapest, Hungary, July 3 (AP)—Hungary asked the United States last night to close the U. S. Information Service Library in Budapest and recall three employes of the U. S. Legation here. It also demanded stoppage of the information service's movie and musical programs.

The Hungarian note to the legation said the recent trial of Archbishop Joszef Groesz had proved nine legation officials fostered a "bloody terrorist" plot against Hungary's present government. The information service quarters were used by the plotters, the note charged.

Archbishop Groesz was convicted last Thursday of plotting to overthrow Hungary's Communist government with American help and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Accepts Estimate

New York, July 3 (AP) — The Long Island Lighting Company today accepted a Public Service Commission estimate of accrued depreciation of properties used in its production of gas and electricity. David Kadame, general counsel for the utility, told PSC Commissioner Francis Mylott that the lighting company would make adjustments in its books to reflect the estimate of $38,966,000 made as of December 31, 1949, by George Goldwaithe, consulting engineer for the commission.

Two Are Accused

New York, July 3 (AP) — Dr. Jacob Kulik, 72, and Paul Alder, 58, today were accused of stealing about $60,000 worth of furs, jewelry, silverware and clothing from Mrs. Tilly Schanzer, of 30-02 85th street, Jackson Heights, Queens. Magistrate Ambrose J. Haddock set hearing on grand larceny charges for July 17 and continued the $300 bail set for the men last night.

Nazi Lie Recorded

Vienna (AP)—The wrongs of the Nazis are righted as the years go by. When the Nazis occupied Vienna, they found the great-great-grandfather of Johann Strauss, who wrote the immortal "Blue Danube Waltz," was listed as a "Christianized Jew" in a 1762 marriage register. Rather than risk Viennese wrath by banning the "Blue Danube", the Nazis removed the register. They substituted a photostatic copy that indicated Strauss' ancestor was an "aryan."

Big Feet Bring Vacation

With the First Marine Division in Korea (AP)—Pfc. Saadi A. Ferris II has feet big enough to earn him a 20-day vacation from the front lines. The Austin, Texas, Marine sports 14 double E's. He brought some of the gunboats with him from the States, but they wore out a few weeks ago, and the supply sergeant had nothing comparable in stock. "Nobody," he insisted, looking unbelievingly at Ferris' huge feet, "has shoes that size."

Bullet Holes Found in Window

Several BB pellet holes and one larger bullet hole were discovered Monday afternoon in the front show window of the L. Cohen and Son furniture store at 15 Hasbrouck avenue, according to a police report.

Mrs. Abraham Cohen told police about the small holes in the window at 5:05 p. m. Monday. Following an inspection, Patrolmen Harry Martin and Thomas McGrane reported that several of the holes apparently were made by BB pellets, but that one appeared to have been made by a larger shot and "might have been fired from inside," the police report states. Detective Clarence Brophy has been assigned to investigate.

Bill Is Introduced

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Rep. Burdick (R.-N.D.) introduced legislation today to amend the constitution to provide that treaties must be ratified by both the House and Senate—and not the Senate alone as at present. Under the present method, Burdick told the House, "the whole government can be changed, or even abolished, by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, while the people's elected representatives have to sit on the side-lines and see their nation destroyed."

Elks' Scholarships

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Isabel A. MacDonald of 112 Spruce street, Mamaroneck, N. Y., today was awarded a $300 college scholarship by the Elks National Foundation. She received the scholarship in the foundation's 1951 most valuable student competition. Forty other students received scholarships ranging from $300 to $800. The awards totaled $15,700. Candidates were judged on superior scholastic achievements, character, citizenship, and extra-curricular activities.

Machine Sorts Lemons

Davis, Calif. (AP) — Science has developed a machine that sorts lemons by color to determine which fruit goes to market earliest. Designed at the College of Agriculture of the University of California, the machine sorts 15,000 lemons an hour and may some day replace slower-working humans who now do the job by hand. Since lemons ripen unevenly—one tree may have ripe, silver, light green and dark green fruit—they must be sorted so riper ones can be sent to market first.

About the Folks

Mrs. Ernest Longyear of 55 Dunneman avenue is recovering from an operation performed Friday afternoon at the Kingston Hospital.

"THAT'S MY POP!"—Three-year-old Gary Adams shows that he's a mighty proud boy—and why wouldn't he be. Isn't his dad, M/Sgt. Stanley P. Adams one of the top heroes of the Korean war? Sergeant Adams, happily reunited with his family in their Olathe, Kan., home relaxes before going to Washington to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman. He won the medal by heroism in a suicidal charge in Korea.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 3 (AP)—Quietly and without any particular incentive on the buying side, the stock market today advanced comfortably.

Steels and motors supplied leadership. Good gains also were made in oils, rubbers, chemicals, aircrafts, and distillers. Rails were unchanged to a little higher.

Leaders were up more than a dollar a share. Losses were scattered and generally measured in a matter of cents.

Anderson Clayton raced ahead nearly $6 at times after directors proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend together with a dividend equal to $1 on present shares as against 75 cents now paid quarterly. At the same time an extra of $1 was declared compared with 50 cents a year ago.

Firestone on its first sales jumped up $3.50 at $93. The company reported six months earnings to April 30 equal to $11.69 a share as against $6.68 a year ago.

The volume of trading was fairly light and proceeded at a pace lower than yesterday's total of 1,340,000 shares.

Stocks going higher included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Texas Co., Southern Pacific, American Telephone, Goodrich, International Nickel, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, and General Electric.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market were steady.

Education Board

The matter of writing a comprehensive personal liability insurance policy to cover each member of the board against personal liability growing out of any legal action against such person as a member of the Board of Education, was discussed. Such insurance can be secured for $15 per year for each member and $37.50 for a three year term on each member. The matter will be further investigated.

President Rowland appointed a special committee to meet with the auditors and prepare figures to be submitted to the State Education relative to a petition from the Town of Ulster, now before the Commissioner, protesting the increase in non-resident tuition. On the committee are Trustees Herzog, O'Reilly and Fowler and President Rowland.

Trustee Kalish for the Athletic committee reported that a conference had been held on the proposal to open a football program in the M.J.M. school. The proposal was looked upon with favor and the school players will be supplied with uniforms and equipment.. The board approved the plan and the equipment will be purchased at a cost of approximately $975.

It was also suggested that season football tickets for all home games be issued, the price to be the same as for single game admissions. It was voted to try the plan this year.

The board adjourned to meet on August 2 at 7:30 p. m. to approve the tax list and authorize issuance of warrants.

Allies Agree . . .

northwest of Seoul. It was chosen by Red commanders.

Three Far Eastern radio stations began broadcasting Ridgeway's message at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday (11:30 p. m. Monday EST). That was exactly 39½ hours after Peng had answered the original U.N. armistice suggestion.

Carrier planes strafed, rocketed and bombed Chinnampo, port of Pyongyang.

On the battlefront more than 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel, allied tanks blasted at stubbornly defending Reds trying to stave off U.N. forces approaching Pyonggang, the northern apex of the old Communist "iron triangle." Pyonggang should not be confused with Pyongyang.)

That application was withdrawn "with prejudice" just before Dumaine's death.

Chinese and Americans alike were warned they would have to look to their national defenses despite cease fire talks.

China's Peiping Radio warned that China's own defenses would have to be strengthened once an armistice is effected.

In Washington U. S. Secretary of Defense Marshall said this is no time to let down America's guard.

Marshall said plans are to keep U. S. troops in Korea until "things are settled." And Moscow reported the Chinese probably will keep their troops in Korea as long as the Americans stay.

A field dispatch, delayed by military censors, said there was an unconfirmed report a new group of 70,000 Red troops had moved into position 50 miles northwest of Seoul. There have been previous reports of Reds shoving new forces in this area near Kaesong.

Kaesong was deserted when an allied patrol entered it last month.

Czech Embassy Rejects News Guild's Protest

Washington, July 3 (AP)—The Czech Embassy rejected as "insulting" today a protest by the American Newspaper Guild which accused Communist Czechoslovakia of extorting a "phony confession" of espionage from AP Correspondent William Oatis.

Harry Martin, president of the CIO union, took to the embassy a Guild resolution and a strongly-worded letter of his own. He was received by Jan Vinar, charge d'affaires, but their meeting broke up with Vinar stalking huffily out of the reception room.

Vinar told Martin he would not pass along the Guild's protest to his government because it contained "outrageous and insulting language."

The resolution was adopted by the ANG convention at Pittsburgh last week. It condemned Oatis' arrest.

Martin's letter accused Czechoslovakia of "railroading Mr. Oatis to prison" and of extorting from him "under duress . . . one more in the growing series of phony confessions."

Difficult to Train

Although it was once believed that African elephants could not be trained as work animals, about 30 or 40 a year have been so trained for the past several years.

China contains few and fast dwindling petroleum reserves.

He's Italian Citizen

New York, July 3 (AP)—The modern "man without a country" has been notified on the high seas that he was born in Italy and that he must make his home there. The wanderer, who calls himself Frank Russo, claimed he was born in Jersey City, N. J., and that he is an American citizen. He is aboard the Home Lines passenger vessel Italia—being deported to Italy for the fifth time. The Italian government, which previously refused to accept Russo, says it now has identified him as Alessandro Russo, born in Rogobascena, Avellino province, Italy, in 1907.

Veeck Gets Stock

St. Louis, July 3 (AP)—Bill Veeck went "over the top" today in his stock-drive to buy the St. Louis Browns. An important stockholder, who had been a stubborn holdout in the deal, tossed in his 8.572 at noon to give Veek more than the 75 per cent of Browns' stock he wanted. Now all he has to do is exercise an option he holds on the club and it is his.

Hungary Asks Library Be Closed

Budapest, Hungary, July 3 (AP)—Hungary asked the United States last night to close the U. S. Information Service Library in Budapest and recall three employes of the U. S. Legation here. It also demanded stoppage of the information service's movie and musical programs.

The Hungarian note to the legation said the recent trial of Archbishop Joszef Groesz had proved nine legation officials fostered a "bloody terrorist" plot against Hungary's present government. The information service quarters were used by the plotters, the note charged.

Archbishop Groesz was convicted last Thursday of plotting to overthrow Hungary's Communist government with American help and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Accepts Estimate

New York, July 3 (AP) — The Long Island Lighting Company today accepted a Public Service Commission estimate of accrued depreciation of properties used in its production of gas and electricity. David Kadame, general counsel for the utility, told PSC Commissioner Francis Mylott that the lighting company would make adjustments in its books to reflect the estimate of $38,966,000 made as of December 31, 1949, by George Goldwaithe, consulting engineer for the commission.

Two Are Accused

New York, July 3 (AP) — Dr. Jacob Kulik, 72, and Paul Alder, 58, today were accused of stealing about $60,000 worth of furs, jewelry, silverware and clothing from Mrs. Tilly Schanzer, of 30-02 85th street, Jackson Heights, Queens. Magistrate Ambrose J. Haddock set hearing on grand larceny charges for July 17 and continued the $300 bail set for the men last night.

Nazi Lie Recorded

Vienna (AP)—The wrongs of the Nazis are righted as the years go by. When the Nazis occupied Vienna, they found the great-great-grandfather of Johann Strauss, who wrote the immortal "Blue Danube Waltz," was listed as a "Christianized Jew" in a 1762 marriage register. Rather than risk Viennese wrath by banning the "Blue Danube", the Nazis removed the register. They substituted a photostatic copy that indicated Strauss' ancestor was an "aryan."

Big Feet Bring Vacation

With the First Marine Division in Korea (AP)—Pfc. Saadi A. Ferris II has feet big enough to earn him a 20-day vacation from the front lines. The Austin, Texas, Marine sports 14 double E's. He brought some of the gunboats with him from the States, but they wore out a few weeks ago, and the supply sergeant had nothing comparable in stock. "Nobody," he insisted, looking unbelievingly at Ferris' huge feet, "has shoes that size."

Bullet Holes Found in Window

Several BB pellet holes and one larger bullet hole were discovered Monday afternoon in the front show window of the L. Cohen and Son furniture store at 15 Hasbrouck avenue, according to a police report.

Mrs. Abraham Cohen told police about the small holes in the window at 5:05 p. m. Monday. Following an inspection, Patrolmen Harry Martin and Thomas McGrane reported that several of the holes apparently were made by BB pellets, but that one appeared to have been made by a larger shot and "might have been fired from inside," the police report states. Detective Clarence Brophy has been assigned to investigate.

Bill Is Introduced

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Rep. Burdick (R.-N.D.) introduced legislation today to amend the constitution to provide that treaties must be ratified by both the House and Senate—and not the Senate alone as at present. Under the present method, Burdick told the House, "the whole government can be changed, or even abolished, by a two-thirds vote of the Senate, while the people's elected representatives have to sit on the side-lines and see their nation destroyed."

Elks' Scholarships

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Isabel A. MacDonald of 112 Spruce street, Mamaroneck, N. Y., today was awarded a $300 college scholarship by the Elks National Foundation. She received the scholarship in the foundation's 1951 most valuable student competition. Forty other students received scholarships ranging from $300 to $800. The awards totaled $15,700. Candidates were judged on superior scholastic achievements, character, citizenship, and extra-curricular activities.

Machine Sorts Lemons

Davis, Calif. (AP) — Science has developed a machine that sorts lemons by color to determine which fruit goes to market earliest. Designed at the College of Agriculture of the University of California, the machine sorts 15,000 lemons an hour and may some day replace slower-working humans who now do the job by hand. Since lemons ripen unevenly—one tree may have ripe, silver, light green and dark green fruit—they must be sorted so riper ones can be sent to market first.

About the Folks

Mrs. Ernest Longyear of 55 Dunneman avenue is recovering from an operation performed Friday afternoon at the Kingston Hospital.

"THAT'S MY POP!"—Three-year-old Gary Adams shows that he's a mighty proud boy—and why wouldn't he be. Isn't his dad, M/Sgt. Stanley P. Adams one of the top heroes of the Korean war? Sergeant Adams, happily reunited with his family in their Olathe, Kan., home relaxes before going to Washington to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Truman. He won the medal by heroism in a suicidal charge in Korea.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 3 (AP)—Quietly and without any particular incentive on the buying side, the stock market today advanced comfortably.

Steels and motors supplied leadership. Good gains also were made in oils, rubbers, chemicals, aircrafts, and distillers. Rails were unchanged to a little higher.

Leaders were up more than a dollar a share. Losses were scattered and generally measured in a matter of cents.

Anderson Clayton raced ahead nearly $6 at times after directors proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend together with a dividend equal to $1 on present shares as against 75 cents now paid quarterly. At the same time an extra of $1 was declared compared with 50 cents a year ago.

Firestone on its first sales jumped up $3.50 at $93. The company reported six months earnings to April 30 equal to $11.69 a share as against $6.68 a year ago.

The volume of trading was fairly light and proceeded at a pace lower than yesterday's total of 1,340,000 shares.

Stocks going higher included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Texas Co., Southern Pacific, American Telephone, Goodrich, International Nickel, Boeing, United Aircraft, American Cyanamid, Dow Chemical, and General Electric.

Corporate bonds moved narrowly. U. S. Governments in the over the counter market were steady.

Registration Due July 5 at School

Registration for summer session classes at Kingston High School will be Thursday, July 5, at 8:30 o'clock in the high school auditorium. Classes begin Friday morning.

Since the number of classes and type of courses to be offered are determined by the Thursday morning registration, a prompt registration at the stated time is necessary so that school authorities can plan to meet the demand for the various classes.

Education Board

amount, originally issued for the down payment on the site for the Washington School. This is a routine action recommended by the corporation counsel.

On motion of Trustee Baltz a credit of $80 was allowed the board because of substitution of galvanized iron ducts instead of copper ducts at the Washington School.

A contract to install folding door partition in the M.J.M. cafeteria was awarded M. Stanley Forgatch of Middletown, for the sum of $1,226.

E. H. Sheldon Company was awarded a contract to supply art room equipment at the Washington School for the sum of $4,531.60.

The Brodhead-Garrett Company, Cleveland, Ohio, was awarded a contract to supply shop equipment at the Washington School for the sum of $1,641.90 and the Patterson Brothers, New York city, was awarded a contract for other shop equipment for the sum of $1,186.60, each being low bidder for the articles to be supplied.

Central Hudson Paint and Wallpaper Company of North Front street was awarded a paint, varnish and white lead contract for the sum of $1,370.09, they being low bidder. There were five other bids ranging up to $1,588.27.

Shults Paint Company, Inc., was awarded a contract to supply six 55 gallon barrels of Minwax at $3.18 per gallon, or $1,049.40. A second bid from Island Dock, Inc., was for $3.54 per gallon.

A contract for window shades in several schools was awarded to Kingston Venetian Blind Company, low bidder, for $1,999.19.

Harvey Radio Company, Inc., was awarded a contract to supply audio-visual equipment in the amount of $330.90 and William O'Reilly, Inc., of Kingston, was awarded a contract to supply other equipment in the sum of $2,323.97.

Baker and Taylor Company, New York, was awarded a contract to supply library books for the sum of $1,640.81. There were two other bids.

Bank Depository

The Central Branch of the Kingston Trust Company was designated as the depository for all school extra-curricular activity accounts.

The matter of writing a comprehensive personal liability insurance policy to cover each member of the board against personal liability growing out of any legal action against such person as a member of the Board of Education, was discussed. Such insurance can be secured for $15 per year for each member and $37.50 for a three year term on each member. The matter will be further investigated.

President Rowland appointed a special committee to meet with the auditors and prepare figures to be submitted to the State Education relative to a petition from the Town of Ulster, now before the Commissioner, protesting the increase in non-resident tuition. On the committee are Trustees Herzog, O'Reilly and Fowler and President Rowland.

Trustee Kalish for the Athletic committee reported that a conference had been held on the proposal to open a football program in the M.J.M. school. The proposal was looked upon with favor and the school players will be supplied with uniforms and equipment.. The board approved the plan and the equipment will be purchased at a cost of approximately $975.

It was also suggested that season football tickets for all home games be issued, the price to be the same as for single game admissions. It was voted to try the plan this year.

The board adjourned to meet on August 2 at 7:30 p. m. to approve the tax list and authorize issuance of warrants.

northwest of Seoul. It was chosen by Red commanders.

Three Far Eastern radio stations began broadcasting Ridgeway's message at 3:30 p. m. Tuesday (11:30 p. m. Monday EST). That was exactly 39½ hours after Peng had answered the original U.N. armistice suggestion.

Carrier planes strafed, rocketed and bombed Chinnampo, port of Pyongyang.

On the battlefront more than 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel, allied tanks blasted at stubbornly defending Reds trying to stave off U.N. forces approaching Pyonggang, the northern apex of the old Communist "iron triangle." Pyonggang should not be confused with Pyongyang.)

That application was withdrawn "with prejudice" just before Dumaine's death.

Chinese and Americans alike were warned they would have to look to their national defenses despite cease fire talks.

China's Peiping Radio warned that China's own defenses would have to be strengthened once an armistice is effected.

In Washington U. S. Secretary of Defense Marshall said this is no time to let down America's guard.

Marshall said plans are to keep U. S. troops in Korea until "things are settled." And Moscow reported the Chinese probably will keep their troops in Korea as long as the Americans stay.

A field dispatch, delayed by military censors, said there was an unconfirmed report a new group of 70,000 Red troops had moved into position 50 miles northwest of Seoul. There have been previous reports of Reds shoving new forces in this area near Kaesong.

Kaesong was deserted when an allied patrol entered it last month.

Czech Embassy Rejects News Guild's Protest

Washington, July 3 (AP)—The Czech Embassy rejected as "insulting" today a protest by the American Newspaper Guild which accused Communist Czechoslovakia of extorting a "phony confession" of espionage from AP Correspondent William Oatis.

Harry Martin, president of the CIO union, took to the embassy a Guild resolution and a strongly-worded letter of his own. He was received by Jan Vinar, charge d'affaires, but their meeting broke up with Vinar stalking huffily out of the reception room.

Vinar told Martin he would not pass along the Guild's protest to his government because it contained "outrageous and insulting language."

When Vinar walked out, Martin put the Guild communications on Vinar's desk and left.

The resolution was adopted by the ANG convention at Pittsburgh last week. It condemned Oatis' arrest.

Martin's letter accused Czechoslovakia of "railroading Mr. Oatis to prison" and of extorting from him "under duress . . . one more in the growing series of phony confessions."

New Study Plan To Be Used in City For 9th, 10th Year

The entire community will become a classroom under a new plan of study to be offered on a limited scale at Kingston High School next fall.

The plan, which has been approved by the Board of Education, joins English, social studies and general science in a coordinated unit which will enable students to investigate, study and analyze the issues and problems of real life as it exists locally.

When school opens in the fall, the course will be offered on ninth and tenth year levels, available to between 90 and 100 students in

The plan illustrates the trend to think of education not merely in terms of books, credits, diplomas and degrees, but in terms of preparation for living and earning.

Freshmen, or ninth year students, will find the emphasis on citizenship obligations, duties and skills. Tenth year students, sophomores, will study family life, education and personal problems.

The plan takes advantage of modern techniques, and at the same time recaptures in part one of the almost lost features of the one-room school house of yesteryear: Students spend a greater amount of time under the guidance of one teacher, instead of shifting from one teacher to another every 40 minutes.

This greater period of time under one teacher means that the students will be able to make the necessary field trips to study at first hand such things as the operation of a local industry.

The teachers work in teams of three, each team consisting of an English teacher, a social studies teacher and a general science teacher.

The type of work visualized by those planning the course will cover a multitude of subjects.

Example Is Shown

As an example for explanatory purposes, John Henry Martin, high school principal, chose the Ulster county cement industry. If students were to explore that field, Martin pointed out, it would require actual trips to the mines. They would do research into the history of Ulster county cement and its importance to residents of some years ago. They would apply their science by analyzing the cement and comparing it with Portland cement. They would learn about the mushroom industry that has made use of many of the abandoned caves.

Such a program would necessitate interviewing many persons, both "old-timers" who might know about the industry in its prime, and persons at the mines that are still operating. To do that, Martin pointed out, students would be trained in the technique of interviewing. They would have to write reports, and those reports would be checked for correct use of English.

Participants Given

The success of this program depends in no small measure upon the cooperation of the general public. Already two groups of citizens have been meeting to help plan the course.

Members of the ninth year citizenship committee are City Judge Raymond Mino, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, Kenneth Davenport, Miss Elma Kullmann, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, Herman Gunter, George Yerry, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Mrs. Roger Billings, James Byrne, the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, Mrs. Herbert Greenwald, Mrs. John Hogan, Joseph Kelly, Lawrence MacAvery, Mrs. Thomas Plunkett, Lawrence Quilty and Alfred Schmid.

Teachers on the ninth year level participating in the plan are Alexander Banyo, Leo Dohney and Miss Mary Kelly.

Members of the tenth year family relations committee are Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. Robert Cousins, Mrs. Joseph Deegan, the Rev. Edward Farrelly, Mrs. Herbert Fister, the Rev. Ralph Houston, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Dr. Elbert MacFadden, Jr., Miss Katherine Murphy, Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, Henry Paley, Harry Rigby, Herbert L. Shultz, Mrs. Herbert Van Deusen, Miss Everice Parsons, Miss Clare Kelley, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport and the Rev. Burton Tarr.

Teachers participating on the tenth year level are Mrs. Thelma S. Schwab, Victor Mahony and Joseph Boswell. Teachers of the homemaking department have been and will continue working as consultants.

Two problems immediately present themselves when a broad study of family life is contemplated—sex and religion.

The position arrived at by those planning the family life course in regard to sex was explained this way by Mr. Martin:

"We do not contemplate, nor do we intend, to have sex education a part of the curriculum." He explained that it is the feeling that sex teaching is not a high school function.

"It is no longer a matter of physical facts, but of social behavior and morality," he said. The responsibility for teaching this subject belongs essentially to the home and church, he said.

Worked Out by Group

The matter of religion as it applies to the course is being worked out by a group of clergymen of different faiths. Although no religion as such will be taught, it is apparent that the course will have to take note of the fact that marriage is founded in God and the operation of the family depends upon a spiritual understanding. Just how this will be presented will be the subject of an inter-faith agreement on the religious basis of family life.

The new plan combining English, social studies and general science is being offered in the fall on a limited basis as a demonstration, but not as an experiment, its advocates point out. Similar plans are being followed in many other high schools in the country, and reports indicate they are successfuly drawing the school and the community closer together.

Children's Hour Slated at Library

A children's story hour has been scheduled at the Kingston Public Library each Saturday morning from July 7 to August 25, inclusive.

Two readers will be on duty each Saturday, one for children from three to six years and one for those between seven and 11. All children are welcome, the library trustees announced, pointing out that in many cities simjlar programs attract large numbers of children. Both age groups will meet from 10 to 11 a. m.

Members of the committee who will serve as readers and story tellers are Mrs. Ronald Herrick, Mrs. Harry Reppert, Mrs. William Oskay, Miss Lucinda Merritt, Mrs. John Clair, Mrs. Raymond W. Gilkey, Miss Bertha Parrish, Mrs. Phyllis Craft Smith and Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge.

Dewey Gets Scared When Stalin Smiles

Honolulu, July 3 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York passed through Honolulu last night on a trip to the warfront in Korea and other Asiatic points.

He told a news conference:

"Every time the Soviet Union makes a peace move, I get scared.

"Every time Stalin smiles, that's when I get concerned.

"The end of the Korean war is (sic) simply a change of strategy by the Soviet Union, but not a change of their intentions. They intend to conquer the world."

Dewey said the rest of the world should realize that a change in the American government does not represent a change in American government policy.

He arrived at 7:19 p. m. (12:19 a. m., EST Tuesday) and left at 10:10 p. m., (3:10 a. m., EST, Tuesday) via Pan American Airways.

About 200 persons greeted the former Republican presidential candidate.

"Run again!" some shouted.

"That will have to be somebody else," Dewey responded, waving.

Relations Established

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Formal diplomatic relations have been established between the U. S. and the West German republic. Dr. Heinz L. Krekeler, representative of the Bonn government, presented a letter of introduction to Secretary of State Acheson yesterday. The West German government was granted the right to carry on its own foreign affairs last fall. Krekeler is West German consul at New York and will continue to fill that post and act as charge d'affaires here.

Road May Carry Pilgrims

Cairo (AP) — Blueprints for a 4,765 mile road to carry Pakistani pilgrims to Mecca and Medina, the holy cities of Islam, are under study, according to the Arab News Agency. ANA, in a dispatch from Riad, the Saudi Arabian Capital, said the Pakistani mission has just concluded a 14-day survey of areas through which the planned highway would run.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, July 2—Tom Reardon, Brooklyn young man who spent several summers here as a boy, was in town during the week-end. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nunn of Long Island. Alfred formerly resided at Boiceville and his wife before marriage was Peggy Reardon. Tom reports that his father, John Reardon, a retired New York fireman, and mother are in good health.

Mrs. Earl Brundage of Kingston recently spent a week with her former neighbor here, Lydia Scott. Mrs. Brundage was a resident of Shokan for more than 20 years.

One of the village traffic observers reckons that literally hundreds of cars, loaded with children and household goods, went up the Onteora Trail Saturday. "What goes on in the big city," queried another, "have they had a bomb scare down there?"

Ira V. Warren, Kingston newspaper editor of long standing, was numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday afternoon.

Wednesday, July 4, marks the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Stoutenburg of West Hurley, who were married at Ashokan by the Rev. Hultz, pastor of the Methodist Church. Alton is widely known in water supply circles. Mrs. Stoutenburg was Beatrice Chase of Mt. Tremper. Another anniversary on July 4 is that of Chester and Ingrid Sharrocks, Richmond Hill, L. I. couple who are frequent summer visitors to Shokan. They were married in 1933 and have two sons.

Pfc. Franklin Shelightner, Port Ewen soldier in the Fourth Infantry Division, is a great grandson of Joseph Shelightner, Civil War veteran whose old stone farmhouse was along the hill road to Boiceville.

Thomas Corrigan, Jr., spent the week-end with his parents in the village center. Tom, one time professional baseball player with the Kingston Dodgers, winners of the 1947 North Atlantic league championship, is employed in the transport division of the American Can Company and also plays semi-pro ball in Connecticut.

John Bush, Krumville road stone mason, recently caught two 18-inch rainbow trout below the Spillway bridge and not far from the Esopus Creek. John used worms in getting his 2-pounders which presumably had been swept over the spillway crest during the big spring freshet.

Damages Are Awarded

New York, July 3 (AP)—The Kaiser-Frazer Corporation has been awarded $2,588,919 in damages from Otis & Company, Cleveland investment banking firm, for breach of contract. Federal Judge John W. Clancy ruled yesterday that the banking concern instigated a 1948 stockholder's suit against Kaiser-Frazer as an excuse to pull out of a $10,000,000 stock deal. In Cleveland, Otis said it would appeal the decision and that it had nothing to do with the stockholder's suit.

New Study Plan To Be Used in City For 9th, 10th Year

The entire community will become a classroom under a new plan of study to be offered on a limited scale at Kingston High School next fall.

The plan, which has been approved by the Board of Education, joins English, social studies and general science in a coordinated unit which will enable students to investigate, study and analyze the issues and problems of real life as it exists locally.

When school opens in the fall, the course will be offered on ninth and tenth year levels, available to between 90 and 100 students in

The plan illustrates the trend to think of education not merely in terms of books, credits, diplomas and degrees, but in terms of preparation for living and earning.

Freshmen, or ninth year students, will find the emphasis on citizenship obligations, duties and skills. Tenth year students, sophomores, will study family life, education and personal problems.

The plan takes advantage of modern techniques, and at the same time recaptures in part one of the almost lost features of the one-room school house of yesteryear: Students spend a greater amount of time under the guidance of one teacher, instead of shifting from one teacher to another every 40 minutes.

This greater period of time under one teacher means that the students will be able to make the necessary field trips to study at first hand such things as the operation of a local industry.

The teachers work in teams of three, each team consisting of an English teacher, a social studies teacher and a general science teacher.

Example Is Shown

As an example for explanatory purposes, John Henry Martin, high school principal, chose the Ulster county cement industry. If students were to explore that field, Martin pointed out, it would require actual trips to the mines. They would do research into the history of Ulster county cement and its importance to residents of some years ago. They would apply their science by analyzing the cement and comparing it with Portland cement. They would learn about the mushroom industry that has made use of many of the abandoned caves.

Such a program would necessitate interviewing many persons, both "old-timers" who might know about the industry in its prime, and persons at the mines that are still operating. To do that, Martin pointed out, students would be trained in the technique of interviewing. They would have to write reports, and those reports would be checked for correct use of English.

Participants Given

The success of this program depends in no small measure upon the cooperation of the general public. Already two groups of citizens have been meeting to help plan the course.

Members of the ninth year citizenship committee are City Judge Raymond Mino, Dr. Herbert Derman, Mrs. Kenneth Davenport, Kenneth Davenport, Miss Elma Kullmann, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, Herman Gunter, George Yerry, Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Mrs. Roger Billings, James Byrne, the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, Mrs. Herbert Greenwald, Mrs. John Hogan, Joseph Kelly, Lawrence MacAvery, Mrs. Thomas Plunkett, Lawrence Quilty and Alfred Schmid.

Teachers on the ninth year level participating in the plan are Alexander Banyo, Leo Dohney and Miss Mary Kelly.

Members of the tenth year family relations committee are Mrs. Charles Arnold, Mrs. Vincent Connelly, Mrs. Robert Cousins, Mrs. Joseph Deegan, the Rev. Edward Farrelly, Mrs. Herbert Fister, the Rev. Ralph Houston, Mrs. Richard Kalish, Dr. Elbert MacFadden, Jr., Miss Katherine Murphy, Mrs. Arthur E. Oudemool, Henry Paley, Harry Rigby, Herbert L. Shultz, Mrs. Herbert Van Deusen, Miss Everice Parsons, Miss Clare Kelley, Mrs. Raymond Gilkey, Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport and the Rev. Burton Tarr.

Teachers participating on the tenth year level are Mrs. Thelma S. Schwab, Victor Mahony and Joseph Boswell. Teachers of the homemaking department have been and will continue working as consultants.

Two problems immediately present themselves when a broad study of family life is contemplated—sex and religion.

The position arrived at by those planning the family life course in regard to sex was explained this way by Mr. Martin:

"We do not contemplate, nor do we intend, to have sex education a part of the curriculum." He explained that it is the feeling that sex teaching is not a high school function.

"It is no longer a matter of physical facts, but of social behavior and morality," he said. The responsibility for teaching this subject belongs essentially to the home and church, he said.

Worked Out by Group

The matter of religion as it applies to the course is being worked out by a group of clergymen of different faiths. Although no religion as such will be taught, it is apparent that the course will have to take note of the fact that marriage is founded in God and the operation of the family depends upon a spiritual understanding. Just how this will be presented will be the subject of an inter-faith agreement on the religious basis of family life.

The new plan combining English, social studies and general science is being offered in the fall on a limited basis as a demonstration, but not as an experiment, its advocates point out. Similar plans are being followed in many other high schools in the country, and reports indicate they are successfuly drawing the school and the community closer together.

Dewey Gets Scared When Stalin Smiles

Honolulu, July 3 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York passed through Honolulu last night on a trip to the warfront in Korea and other Asiatic points.

He told a news conference:

"Every time the Soviet Union makes a peace move, I get scared.

"Every time Stalin smiles, that's when I get concerned.

"The end of the Korean war is (sic) simply a change of strategy by the Soviet Union, but not a change of their intentions. They intend to conquer the world."

Dewey said the rest of the world should realize that a change in the American government does not represent a change in American government policy.

He arrived at 7:19 p. m. (12:19 a. m., EST Tuesday) and left at 10:10 p. m., (3:10 a. m., EST, Tuesday) via Pan American Airways.

About 200 persons greeted the former Republican presidential candidate.

"Run again!" some shouted.

"That will have to be somebody else," Dewey responded, waving.

Relations Established

Washington, July 3 (AP)—Formal diplomatic relations have been established between the U. S. and the West German republic. Dr. Heinz L. Krekeler, representative of the Bonn government, presented a letter of introduction to Secretary of State Acheson yesterday. The West German government was granted the right to carry on its own foreign affairs last fall. Krekeler is West German consul at New York and will continue to fill that post and act as charge d'affaires here.

Road May Carry Pilgrims

Cairo (AP) — Blueprints for a 4,765 mile road to carry Pakistani pilgrims to Mecca and Medina, the holy cities of Islam, are under study, according to the Arab News Agency. ANA, in a dispatch from Riad, the Saudi Arabian Capital, said the Pakistani mission has just concluded a 14-day survey of areas through which the planned highway would run.

Children's Hour Slated at Library

A children's story hour has been scheduled at the Kingston Public Library each Saturday morning from July 7 to August 25, inclusive.

Two readers will be on duty each Saturday, one for children from three to six years and one for those between seven and 11. All children are welcome, the library trustees announced, pointing out that in many cities simjlar programs attract large numbers of children. Both age groups will meet from 10 to 11 a. m.

Members of the committee who will serve as readers and story tellers are Mrs. Ronald Herrick, Mrs. Harry Reppert, Mrs. William Oskay, Miss Lucinda Merritt, Mrs. John Clair, Mrs. Raymond W. Gilkey, Miss Bertha Parrish, Mrs. Phyllis Craft Smith and Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, July 2—Tom Reardon, Brooklyn young man who spent several summers here as a boy, was in town during the week-end. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nunn of Long Island. Alfred formerly resided at Boiceville and his wife before marriage was Peggy Reardon. Tom reports that his father, John Reardon, a retired New York fireman, and mother are in good health.

Mrs. Earl Brundage of Kingston recently spent a week with her former neighbor here, Lydia Scott. Mrs. Brundage was a resident of Shokan for more than 20 years.

One of the village traffic observers reckons that literally hundreds of cars, loaded with children and household goods, went up the Onteora Trail Saturday. "What goes on in the big city," queried another, "have they had a bomb scare down there?"

Ira V. Warren, Kingston newspaper editor of long standing, was numbered among callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday afternoon.

Wednesday, July 4, marks the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Stoutenburg of West Hurley, who were married at Ashokan by the Rev. Hultz, pastor of the Methodist Church. Alton is widely known in water supply circles. Mrs. Stoutenburg was Beatrice Chase of Mt. Tremper. Another anniversary on July 4 is that of Chester and Ingrid Sharrocks, Richmond Hill, L. I. couple who are frequent summer visitors to Shokan. They were married in 1933 and have two sons.

Pfc. Franklin Shelightner, Port Ewen soldier in the Fourth Infantry Division, is a great grandson of Joseph Shelightner, Civil War veteran whose old stone farmhouse was along the hill road to Boiceville.

Thomas Corrigan, Jr., spent the week-end with his parents in the village center. Tom, one time professional baseball player with the Kingston Dodgers, winners of the 1947 North Atlantic league championship, is employed in the transport division of the American Can Company and also plays semi-pro ball in Connecticut.

John Bush, Krumville road stone mason, recently caught two 18-inch rainbow trout below the Spillway bridge and not far from the Esopus Creek. John used worms in getting his 2-pounders which presumably had been swept over the spillway crest during the big spring freshet.

Damages Are Awarded

New York, July 3 (AP)—The Kaiser-Frazer Corporation has been awarded $2,588,919 in damages from Otis & Company, Cleveland investment banking firm, for breach of contract. Federal Judge John W. Clancy ruled yesterday that the banking concern instigated a 1948 stockholder's suit against Kaiser-Frazer as an excuse to pull out of a $10,000,000 stock deal. In Cleveland, Otis said it would appeal the decision and that it had nothing to do with the stockholder's suit.

THE CAUSE OF INDEPENDENCE

All Americans cherish the way their ancestors wrested their freedom from the British. Independence Day symbolizes that feeling of pride.

With the menace of Communist Russia abroad in the world, it is particularly fitting that we rededicate ourselves each year to that spirit of independence. We cannot be too zealous in guarding the freedom we fought so bravely to win nearly 200 years ago.

With our long heralded tradition of freedom and independence, we have served the world as model. More than this, we have lent moral and sometimes practical support to other peoples struggling to gain their own independence.

At the peace conference following World War I, "self-determination"—the right of a people to govern themselves—was strongly championed by President Woodrow Wilson. The peace treaties marked the birth of a number of new nations.

Some will say we pushed this movement for independence too far, that we assisted in creation of countries not yet equipped politically to govern themselves and incapable of supplying more than a fair fraction of their fundamental economic needs. Austria, a tiny frame for huge Vienna, is cited as example.

But actually the problem thus created is merely the same economic and political disunity which haunts the whole of Europe. The small nations are but exaggerated illustrations.

The ultimate solution apparently lies in some kind of European federation which will yet allow independence-loving peoples a large measure of self-government and cultural distinction.

Of more pressing concern right now is the upsurge of independence in the Asiatic world. A long smoldering spirit has at last broken the surface. World War II, smashing the colonial mold in the Orient, provided the final explosive force. It precipitated a social and political revolution that is engulfing Asia.

The Asiatics today are peoples who want a better life for themselves, and they want to be the ones to decide what sort of life it will be.

This we must understand. Some of us see Asia as a land which must be "shown" the ways of democracy. But the Asiatics associate westerners with colonialism, and we cannot hope to eradicate quickly their bitter memories of past oppression.

In keeping with our tradition of helping others to independence, we must be wholly sympathetic to their self-governing impulses. We must lend every aid we can, but without seeking in any fashion to impose upon them any part of our own pattern of life. They have to judge for themselves what we have that they might wish to copy.

So far we Americans have not been too aware of the depth and strength of Asia's postwar stirrings. This day of independence here is a good day to resolve that once more the United States will stand with the seekers after independence—as we have always done before.

PLEASURE FROM EFFORT

Nothing looks easier or more graceful than sailing along in a small boat. The wind takes the canvas and the boat seems to glide along. The watcher on the shore might be prone to think the hobby one for a lazy man. Such is not the case, for the amateur sailor must work long hours painting and repairing his boat to keep it seaworthy. He has spent much time learning the delicate work of handling the craft and making it respond to his wishes.

Things which seem easy to the casual observer are usually the result of hard work on someone's part. The more time and effort put into doing something the easier it is likely to seem, and the more pleasure it is likely to bring. Sailing a boat in a good wind is a pleasure worth all the time and effort it costs. This is true of most good things in life.

A forgetful husband may be disturbing to the woman of the house. But a remembering wife can also undo friend husband in a hurry.

In any group of personalities there are bound to be a few poisonalities.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NATURE'S LAW

Fundamentally, this nation owes its existence to the yearning of men for liberty of person—to the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

For 169 years, prior to the American Revolution, the men and women who had come to these shores from many countries, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Sweden, Holland, Spain, Portugal, and even Poland, concerned themselves with these problems. They were adherents of many different and separate religious faiths which they wished to pursue without hindrance.

No one had come to the North American continent because of a deep yearning to be here. Most of the immigrants uprooted themselves from the soil of their ancestors and the traditions of centuries because their days had become filled with miseries. They had suffered religious, social, economic, and political persecution. They left Europe to find freedom.

Their problems and discussions were not unlike those of Job and his friends who, no matter how much they rationalized the situation, were everlastingly faced by the same mystery: What is man? Why is he different from all else in nature? What is his relationship to God? Job put it this way:

"As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgment; and the Almighty, who hath vexed my soul;

All the while my breath is in me, and the spirit of God is in my nostrils;

My lips shall not speak wickedness, nor my tongue utter deceit.

God forbid that I should justify you: Till I die I will not remove mine integrity from me.

My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go: My heart shall not reproach me so long as I live."

When the 56 men who prepared the Declaration of Independence met to consider separation from Great Britain, they found that they required not one but two statements. The second was a bill of particulars as to the political causes for the separation. This statement makes interesting reading this year, particularly the complaint that deals with depreciated currency.

However, that bill of particulars was not sufficient for such men as Jefferson, Franklin, and the Adamses. They were philosophers who could not get away from the problem that had been troubling their ancestors for so many generations.

Mere political separation meant too little until morality, that is natural law, the revealed law of God, justified not only the separation but the existence of the new state. That involved them in one of the most curious phenomena in history, for they founded a new nation not on power but on morality; not in protest but in affirmation. The first statement in the Declaration of Independence has nothing to do with whether England was right or wrong; it had to do with man's relationship to God.

In a word, the American nation came into existence on the affirmation that man is a creation of God and is graced with qualities that are His, at birth, as a special gift from God. Upon these words rests the American nation:

"When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. . . ."

In these days of intellectual and moral confusion these words need to be pondered. For nations come and go in history, their strength powered by a spiritual dynamism. Their decay rarely is the product of material deterioration or defeat in war. These are results, not causes. Their decay is the product of the weakening of their spiritual motivation. A nation that has no faith in its own traditions has no faith in itself and will die.

Our tradition is summarized in the first hundred words or so of the Declaration of Independence. On that rocks, we stand.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

HEADACHES DUE TO ALLERGY

Muscle spasm due to nodules or lumps in muscle at the back of neck are the commonest cause of headaches which extend from forehead to back of head and neck.

That allergy also may be a cause of pain in back of neck is reported by Journal of Allergy by Dr. Theron G. Randall, Northwestern University. Pulling, drawing, tightness and aching of the cervical (back of neck) muscles without any abnormal condition of the muscles and bones in the neck region is often due to allergy.

This syndrome (set of symptoms) has been repeatedly seen after the exposure to foods or airborne substances of persons who are oversensitive or allergic to those substances. (While these symptoms are more often caused by foods than by breathing in substances floating in the air, identical symptoms due to house dust have been observed). The pain disappears when the patient is not eating these foods or breathing in these substances in the air.

Patients usually show other signs of alergy besides these aches at back of head and neck, such as sneezing and running nose, occasional cramps in abdomen and diarrhoea, headaches, nausea, dizziness and urticaria (hives). Other muscle groups involved are those of the legs, back, chest and abdomen.

Dr. Randall states that this myalgia (muscle pain) has been called "tension headache," pointed out by Dr. Ralph Stevens, Walla Walla, but allergic fatigue would, perhaps, be a better name for many cases.

No claim is made that all cases of pain in the neck are due to allergy; however, patients showing clearcut symptoms of allergy, as mentioned above—sneezing, running nose, hives—when there is no change or abnormal condition of muscles and bones, should be regarded as being allergic until a satisfactory relationship between cause and effect has been definitely shown.

We thus have two known causes of back of neck pain (aside from injury): allergy and emotional tension. If no other allergic symptoms are present, then finding the emotional disturbance and learning how to overcome it would be in order.

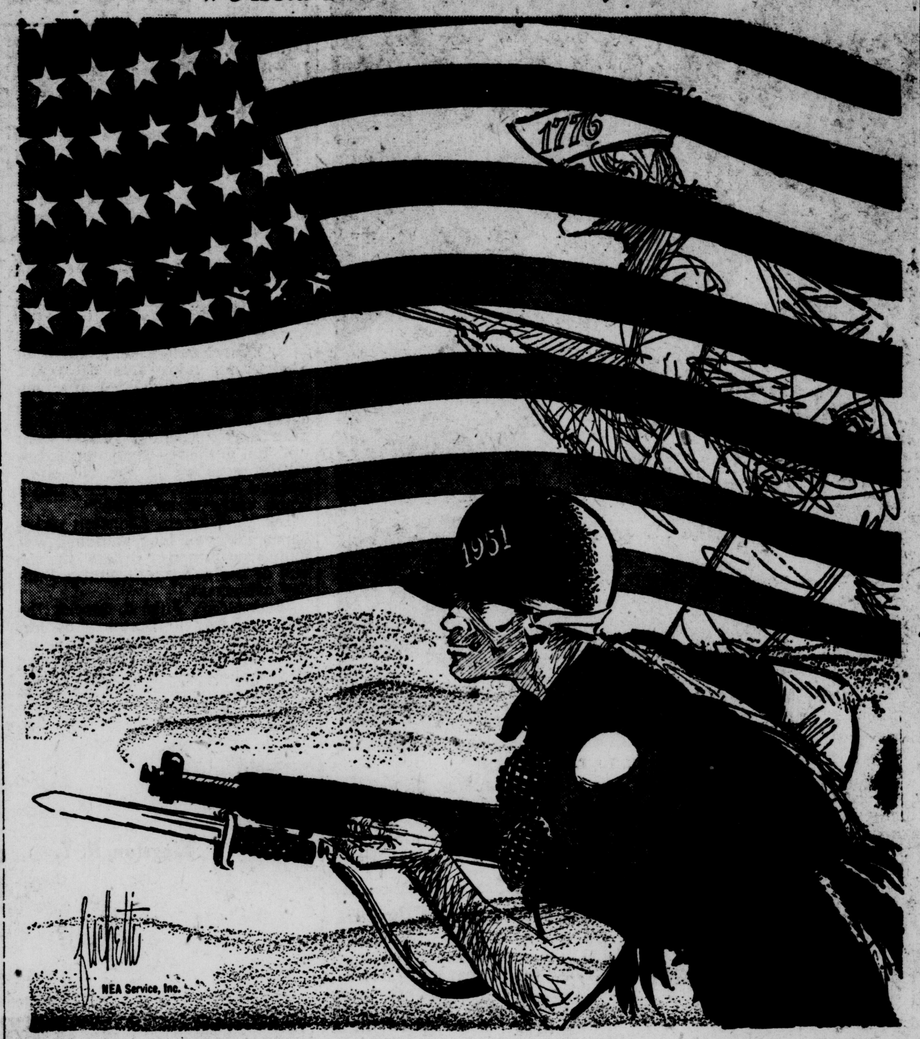
'We Hold These Truths to Be Self-Evident'



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The law partners of Louis Johnson, former secretary of defense, and the relatives of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek have just been caught shipping strategic tin to Communist China—despite the fact that both Johnson and the Chiang family have been urging all-out American aid to Nationalist China on the island of Formosa.

The tin shipments totalled 123 tons, which is a tremendous amount of this strategic metal. This quantity definitely went to the Communists in Tientsin in 1949 under an invalid license. An additional 90 tons of tin was sent to Shanghai through a phony license in the spring of 1949 and probably went to the Communists also—though this is not definite.

The shipments were so carefully camouflaged by false representations and certifications that it took some time for Secretary of Commerce Sawyer to discover the tin shipments. However, he has now taken vigorous action and has suspended the dummy trading corporation, set up by his former cabinet colleague, from getting further export licenses for a total of three years.

It is significant that Louis Johnson, when secretary of defense, was the most ardent advocate of sending American aid to the Chiang Kai-shek group in Formosa. In various debates inside the cabinet and with the State Department, he consistently hammered home the importance of Formosa. The State Department disagreed and the Joint Chiefs of Staff partially disagreed with him.

At no time during these discussions, so far as can be ascertained, did Johnson disclose that he or his law firm acted as the attorney for Chiang Kai-shek's relatives. Nor was it ever disclosed that, at the very same time Johnson proposed aid to Chiang, both Chiang's relatives and Johnson's own partners were shipping strategic tin to Chiang's enemies, the Communists.

Johnson Didn't Know

Johnson has the excuse that he did not know what the dummy corporation set up by his law firm was doing, since in 1940 he had become secretary of defense. However, there appears to be no excuse for Johnson having failed to acquaint the public or his cabinet colleagues with his firm's legal fees from the Chiang family during the occasions when he vigorously urged aid to Chiang.

The corporation which shipped the tin to Communist China is the Yangtze Trading Corporation, and its setup is extremely interesting. It was incorporated by the Johnson firm in 1943, long before Johnson entered the cabinet and appears to be one of the screens for the financial operations of Chiang's brothers-in-law, reported to be among the wealthiest men in this country.

The firm's manager is E. Y. Soong, nephew of T. V. Soong, the former foreign minister of China and brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-Shek. Its largest stockholder is L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another Chiang brother-in-law. Soong is the brother of Madame Chiang, while Dr. Kung married Madame Chiang's sister. Both Soong and Kung have lived in the United States in recent years and occupy palatial estates in Westchester county outside New York city.

E. Y. Soong, nephew of the former foreign minister, and manager of the Yangtze Corporation, has been officially charged by the Commerce Department with switching shipments of tinplate to consignees in China not authorized to receive them. He is also charged with permitting another company to ship tin to Communist China under an export license issued by the Yangtze Corporation.

Soong Admits Guilt

Soong admitted the charges and waived all rights to a hearing, tantamount to an admission of guilt.

In addition to Soong and Kung, the other officers in the Yangtze Trading Corporation are law partners of ex-Secretary Johnson. Chairman of the Board is Chesney M. Carney, a partner in steptoe and Johnson. President and secretary of the firm are George W. McQuain and Kingsley R. Smith, also Johnson's law partners.

Together they own 555 shares of stock, part of which was in payment for legal services. Largest stockholder is L. K. Kung, son of Chiang's brother-in-law, who owns 925 shares, while C. H. Chao owns 870 shares.

A fourth Johnson partner, Donald Lincoln, is also a director in three subsidiaries of the Yangtze Trading Corporation, the Cosmopolitan Supply Co., the Metropolitan Trading Corporation, and the Pan-Continental Trading Corporation.

The Yangtze Corporation is listed with the New York secretary of state in Albany as being a West Virginia corporation with offices in the Union Bank building at Clarksburg, W. Va., and the Kanawha Valley building at Charleston, W. Va. These two buildings are also where the Louey Johnson law firm has its offices.

The 123-ton shipments of tin to China arrived in Tientsin in August and September 1949, eight months after Tientsin fell into the hands of the Communists so there could be no possible plea of ignorance in making the shipment. Furthermore the license was invalid.

It was in November and December 1949, that Johnson first began battling inside the cabinet for aid to Formosa.

The additional 90 tons which went to Shanghai through a trick license deal, left New York in March and April 1949. And since it takes about two months for the delivery of such cargo, and since Shanghai fell to the Communists on May 24, 1949, this 90 tons also probably fell into Communist hands. Johnson had become secretary of Defense in March 1949.

Secretary Sawyer's Office of International Trade, commenting on the transaction, said:

". . . respondents in effectuating the exportations hereinabove described, made false representations and certifications on each of the shipper's export declarations filed with and authenticated by the collector of customs at New York, New York, as to the identity of the purchaser and ultimate consignee and that the specified license named therein authorized such exportation.

"In addition, it is alleged that said respondents using and permitting the use of validated export licenses, shipper's export declarations and bills of lading to effect exportations pursuant to collusive agreement with another company, without the authorization of the Office of International Trade, constituted illegal trafficking in such export control documents."

Mystery of Malik Proposal Is Beginning to Show—General Conference at Moscow

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 3—The mystery of the Malik proposal of a "cease fire" in the Korean war is beginning to unravel. Back of it apparently is a desire to force a general conference at Moscow on the very same over-all questions on which the parley of deputy foreign ministers in Paris broke down.

The plan presumably is to agree to an armistice in Korea and then propose a peace conference which shall ostensibly have as its object the establishment of peace in the Far East. The western powers could hardly keep on fighting in Korea because they refused to attend a peace conference in Moscow.

The first hint of what is going on came within the last 24 hours in a dispatch from the United Press correspondent in Moscow. Considering that all press dispatches from Russia are censored, the approval of this particular message for transmission takes on added significance. Usually the Russians allow messages to come out only if they coincide with Soviet plans or purposes. The message said:

"Western diplomats predict that the U.N. Communist military commanders will reach quick agreement on a Korean armistice.

"But, they said, a Korean political settlement will take much longer because it will involve a formal conference not only of the belligerents, but also Russia and all other interested powers. Hurdling of the cease-fire obstacle nevertheless was expected to clear the air and pave the way for a general political conference.

"Diplomats suggested that the conference might be convened in Moscow, not only because it lies geographically between East and West but because all the major powers involved—including Red China and North Korea—are represented here."

What could be more simple—as the Russians see it—than a meeting at the Russian capital? There it would be easier for the Soviets to exert their influence on the Red Chinese without the difficulties of long-range communication between Peiping and the Soviet capital.

Likewise, what could be more suitable to the Soviet purposes just now than to have maneuvered the American government into sending delegates once more to sit at the feet of Josef Stalin and beg for reasonableness and terms of agreement, as so many American envoys have done in the last several years?

The foreign ministers conference—arrangements for which broke down at the Paris preliminary meeting after several weeks of bickering—was supposed to be held in Washington. The Russian government evidently didn't want it to be held here. For Mr. Gromyko, the deputy foreign minister of Soviet Russia, kept adding more and more items to the agenda and was believed to have been surprised when the deadlock failed to produce any meeting at all. He hurried back to Moscow where he immediately began to preside over a settlement of the Korean war. It was he who received American Ambassador Kirk.

The effort to bring about a conference of an over-all nature appears to have been resumed. Is this a sign of Russian weakness or strength? For reasons that have never been clear to our own government, the Soviet regime has tried to get an international conference going. Primarily, it is believed the Soviet thought has been to attempt by propaganda or otherwise to prevent the rearmament of Germany and the building up of the military strength of the North Atlantic treaty organization in Europe. Having failed at Paris to achieve such a result, it is logical for the Soviets to try to tie a settlement of the Korean war together with the original objectives for an over-all agreement on European items.

If this is the true Russian maneuver, it will put the western powers on the spot. They will have to go to Moscow or be accused throughout the world of blocking peace and of wishing to keep on fighting the Korean war. The "cease fire" terms in themselves are not difficult to arrange but every armistice must have a provision in it as to what happens afterward, if it is only the setting up of machinery for the time and place for the representatives of the belligerents to meet to try to establish peace.

It could be that the Soviets will not ask to sit in on the Korean conference itself but, if it is held in Moscow and representatives of the 16 nations which have troops in Korea go there for the parleys, it could easily be the occasion for a coincident conference on over-all problems affecting international tension, including perhaps even the signing of the forthcoming treaty with Japan, which Russia has thus far been inclined to block.

It is interesting to note that a few hours after publication of the Moscow dispatch mentioned above, Communist China broadcast over the Peiping radio an editorial from the official daily of the Red China government which, after discussing the plan for the "cease fire" conference, said:

"The people of the world believe settlement of the Korean war will pave the way for solving Far Eastern and other world problems."

Obviously the "world problems" referred to are those which the Soviet has been trying to put on the agenda at Paris for a foreign ministers conference. The whole plan of Soviet strategy behind the "cease fire" seems to get clearer and clearer.

Shreveport, La., July 2—Coming from the propagandists of the Truman bureaucracy in Washington, the charge that the western cattleraisers are on strike should be easy for them to bear. The right to strike and the implied right of strikers to pull the electric switches in hospitals, throwing operating-rooms into blackness and stalling elevators between floors with life-and-death cases on the stretchers, was established in Flint, Mich. during the grand crusade which created the CIO.

The right to strike has been defended by all adherents of the Roosevelt and Truman presidencies since the massive treasons of 1937 and a red-meat shortage in the centers of industrial population would cause no worse suffering than what millions of the same ants endured at the hands of the New York bus-drivers under Mike Quill and the elevator jockeys under Georgio Scalise, of the Capone syndicate. In gasping-hot weather, Quill's patriots ran their tanks in low-gear for days and days by order of Scalise. The perpendicular transportation stopped dead. Walking, in both cases, was a hardship on the citizens and probably was fatal to some cardiacs. But that was fair wear and tear.

A temporary want of red meat would be a minor hardship, but the question is not how much the public suffers from a strike but whether the strike is an exclusive weapon of one set of predators and denied to all others. Courts have hed that it is exclusive, but this case is beyond the scope of the precedents.

The cattle-raisers refuse to sell their brutes for prices hit upon by Mike DiSalle, a dead-end politician and ethical credit to the Toledo phase of the CIO. No man can be forced to sell his labor for less than his own price. In most cases, beef on the hoof is property acquired by an individual no less horny-handed and no less selfish than the pickets of the United Auto Workers who won their price for their work with the blackjack, tire-chain, acid bomb and gun. The owner of the steer paid for it in money earned by toil or by luck with a pair of dice on a horse-blanket. It is his beef and if DiSalle's Toledo constituents want it, they will have to pay for it in the same coin and in the same proportions that the catteman pays for his pick-up, his tractor and his mechanized

All Americans cherish the way their ancestors wrested their freedom from the British. Independence Day symbolizes that feeling of pride.

With the menace of Communist Russia abroad in the world, it is particularly fitting that we rededicate ourselves each year to that spirit of independence. We cannot be too zealous in guarding the freedom we fought so bravely to win nearly 200 years ago.

With our long heralded tradition of freedom and independence, we have served the world as model. More than this, we have lent moral and sometimes practical support to other peoples struggling to gain their own independence.

At the peace conference following World War I, "self-determination"—the right of a people to govern themselves—was strongly championed by President Woodrow Wilson. The peace treaties marked the birth of a number of new nations.

Some will say we pushed this movement for independence too far, that we assisted in creation of countries not yet equipped politically to govern themselves and incapable of supplying more than a fair fraction of their fundamental economic needs. Austria, a tiny frame for huge Vienna, is cited as example.

But actually the problem thus created is merely the same economic and political disunity which haunts the whole of Europe. The small nations are but exaggerated illustrations.

The ultimate solution apparently lies in some kind of European federation which will yet allow independence-loving peoples a large measure of self-government and cultural distinction.

Of more pressing concern right now is the upsurge of independence in the Asiatic world. A long smoldering spirit has at last broken the surface. World War II, smashing the colonial mold in the Orient, provided the final explosive force. It precipitated a social and political revolution that is engulfing Asia.

The Asiatics today are peoples who want a better life for themselves, and they want to be the ones to decide what sort of life it will be.

This we must understand. Some of us see Asia as a land which must be "shown" the ways of democracy. But the Asiatics associate westerners with colonialism, and we cannot hope to eradicate quickly their bitter memories of past oppression.

In keeping with our tradition of helping others to independence, we must be wholly sympathetic to their self-governing impulses. We must lend every aid we can, but without seeking in any fashion to impose upon them any part of our own pattern of life. They have to judge for themselves what we have that they might wish to copy.

So far we Americans have not been too aware of the depth and strength of Asia's postwar stirrings. This day of independence here is a good day to resolve that once more the United States will stand with the seekers after independence—as we have always done before.

PLEASURE FROM EFFORT

Nothing looks easier or more graceful than sailing along in a small boat. The wind takes the canvas and the boat seems to glide along. The watcher on the shore might be prone to think the hobby one for a lazy man. Such is not the case, for the amateur sailor must work long hours painting and repairing his boat to keep it seaworthy. He has spent much time learning the delicate work of handling the craft and making it respond to his wishes.

Things which seem easy to the casual observer are usually the result of hard work on someone's part. The more time and effort put into doing something the easier it is likely to seem, and the more pleasure it is likely to bring. Sailing a boat in a good wind is a pleasure worth all the time and effort it costs. This is true of most good things in life.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

NATURE'S LAW

Fundamentally, this nation owes its existence to the yearning of men for liberty of person—to the inalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

For 169 years, prior to the American Revolution, the men and women who had come to these shores from many countries, England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Sweden, Holland, Spain, Portugal and even Poland, concerned themselves with these problems. They were adherents of many different and separate religious faiths which they wished to pursue without hindrance.

No one had come to the North American continent because of a deep yearning to be here. Most of the immigrants uprooted themselves from the soil of their ancestors and the traditions of centuries because their days had become filled with miseries. They had suffered religious, social, economic, and political persecution. They left Europe to find freedom.

Their problems and discussions were not unlike those of Job and his friends who, no matter how much they rationalized the situation, were everlastingly faced by the same mystery: What is man? Why is he different from all else in nature? What is his relationship to God? Job put it this way:

"As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgment; and the Almighty, who hath vexed my soul;

All the while my breath is in me, and the spirit of God is in my nostrils;

My lips shall not speak wickedness, nor my tongue utter deceit.

God forbid that I should justify you: Till I die I will not remove mine integrity from me.

My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go: My heart shall not reproach me so long as I live."

When the 56 men who prepared the Declaration of Independence met to consider separation from Great Britain, they found that they required not one but two statements. The second was a bill of particulars as to the political causes for the separation. This statement makes interesting reading this year, particularly the complaint that deals with depreciated currency.

However, that bill of particulars was not sufficient for such men as Jefferson, Franklin, and the Adamses. They were philosophers who could not get away from the problem that had been troubling their ancestors for so many generations.

Mere political separation meant too little until morality, that is natural law, the revealed law of God, justified not only the separation but the existence of the new state. That involved them in one of the most curious phenomena in history, for they founded a new nation not on power but on morality; not in protest but in affirmation. The first statement in the Declaration of Independence has nothing to do with whether England was right or wrong; it had to do with man's relationship to God.

In a word, the American nation came into existence on the affirmation that man is a creation of God and is graced with qualities that are His, at birth, as a special gift from God. Upon these words rests the American nation:

"When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. . . ."

In these days of intellectual and moral confusion these words need to be pondered. For nations come and go in history, their strength powered by a spiritual dynamism. Their decay rarely is the product of material deterioration or defeat in war. These are results, not causes. Their decay is the product of the weakening of their spiritual motivation. A nation that has no faith in its own traditions has no faith in itself and will die.

Our tradition is summarized in the first hundred words or so of the Declaration of Independence. On that rocks, we stand.

HEADACHES DUE TO ALLERGY

Muscle spasm due to nodules or lumps in muscle at the back of neck are the commonest cause of headaches which extend from forehead to back of head and neck.

That allergy also may be a cause of pain in back of neck is reported by Journal of Allergy by Dr. Theron G. Randall, Northwestern University. Pulling, drawing, tightness and aching of the cervical (back of neck) muscles without any abnormal condition of the muscles and bones in the neck region is often due to allergy.

This syndrome (set of symptoms) has been repeatedly seen after the exposure to foods or airborne substances of persons who are oversensitive or allergic to those substances. (While these symptoms are more often caused by foods than by breathing in substances floating in the air, identical symptoms due to house dust have been observed). The pain disappears when the patient is not eating these foods or breathing in these substances in the air.

Patients usually show other signs of alergy besides these aches at back of head and neck, such as sneezing and running nose, occasional cramps in abdomen and diarrhoea, headaches, nausea, dizziness and urticaria (hives). Other muscle groups involved are those of the legs, back, chest and abdomen.

Dr. Randall states that this myalgia (muscle pain) has been called "tension headache," pointed out by Dr. Ralph Stevens, Walla Walla, but allergic fatigue would, perhaps, be a better name for many cases.

No claim is made that all cases of pain in the neck are due to allergy; however, patients showing clearcut symptoms of allergy, as mentioned above—sneezing, running nose, hives—when there is no change or abnormal condition of muscles and bones, should be regarded as being allergic until a satisfactory relationship between cause and effect has been definitely shown.

We thus have two known causes of back of neck pain (aside from injury): allergy and emotional tension. If no other allergic symptoms are present, then finding the emotional disturbance and learning how to overcome it would be in order.

'We Hold These Truths to Be Self-Evident'

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The law partners of Louis Johnson, former secretary of defense, and the relatives of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek have just been caught shipping strategic tin to Communist China—despite the fact that both Johnson and the Chiang family have been urging all-out American aid to Nationalist China on the island of Formosa.

The tin shipments totalled 123 tons, which is a tremendous amount of this strategic metal. This quantity definitely went to the Communists in Tientsin in 1949 under an invalid license. An additional 90 tons of tin was sent to Shanghai through a phony license in the spring of 1949 and probably went to the Communists also—though this is not definite.

The shipments were so carefully camouflaged by false representations and certifications that it took some time for Secretary of Commerce Sawyer to discover the tin shipments. However, he has now taken vigorous action and has suspended the dummy trading corporation, set up by his former cabinet colleague, from getting further export licenses for a total of three years.

It is significant that Louis Johnson, when secretary of defense, was the most ardent advocate of sending American aid to the Chiang Kai-shek group in Formosa. In various debates inside the cabinet and with the State Department, he consistently hammered home the importance of Formosa. The State Department disagreed and the Joint Chiefs of Staff partially disagreed with him.

At no time during these discussions, so far as can be ascertained, did Johnson disclose that he or his law firm acted as the attorney for Chiang Kai-shek's relatives. Nor was it ever disclosed that, at the very same time Johnson proposed aid to Chiang, both Chiang's relatives and Johnson's own partners were shipping strategic tin to Chiang's enemies, the Communists.

Johnson Didn't Know

Johnson has the excuse that he did not know what the dummy corporation set up by his law firm was doing, since in 1940 he had become secretary of defense. However, there appears to be no excuse for Johnson having failed to acquaint the public or his cabinet colleagues with his firm's legal fees from the Chiang family during the occasions when he vigorously urged aid to Chiang.

The corporation which shipped the tin to Communist China is the Yangtze Trading Corporation, and its setup is extremely interesting. It was incorporated by the Johnson firm in 1943, long before Johnson entered the cabinet and appears to be one of the screens for the financial operations of Chiang's brothers-in-law, reported to be among the wealthiest men in this country.

The firm's manager is E. Y. Soong, nephew of T. V. Soong, the former foreign minister of China and brother-in-law of Chiang Kai-Shek. Its largest stockholder is L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another Chiang brother-in-law. Soong is the brother of Madame Chiang, while Dr. Kung married Madame Chiang's sister. Both Soong and Kung have lived in the United States in recent years and occupy palatial estates in Westchester county outside New York city.

E. Y. Soong, nephew of the former foreign minister, and manager of the Yangtze Corporation, has been officially charged by the Commerce Department with switching shipments of tinplate to consignees in China not authorized to receive them. He is also charged with permitting another company to ship tin to Communist China under an export license issued by the Yangtze Corporation.

Soong Admits Guilt

Soong admitted the charges and waived all rights to a hearing, tantamount to an admission of guilt.

In addition to Soong and Kung, the other officers in the Yangtze Trading Corporation are law partners of ex-Secretary Johnson. Chairman of the Board is Chesney M. Carney, a partner in steptoe and Johnson. President and secretary of the firm are George W. McQuain and Kingsley R. Smith, also Johnson's law partners.

Together they own 555 shares of stock, part of which was in payment for legal services. Largest stockholder is L. K. Kung, son of Chiang's brother-in-law, who owns 925 shares, while C. H. Chao owns 870 shares.

A fourth Johnson partner, Donald Lincoln, is also a director in three subsidiaries of the Yangtze Trading Corporation, the Cosmopolitan Supply Co., the Metropolitan Trading Corporation, and the Pan-Continental Trading Corporation.

The Yangtze Corporation is listed with the New York secretary of state in Albany as being a West Virginia corporation with offices in the Union Bank building at Clarksburg, W. Va., and the Kanawha Valley building at Charleston, W. Va. These two buildings are also where the Louey Johnson law firm has its offices.

The 123-ton shipments of tin to China arrived in Tientsin in August and September 1949, eight months after Tientsin fell into the hands of the Communists so there could be no possible plea of ignorance in making the shipment. Furthermore the license was invalid.

It was in November and December 1949, that Johnson first began battling inside the cabinet for aid to Formosa.

The additional 90 tons which went to Shanghai through a trick license deal, left New York in March and April 1949. And since it takes about two months for the delivery of such cargo, and since Shanghai fell to the Communists on May 24, 1949, this 90 tons also probably fell into Communist hands. Johnson had become secretary of Defense in March 1949.

Secretary Sawyer's Office of International Trade, commenting on the transaction, said:

". . . respondents in effectuating the exportations hereinabove described, made false representations and certifications on each of the shipper's export declarations filed with and authenticated by the collector of customs at New York, New York, as to the identity of the purchaser and ultimate consignee and that the specified license named therein authorized such exportation.

"In addition, it is alleged that said respondents using and permitting the use of validated export licenses, shipper's export declarations and bills of lading to effect exportations pursuant to collusive agreement with another company, without the authorization of the Office of International Trade, constituted illegal trafficking in such export control documents."

A temporary want of red meat would be a minor hardship, but the question is not how much the public suffers from a strike but whether the strike is an exclusive weapon of one set of predators and denied to all others. Courts have hed that it is exclusive, but this case is beyond the scope of the precedents.

The cattle-raisers refuse to sell their brutes for prices hit upon by Mike DiSalle, a dead-end poitician and ethical credit to the Toledo phase of the CIO. No man can be forced to sell his labor for less than his own price. In most cases, beef on the hoof is property acquired by an individual no less horny-handed and no less selfish than the pickets of the United Auto Workers who won their price for their work with the blackjack, tire-chain, acid bomb and gun. The owner of the steer paid for it in money earned by toil or by luck with a pair of dice on a horse-blanket. It is his beef and if DiSalle's Toledo constituents want it, they will have to pay for it in the same coin and in the same proportions that the cattleman pays for his pick-up, his tractor and his mechanized

How many "Independence Days" have we left?

"We hold these truths to be self-evident;
that all men are created equal;
that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.
That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed..."

Immortal words from the Declaration of Independence, adopted on the first 4th of July, just 175 years ago.

THESE WORDS are the stones upon which man built history's greatest work—the United States of America. Remember them well!

"...all men are created equal..." That means you are as important in the eyes of God as any man ever brought into this world. You are made in His image and likeness. There is no "superior" man anywhere.

"...they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights..." Here is your birthright—the freedom to live, work, worship and vote as you choose. These are rights no government on earth may take from you.

"...That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men..." Here is the reason for and the purpose of government. Government is but a servant—not a master—not a giver of anything.

"...deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed..." In America, the government may assume only the powers you allow it to have. It may assume no others.

From Concord to Korea, your kinsmen have fought and died for the principles of America's Declaration of Independence: belief in God...belief in the God-given rights of man...belief that man is more important than government...belief in the vital need for morality in all man does.

But on this Independence Day, as never before, these beliefs are in deadly peril. There are people in America who would deny your God-given rights, who prefer expediency to morality, and who would make government the master—not the servant—of man. These people are the advocates of an all-powerful, all-providing socialistic government to control your destiny from cradle to grave.

The time has come to answer them with your own "Declaration of Independence"...

Declare that government is responsible TO you—rather than FOR you.

Declare that freedom is more important to you than "security" or "survival."

Declare again that the rights God gave you may not be taken away by any government on any pretext.

Our founding fathers accepted the truths of America's Declaration on faith alone. Today, our nation is proof—absolute and irrevocable—that these truths work. They are the last great hope for the protection of human civilization.

FREEDOM NEEDS YOU

On this 175th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence, help give the day the spiritual, religious meaning it had to the founding fathers.

Renew your faith and allegiance to the immortal truths stated in the Declaration. Make them an active part of your thinking, your acting, your voting.

Pray for help in maintaining man's closeness to God, in preserving man's God-given rights and responsibilities against those who would make you dependent upon a socialistic, all-powerful government.

bronco. Or the cattleman will fight them for it.

George Kirksey, of Houston, is a press-agent or professional explicator for the cattlemen of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle-raisers' Association. This big union represents 9,000 members and 1,500,000 animals on the range. Mr. Kirksey wrote sports in the major leagues and was the official chaperon for a select few of the most spectacular drunks that ever disgraced the American uniform when he was press relations officer in Cairo during the late war. His duties dealt mostly with legitimate war reporters, but the memory lingers on of celebrated bums from the Washington propaganda corps who flew the magic carpet to Cairo to demonstrate racial equality to the lesser breeds by reducing themselves to the level of the least of these.

Mr. Kirksey touched on a fact little known to many when he remarked that New York and the New England states produce much more meat than large sections of the mountain-desert ranges, where grazing and water are hard to find. Grass makes meat. Corn and cake fatten cattle but they have to be built on grass, and eastern states have grass as a commonplace. The south, too, has been turning from cotton to cattle.

Mr. Kirksey speaks an elusive Texican geechee which sounds not unlike your probable conception of the jargon of the scrambler telephone. Decoded, the burden of his piece was that the small operators in the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association own more than half of the total of 1,543,000 brutes now standing on the range, in bunches ranging from 50 head up to 1,000. There were 3,769 ranchers with 50 or fewer, and a total of 7,707 owners accounted for 230,597 animals. The average holding of this association was 170 brutes per member.

The Socialist and Pro-Communist propaganda columns out of Washington have raised a haggard figure of a housewife with her bairns at her apron strings peering into empty meat shops, but this lady is no more entitled to beef below the owner's cost than to a new car on the same terms. Mr. Kirksey denies the existence of a strike of cattle raisers. That is just fencing. The plain fact is that these people would be robbed of their property by DiSalle's prices. They are entitled to a hearing which, from the beginning, was denied them in the howling fury of the motivated propaganda which swept out from DiSalle's office.

A statement of expenses of the Brazoria and Fort Bend ranch for a unit of 1,000 cows, plus auxiliaries, showed a capital investment of almost $300 per cow. I will avert my gaze from Mr. Kirksey's earnest countenance while I remember that in Arizona, cattlemen of my acquaintance have banged the bar and laughed enormously telling of the cunning of their colleagues in dispersing stock up the canyons when the assessor comes around. Skeptic that I am, I must deny the cattlemen full credence but still allow them the same right to get as much of that which they have to sell as I have always exercised myself. Anyway, this is no fittin' subject for the laity. The Wall Street Journal, which certainly is no joke-book, recently gave us more than two whole fat columns of somber information and then walked off and left the whole enormous heap of jumbled and unadjustable facts. There is no possible solution without another resort to the inevitable expedient of the incompetent governments that have ruled since 1933. Subsidies will be the answer.

The Hatless Gentry

By FRANK TRIPP

Maybe it won't be long before a man's straw hat will become a Smithsonian item. A man without a Summer hat used to be a freak or a sophomore. There was a day to don the new straw chapeau and one who didn't join the parade was conspicuous.

The day varied by localities but it pretty generally fell around May 30, so that June could herald the arrival of Summer. Even nature seems to have joined the rebellion, for north of the 38th parallel Summer often shows up somewhere around the first of August.

One of the biggest sales events of the old era was Straw Hat Day, a bonanza for the hatters and the newspapers. Millions of straw hats flowed into stores from coast to coast, from the one dollar sailors to 30 buck Panamas.

Windows were dressed with them, though there might be snow on the ground. The papers bulged with ads and masculine America was made straw hat conscious by a nation-wide propaganda mill, such as borned the Voice of America.

Most places Memorial Day was the accepted date. A look from an office window revealed a veritable sea of straws. Then something happened to straw hats and derbies that all but sounded their death knell. They began to lower the tops of automobiles and the head clearance in car doorways. The swell new straws got bumped against the car entrance and crushed. A nice ten dollar lid could be ruined in a jiffy.

ALREADY THE KIDS had begun going hatless. Elders who had a good crop of hair joined them. Bald paters hauled out their Winter fedoras and parked their straws and derbies for such occasions as didn't involve an automobile.

Manufacturers met the demand for a light, flexible soft hat for Summer. They were killing one of their golden geese—and getting only a gosling in return. More and more each year men have followed the lead of the school boys until today the old sea of straws has become a meadow of hatless gentry. Even the bald ones risk it.

A big hat dealer told me that straw hats have almost entered the dress shirt classification of his inventory; carried just for the convenience of the diminishing few who use them. You've probably noticed also that more and more men now wear soft white shirts with dinner coats, rather than the once imperative starched bosom.

But for such trends of fickle fashion Mr. Truman might still be a haberdasher, which would have tickled his critics pink.

Hatless men, who now wear the same shirt to office and to dinner; who have discarded garters, many of them also belts and gone back to policemen's suspenders; who wear sport shirts and no necktie half the Summer, almost revolutionized the men's furnishing trade and put a temporary crimp in that business. The lost ground soon was more than recovered however by trick items that once were never in their stocks.

Getting back to straw hats, my furnisher friend told me that in a whole season his sale of them does not equal what he once sold on Straw Hat Day, and that the sale of Summer felts or caps does not begin to make up the deficiency.

He told that high school graduates who feel they have grown to need a hat have to be sold the idea that they don't look funny in one. Many never owned any kind of a hat.

MEN WITH any extent of vegetation on their craniums find comfort and economy in going hatless. They not only save the cost of a hat but they save the cost of parking it, which an authority has figured doubles the cost of the hat. Meaning the gratuity one gives the little lady when he enters, which she passes on to the guy who bought up a dozen hat checking rackets up and down the street.

But there's one big disadvantage to going hatless. When it rains it isn't so lovely. Water running off one's nose and chin and down his neck isn't what you'd call comfortable.

Heaven knows a newspaperman shouldn't encourage new uses for paper; still there's a big field waiting. Either the paper cup makers should put out a disposable folding rain hat or Ed Wynn in collaboration with Rube Goldberg should develop a brow-size eave trough, with a rain spout extending two feet astern.

The market is wide open.

"Second hand low" is a fairly good general rule for defensive play. If the declarer leads from his own hand or from the dummy and if you are next to play, it is usually wise to play one of your low cards.

There are dozens of situations in which you must break the rule. For example, it may be vital for you to win a trick rather than let it be ducked to your partner. Today's hand is a case in point.

West opened the ace of diamonds and continued with the eight of diamonds. How should declarer play the hand?

When the hand was actually played South saw that the defenders were threatening to take all of the trumps out of dummy. This would prevent him from ruffing a club.

The best chance to preserve the club ruff was to win the second trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and return a low club at once. This gave East the chance to be a hero. He should have put up a club honor. Only he could lead a third round of trump, so it was vital for him to win whatever club trick was surrendered by declarer.

Actually, East played a low club—just as most players would. This was what South had been hoping for. He played the six of clubs, ducking the trick around to West.

Now the defenders were through. West led a spade to South's ace, and declarer took the ace of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. He then led the ten of hearts and let it ride around to West's jack.

West led another spade, forcing South to ruff, but declarer could draw the last trump, cash the ace of hearts and give up a second heart trick. Nothing could stop him from fulfilling his contract with the last trump and the queen of hearts.

If East had managed to win the first or second club trick he could have led a third round of trumps. Then South would have lost the club ruff, falling one trick short of his contract.

EVIL FOR WEEVILS—Astride his converted tractor, E. E. Perry, of Henderson, Tex., demonstrates his "dream" invention that he says will exterminate boll weevils. Perry, a 30-acre tenant farmer, says the idea for the complicated machine (circled in photo) came to him in a dream. The tank is filled with an insecticide made to his own formula. This flows down through twin tunnels past the tractor's hot exhaust pipes. The heat vaporizes the liquid which is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton.

The Hatless Gentry

By FRANK TRIPP

Maybe it won't be long before a man's straw hat will become a Smithsonian item. A man without a Summer hat used to be a freak or a sophomore. There was a day to don the new straw chapeau and one who didn't join the parade was conspicuous.

The day varied by localities but it pretty generally fell around May 30, so that June could herald the arrival of Summer. Even nature seems to have joined the rebellion, for north of the 38th parallel Summer often shows up somewhere around the first of August.

One of the biggest sales events of the old era was Straw Hat Day, a bonanza for the hatters and the newspapers. Millions of straw hats flowed into stores from coast to coast, from the one dollar sailors to 30 buck Panamas.

Windows were dressed with them, though there might be snow on the ground. The papers bulged with ads and masculine America was made straw hat conscious by a nation-wide propaganda mill, such as borned the Voice of America.

Most places Memorial Day was the accepted date. A look from an office window revealed a veritable sea of straws. Then something happened to straw hats and derbies that all but sounded their death knell. They began to lower the tops of automobiles and the head clearance in car doorways. The swell new straws got bumped against the car entrance and crushed. A nice ten dollar lid could be ruined in a jiffy.

ALREADY THE KIDS had begun going hatless. Elders who had a good crop of hair joined them. Bald paters hauled out their Winter fedoras and parked their straws and derbies for such occasions as didn't involve an automobile.

Manufacturers met the demand for a light, flexible soft hat for Summer. They were killing one of their golden geese—and getting only a gosling in return. More and more each year men have followed the lead of the school boys until today the old sea of straws has become a meadow of hatless gentry. Even the bald ones risk it.

A big hat dealer told me that straw hats have almost entered the dress shirt classification of his inventory; carried just for the convenience of the diminishing few who use them. You've probably noticed also that more and more men now wear soft white shirts with dinner coats, rather than the once imperative starched bosom.

But for such trends of fickle fashion Mr. Truman might still be a haberdasher, which would have tickled his critics pink.

Hatless men, who now wear the same shirt to office and to dinner; who have discarded garters, many of them also belts and gone back to policemen's suspenders; who wear sport shirts and no necktie half the Summer, almost revolutionized the men's furnishing trade and put a temporary crimp in that business. The lost ground soon was more than recovered however by trick items that once were never in their stocks.

Getting back to straw hats, my furnisher friend told me that in a whole season his sale of them does not equal what he once sold on Straw Hat Day, and that the sale of Summer felts or caps does not begin to make up the deficiency.

He told that high school graduates who feel they have grown to need a hat have to be sold the idea that they don't look funny in one. Many never owned any kind of a hat.

MEN WITH any extent of vegetation on their craniums find comfort and economy in going hatless. They not only save the cost of a hat but they save the cost of parking it, which an authority has figured doubles the cost of the hat. Meaning the gratuity one gives the little lady when he enters, which she passes on to the guy who bought up a dozen hat checking rackets up and down the street.

But there's one big disadvantage to going hatless. When it rains it isn't so lovely. Water running off one's nose and chin and down his neck isn't what you'd call comfortable.

Heaven knows a newspaperman snouldn't encourage new uses for paper; still there's a big field waiting. Either the paper cup makers should put out a disposable folding rain hat or Ed Wynn in collaboration with Rube Goldberg should develop a brow-size eave trough, with a rain spout extending two feet astern.

The market is wide open.

U. S. farm operators realized a net income of about $13,000,000,000 in 1950.

EVIL FOR WEEVILS—Astride his converted tractor, E. E. Perry, of Henderson, Tex., demonstrates his "dream" invention that he says will exterminate boll weevils. Perry, a 30-acre tenant farmer, says the idea for the complicated machine (circled in photo) came to him in a dream. The tank is filled with an insecticide made to his own formula. This flows down through twin tunnels past the tractor's hot exhaust pipes. The heat vaporizes the liquid which is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton.

bronco. Or the cattleman will fight them for it.

George Kirksey, of Houston, is a press-agent or professional explicator for the cattlemen of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle-raisers' Association. This big union represents 9,000 members and 1,500,000 animals on the range. Mr. Kirksey wrote sports in the major leagues and was the official chaperon for a select few of the most spectacular drunks that ever disgraced the American uniform when he was press relations officer in Cairo during the late war. His duties dealt mostly with legitimate war reporters, but the memory lingers on of celebrated bums from the Washington propaganda corps who flew the magic carpet to Cairo to demonstrate racial equality to the lesser breeds by reducing themselves to the level of the least of these.

Mr. Kirksey touched on a fact little known to many when he remarked that New York and the New England states produce much more meat than large sections of the mountain-desert ranges, where grazing and water are hard to find. Grass makes meat. Corn and cake fatten cattle but they have to be built on grass, and eastern states have grass as a commonplace. The south, too, has been turning from cotton to cattle.

Mr. Kirksey speaks an elusive Texican geechee which sounds not unlike your probable conception of the jargon of the scrambler telephone. Decoded, the burden of his piece was that the small operators in the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association own more than half of the total of 1,543,000 brutes now standing on the range, in bunches ranging from 50 head up to 1,000. There were 3,769 ranchers with 50 or fewer, and a total of 7,707 owners accounted for 230,597 animals. The average holding of this association was 170 brutes per member.

The Socialist and Pro-Communist propaganda columns out of Washington have raised a haggard figure of a housewife with her bairns at her apron strings peering into empty meat shops, but this lady is no more entitled to beef below the owner's cost than to a new car on the same terms. Mr. Kirksey denies the existence of a strike of cattle raisers. That is just fencing. The plain fact is that these people would be robbed of their property by DiSalle's prices. They are entitled to a hearing which, from the beginning, was denied them in the howling fury of the motivated propaganda which swept out from DiSalle's office.

A statement of expenses of the Brazoria and Fort Bend ranch for a unit of 1,000 cows, plus auxiliaries, showed a capital investment of almost $300 per cow. I will avert my gaze from Mr. Kirksey's earnest countenance while I remember that in Arizona, cattlemen of my acquaintance have banged the bar and laughed enormously telling of the cunning of their colleagues in dispersing stock up the canyons when the assessor comes around. Skeptic that I am, I must deny the cattlemen full credence but still allow them the same right to get as much of that which they have to sell as I have always exercised myself. Anyway, this is no fittin' subject for the laity. The Wall Street Journal, which certainly is no joke-book, recently gave us more than two whole fat columns of somber information and then walked off and left the whole enormous heap of jumbled and unadjustable facts. There is no possible solution without another resort to the inevitable expedient of the incompetent governments that have ruled since 1933. Subsidies will be the answer.

"Second hand low" is a fairly good general rule for defensive play. If the declarer leads from his own hand or from the dummy and if you are next to play, it is usually wise to play one of your low cards.

There are dozens of situations in which you must break the rule. For example, it may be vital for you to win a trick rather than let it be ducked to your partner. Today's hand is a case in point.

West opened the ace of diamonds and continued with the eight of diamonds. How should declarer play the hand?

When the hand was actually played South saw that the defenders were threatening to take all of the trumps out of dummy. This would prevent him from ruffing a club.

The best chance to preserve the club ruff was to win the second trick in dummy with the king of diamonds and return a low club at once. This gave East the chance to be a hero. He should have put up a club honor. Only he could lead a third round of trump, so it was vital for him to win whatever club trick was surrendered by declarer.

Actually, East played a low club—just as most players would. This was what South had been hoping for. He played the six of clubs, ducking the trick around to West.

Now the defenders were through. West led a spade to South's ace, and declarer took the ace of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. He then led the ten of hearts and let it ride around to West's jack.

West led another spade, forcing South to ruff, but declarer could willingness to work. Coupled with his knowledge of municipal government acquired over a period of many years connected with city affairs, Mayor Newkirk has displayed a most unusual willingness to work. Not only is he on the job every day but he is always willing to appear at evening meetings of all kinds and his extreme interest in the city's welfare and the welfare of its citizens was clearly displayed a few weeks ago when a disastrous flood swept a portion of the city and made many families homeless.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk personally visited the scene and equipped with hip boots waded in and gave every assistance possible to those stricken. He worked throughout the day and far into the night to give assistance and help the stricken people.

"That is the kind of lad he is," said Judge Cashin, "always willing to work and do a good job."

Judge Cashin referred to the complex problems which face any city administrator in these days, to the financial problems which hamper complete fulfillment of known needs of any city. Mayor Newkirk, during his administration of city affairs has made all decisions conscientiously and "for the good of the city as a whole." These decisions were made with honesty of purpose and to the best of his ability with the means at hand and Judge Cashin said that no man today can do all of the things which all of the people demand. It is impossible to please everyone but, he concluded, that Mayor Newkirk had conducted the affairs of the city with such expert decision that Kingston has grown and prospered under his administration and many necessary projects have been completed or are under way.

Seconding Speeches

Benjamin Schecter, in seconding the nomination compared the office of mayor to that of utility ball player, a job where a man must be able to play all positions and do a good job in all places. He said Mayor Newkirk had proven himself to be a good supervisor, a good coordinator and efficient mayor, tolerant and easy of approach. Schecter referred to the program of better schools which has been supported by Mayor Newkirk, to the Broadway crossing elimination for which Mayor Newkirk has always worked and during the term of Mayor Newkirk, Schecter said, he had been able to improve and maintain many facilities of the city with great efficiency and without public scandal which has become so prominent in many municipal governments during recent years.

Surrogate John B. Sterley, former city chairman, also seconded the nomination. He referred to the election of Mayor Newkirk to the common council, and of his election to the office of supervisor "by public demand." As mayor, Newkirk has done a "grand job," said Surrogate Sterley. He referred to the numerous projects for betterment of the city which have been sponsored and carried out by Mayor Newkirk and he said Mayor Newkirk was an efficient executive. Sterley said he was "one of the people" and a man with his feet on the ground and willing to render assistance to all of the people at any time.

James Cave moved the nominations be closed and Frank Burr of the Third ward seconded the motion and it was moved that the clerk cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Mayor Newkirk. The ballot was cast.

Mayor Newkirk, who was present at the convention, was introduced by Chairman Connelly and in his acceptance of the nominations said:

Fellow Republicans:

I sincerely appreciate the high honor you have paid me tonight by designating me as the Republican nominee for mayor. I accept the nomination in all humility, and, if elected, I pledge to serve the people—all the people—to the very best of my ability. And no one can promise more.

In this well-known old court house, wherein many stirring political conventions have been held, candidates have been nominated who have rendered outstanding service to our city.

Conventions like this, where duly elected delegates from the thirteen wards of the city nominate their candidates, typify the political freedom we have in America in dark contrast to the political slavery of the people in the countries behind the Iron Curtain. We should be thankful that we are privileged to live in this great land of freedom and should ever strive to be worthy of God's many benefactions.

I am particularly glad to be a candidate on the Republican ticket. I have always been a loyal member of the Republican party.

I am proud to be a Republican. The Republican Party in this state, in this county and in this city stands for good, sound, clean, honest and progressive government.

I believe the people of this city, regardless of political affiliations, want clean and honest government, such as we have given.

Mayor of All the People

Since assuming office, I realized that I was mayor of all the people of the city. On the basis of equality to all, I have tried to be fair and just in my dealings with my fellow-citizens and in my official acts.

My job has been made more difficult by rising costs of furnishing municipal services. There were many things I would like to have done, but could not, because we can spend only the amount of money appropriated in the annual budget. The city treasury, unlike the federal treasury, cannot float bonds for deficit financing every time it runs short.

However, in spite of the difficulties we have faced because of inflation, we have successfully and efficiently carried on the work of the several city departments and have made progress in our program of public improvements.

As you know, I have not spared myself in the performance of my duties and have been busy every minute. I like my job and give it all my time and effort.

The door of the mayor's office is open to all.

I have gladly spent my evenings attending meetings, functions and affairs whenever my good fellow-citizens have indicated a desire to have me present.

I have joined with other groups interested in promoting the welfare of our city, in traveling to other cities to seek conventions for Kingston. Every good and worthy cause I have helped and encouraged.

If re-elected, I will continue to give my job the same kind of time and devotion. Soon I will have had four years of valuable experience in the office of mayor, and with this experience I hope to do even a better job.

Acknowledges Assistance

During the past, I have leaned heavily for advice and counsel on our distinguished county chairman, Senator Wicks, majority leader of the state Senate, and on Vincent Connelly, our able city chairman, to both of whom I am deeply grateful. I wish also to express my thanks to Joe Kelly, our energetic council president for his help and cooperation and for the fine manner in which he has discharged the duties of acting mayor during my absence from the city, and to our councilmen for their loyal help and support. They, together with Republican supervisors and Republican committeemen, are the backbone of our efficient party organization.

The heads of the various city departments, and the faithful officers and employes of those departments, working together as a unified team, make it possible for your city government to carry on under many handicaps and difficulties.

In conclusion, I wish to thank you again for the confidence and trust you have placed in me by thus nominating me tonight.

As in the past, we must rally our supporters around us. Every loyal Republican must enlist in the campaign and do his part. Only in that way can we insure victory.

Loyalty is one of the greatest virtues. Let us always be loyal to each other so long as we are in the right, and thereby continue the Republican party in office so that the city we all love may continue to have good, honest and clean government.

With your loyal help, and with the help of all members of the Republican party—men and women alike—with the support of others of our citizens, who favor a continuation of good government in Kingston, I am sure that we shall be successful in November.

St. John Nominates Kelly

Howard C. St. John of the twelfth ward was recognized and placed the name of Alderman-at-Large Joseph Kelly before the convention.

St. John, in his customary manner, said it had been his privilege to nominate Ernest A. Kelly for coroner at the county convention, now he was nominating Joe Kelly at the city convention. It appeared to him that it was his duty to "take care of all of the Kellys."

Joseph Kelly, St. John said, had always been interested in good clean government. He had served as a supervisor and during that term stood for the best of county government.

There were two outstanding duties required of the alderman-at-large. One was to preside at the Common Council meetings and Joseph Kelly has seen his duty and had been present at every meeting of the council since his election to office. There the business had gone smoothly and efficiently under the supervision of the presiding officer, Joseph Kelly. It had been Kelly's aim to give a fair administration in the city hall and the manner in which he presided at council meetings demonstrated that he had the interest of all of the people in mind at all times. As acting mayor, the second duty of the alderman-at-large, Joseph Kelly had served quietly and with a spirit of cooperation. He has always demonstrated that he is a "man of the people, a man who tried always to help them and is willing to go to great odds to accomplish this," said the speaker and St. John then placed the name of Joseph Kelly, a veteran of World War 2 before the convention to succeed himself in office.

Seconding for Kelly

Alderman Sam Perry of the fifth ward in seconding the nomination said Kelly had always done everything in his power for the benefit of the city. Alderman David Schecter of the sixth ward said, in seconding the nomination, that everything about Joe Kelly could be summed up in two words, "swell guy."

On motion of Mrs. Brett of the second ward, seconded by Thomas Finnerty of the fourth ward, the nominations were closed and the clerk cast the unanimous ballot of the convention for Joseph Kelly for alderman-at-large.

Ray Whitbeck of the second ward and Harry Walker of the third ward were named to escort Kelly to the platform.

In accepting the nomination Kelly said it was an honor to be named by the convention. He had always tried to do a good job in the Common Council and it would be his aim to continue to proceed along the same line if elected again to the office. He thanked the delegates, those who had nominated and seconded the nomination and told the delegates that he wanted to be the first to congratulate Mayor Newkirk on his re-nomination and he pledged his wholehearted support to Mayor Newkirk and the entire Republican ticket. Alderman-at-Large Kelly asked that the delegates get out and work and support the candidates.

In the election of Mayor Newkirk again to office this fall, he said, they would be doing great honor to the greatest Republican leader in the State of New York, Senator Arthur H. Wicks, county chairman.

At the conclusion of the regular business of the convention, Chairman Connelly called upon the county candidates to speak.

Harry D. Sutton of Clintondale, Republican candidate for county clerk, was presented. He pledged his support to the ticket and said if in any way he could assist the city ticket he would be happy to do so. Mr. Sutton thanked the delegates for the grand support which had been given him three years ago in the city when he was a candidate for county clerk. He said he would never forget that grand job.

Ernest A. Kelly, candidate for coroner, was referred to by Chairman Connelly as an efficient, loyal worker who was always on the job as coroner and had carried out his duties as coroner in an admirable manner.

Coroner Kelly promised to do the best job possible and said he appreciated the nomination by the party.

Wicks Is Introduced

County Chairman Arthur H. Wicks, who had been seated with the delegates during the city convention, was introduced and requested to address the convention.

Chairman Wicks congratulated the convention on its selection of candidates and said "the candidates you have nominated are your candidates. it is your duty to go out and work for them, to see that they are elected. They can't do the job alone, they need all the backing of all. You have a right to be proud of the men you have named, a right to be proud of the record of the Republican party and you should go out and shout from the house tops the record of the Republican party in the city of Kingston, the county of Ulster and the state of New York. The Republican party has been kept in power because we keep our word. Mayor Oscar Newkirk kept his word."

"For forty years we have been trying to get rid of the Broadway crossing and it is being done under a Republican administration. Newkirk has always worked for that elimination. You wanted service across the Hudson river. A Republican administration got you the ferry—and we are going to get a bridge," said Senator Wicks.

"People shouted political propaganda when the bridge move was commenced," said Senator Wicks, then he referred to the passage "By their words ye shall know them," and he said "they know us" the bridge will be built, he said.

In Mayor Newkirk and Alderman-at-Large Kelly, the city of Kingston has a "good team" and County Chairman Wicks urged all to get out and support that team from now on through Election Day.

Speaks for Aldermen

Chairman Connelly in closing spoke of the importance of electing Republican aldermen to support Newkirk and Kelly and of the need for electing Republican supervisors. Committeemen and the workers are the "backbone" of the Republican party and it is up to the committee to keep their ear to the ground and report any errors which may be made so that they may be corrected, he said. In this way the party can continue to keep faith with the people and carry out the wishes of the citizens.

In referring to Mayor Newkirk, Chairman Connelly paid a high tribute to his ability, his courage and the manner in which he at all times attempts to serve the people of the city. He said Mayor Newkirk was always willing to consult his constituents and the party leaders and to act on their advice. In many instances it is impossible to do all that is sought because of the lack of funds which are limited by statute. This applied to many facilities, streets and other projects.

On motion of John Lynch of the thirteenth ward, seconded by Joseph Bruck of the eighth ward, John J. Schwenk was named chairman of a committee on vacancies.

Candidates in the city for supervisor and alderman were presented and on motion of Herbert Thomas, seconded by Mrs. Schleede, the convention was adjourned.

Newkirk, Kelly Chosen . . .

willingness to work. Coupled with his knowledge of municipal government acquired over a period of many years connected with city affairs, Mayor Newkirk has displayed a most unusual willingness to work. Not only is he on the job every day but he is always willing to appear at evening meetings of all kinds and his extreme interest in the city's welfare and the welfare of its citizens was clearly displayed a few weeks ago when a disastrous flood swept a portion of the city and made many families homeless.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk personally visited the scene and equipped with hip boots waded in and gave every assistance possible to those stricken. He worked throughout the day and far into the night to give assistance and help the stricken people.

"That is the kind of lad he is," said Judge Cashin, "always willing to work and do a good job."

Judge Cashin referred to the complex problems which face any city administrator in these days, to the financial problems which hamper complete fulfillment of known needs of any city. Mayor Newkirk, during his administration of city affairs has made all decisions conscientiously and "for the good of the city as a whole." These decisions were made with honesty of purpose and to the best of his ability with the means at hand and Judge Cashin said that no man today can do all of the things which all of the people demand. It is impossible to please everyone but, he concluded, that Mayor Newkirk had conducted the affairs of the city with such expert decision that Kingston has grown and prospered under his administration and many necessary projects have been completed or are under way.

Praise for New Haven's management came from William B. Snow, Jr., long-time associate of Dumaine and a director of the New Haven.

He said that when Dumaine—while a director of the New Haven—bought control of the Boston and Providence, he did so on his own and before he had any thought of later controlling the New Haven.

Snow said the sale of non-operating property, some depots and parking spaces, had been undertaken to take unneeded property off tax rolls and save money. He said he regarded this as prudent procedure.

McMahon recessed the hearing indefinitely, saying he did not know when it will be resumed due to commitments of the committee members and himself.

Parents Interest Urged

Frankfurt, Germany (AP)—German parents must take more interest in how little Klaus is doing at school if democratic processes in education are to take hold in Germany. That's what James M. Read, chief of the education and cultural relations division of the U.S. high commission advises. He backed up his contention in an address to German educators by citing personal experience: "As a parent with a child in a German school I have missed being called into any regular or frequent consultation by the teacher or into a parents' meeting or council."

Good Hints for a Happy Holiday

Here are some good hints for a healthy, happy holiday. Maybe you can paste them in your straw hat:

Avoid deep water and canoes if you are a non-swimmer.

Learn about artificial respiration—you may save somebody's life!

Take the sun in easy doses—sunburn is a real burn.

Learn what poison ivy looks like—then avoid it!

Be sure your summer water supply is pure!

Avoid over-exertion, particularly if you are unaccustomed to strenuous exercises!

In hot weather use more salt in your diet!

This'n That Independence Day

Oh let the cannon crackers roar! Light roman candles by the score, and dance until you shake the floor . . . for Independence Day! July the Fourth! Remember . . . then, to thank those fearless Minute Men, who fought again and yet again . . . for Independence Day. Go listen to a fiery speech, as politicians hoot and screech . . . or take your family to the beach . . . for Independence Day. But deeper down than tears can start, pray . . . in the quiet of your heart, for those who cannot be a part . . . of Independence Day. Oh, pray that youth . . . throughout the world, will see no battle flags unfurled, nor be against each other hurled . . . today . . . or any day. Spirit of Washington . . . renew, our pledge of freedom . . . clear and true. God grant that peace shall surge anew . . . on Independence Day.

The Spirit of Liberty

Liberty lies in the hearts of men and women. When it dies there, no constitution, no law, no court can save it. The spirit of liberty is the spirit which is not too sure that it is right. The spirit of liberty is the spirit which seeks to understand the minds of other men and women. The spirit of liberty is the spirit that weighs their interests alongside its own without bias. The spirit of liberty remembers that not even a sparrow falls to earth unheeded. The spirit of liberty is the spirit of Him who taught mankind that lesson it has never learned, but has never quite forgotten; that there may be a kingdom where the least shall be heard and considered side by side with the greatest.—Judge Learned Hand.

Urges Bigger Tax Boost

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Eric Johnston, econimic stabilization director, told senators today a projected tax increase will have "tremendous, if not overriding, influence in determining the success or failure" of efforts to halt inflation. Johnston urged the Senate Finance Committee to approve a tax boost of $10,000,000,000 a year instead of the approximately $7,200,000,000 in the House-passed bill. He said only the larger increase will make possible a pay-as-we-go basis in financing the "billion-dollar-a-week mobilization program" facing the nation.

Pendell House Burns in Phoenicia

Fire discovered about 2 a. m. Sunday destroyed the home of Charles and Cora Pendell at Phoenicia and caused them to make a hasty retreat from the building with their four children. They lost all of their possessions and Pendell was unable to save even a pair of shoes so quickly did the flames spread after he had aroused the family and led them to safety.

The property was located near the railroad station bridge along the former Stony Clove Railroad right of way and back of the Gormley Hotel.

Flames were observed by passersby and the alarm was sounded. Mr. and Mrs. Pendell were awakened by the fire siren and found flames in the front of the building which was occupied by Eugene Gormley, Jr., Phoenicia funeral director. At that time the flames had spread considerably and Mr. and Mrs. Pendell awoke their four children, ranging in age from 3 to 12 years, but were unable to save any of their possessions. Phoenicia firemen responded and the Woodstock fire company covered for Phoenicia under mutual aid.

Owned by Gormley

The building was owned by Eugene Gormley, Sr., and in addition to the apartment occupied by the Pendell family, and the storage rooms, formerly housed the Kelvey blacksmith shop years ago. Pendell is employed by Edward Gormley in the lumber business.

A portion of the building was two stories in height and of frame construction.

An investigation as to the cause of the fire is being made by Corporal Ray Dunn of the state police.

When word of the fire was received in Kingston and it was ascertained the family had lost all of their possessions, the Red Cross issued an appeal for clothing and assistance.

Will Release Flier

Frankfurt, Germany, July 3 (AP)—Czechoslovakia said today it would release Lt. Luther G. The Czech Foreign Office said Roland, of Hummelstown, Pa., will be delivered to West German authorities on the West German frontier at 10 a. m. (4 a. m. EST) tomorrow. Roland and a Norwegian pilot, Lt. Bjoern Johansen, of Bergen, were on a routine training mission from a U. S. fighter base in Bavaria on June 8, when they became lost and landed their F-84's at a Czech field. According to Czech officials, Johansen asked to be flown back to Norway, instead of returning to West Germany for further training with the U. S. Air Force.

Bee Injuries Six

East Greenbush, N. Y., July 3 (AP)—A bee stung the driver of an automobile last night and this was the result: Three cars and a truck cracked up and six persons were injured slightly. The stinger hit Dr. Daniel F. O'Keefe, 62, of Albany, on the face as his car was approaching a traffic light. Then, state police said, the physician's car hit the automobile in front of him. The second car bumped the car ahead and the latter hit a truck. Dr. O'Keefe suffered a fractured rib. He and five occupants of the cars were treated by a physican here.

Peace in Korea Would Mean Little More Steel

New York, July 3 (AP)—Peace in Korea would have little effect toward easing the supply of steel this year, the Iron Age, national metal-working weekly, said today.

"Manufacturers who now face limitations on their supplies of metals cannot expect any improvement in their picture for the balance of the year," said the trade publication. "In fact, indications that most metals will be generally hard to get even in the first quarter of 1952 still stand."

Urges Bigger Tax Boost

Washington, July 2 (AP)—Eric Johnston, econimic stabilization director, told senators today a projected tax increase will have "tremendous, if not overriding, influence in determining the success or failure" of efforts to halt inflation. Johnston urged the Senate Finance Committee to approve a tax boost of $10,000,000,000 a year instead of the approximately $7,200,000,000 in the House-passed bill. He said only the larger increase will make possible a pay-as-we-go basis in financing the "billion-dollar-a-week mobilization program" facing the nation.

Pendell House Burns in Phoenicia

Fire discovered about 2 a. m. Sunday destroyed the home of Charles and Cora Pendell at Phoenicia and caused them to make a hasty retreat from the building with their four children. They lost all of their possessions and Pendell was unable to save even a pair of shoes so quickly did the flames spread after he had aroused the family and led them to safety.

The property was located near the railroad station bridge along the former Stony Clove Railroad right of way and back of the Gormley Hotel.

Flames were observed by passersby and the alarm was sounded. Mr. and Mrs. Pendell were awakened by the fire siren and found flames in the front of the building which was occupied by Eugene Gormley, Jr., Phoenicia funeral director. At that time the flames had spread considerably and Mr. and Mrs. Pendell awoke their four children, ranging in age from 3 to 12 years, but were unable to save any of their possessions. Phoenicia firemen responded and the Woodstock fire company covered for Phoenicia under mutual aid.

Owned by Gormley

The building was owned by Eugene Gormley, Sr., and in addition to the apartment occupied by the Pendell family, and the storage rooms, formerly housed the Kelvey blacksmith shop years ago. Pendell is employed by Edward Gormley in the lumber business.

A portion of the building was two stories in height and of frame construction.

An investigation as to the cause of the fire is being made by Corporal Ray Dunn of the state police.

When word of the fire was received in Kingston and it was ascertained the family had lost all of their possessions, the Red Cross issued an appeal for clothing and assistance.

Footlighters' Work Greatly Appreciated In New Production

With full appreciation of the weeks of intensive work necessary to mold a smooth production, the audience heralded with enthusiasm the Kingston Footlighter's production of the three-act comedy-drama, "Claudia," Thursday evening at the Kingston High School Auditorium.

The instantaneous and long applause at the rise of the curtain testified to the effectiveness of the set, which revealed the interior of the Naughton's country home in Connecticut, tastefully arranged and furnished with the feeling of ease and comfort characteristic of middle class American life.

Dealing with the development of Claudia, the adolescent wife of David Naughton, the warm, moving story traces the growth of the young wife to responsible adulthood. The part of Claudia was ably portrayed by Joan Jablonski who, by her naive manner and childlike behaviour, gave a convincing interpretation of the role.

In the part of David Naughton, Ernest Ward served as an effective foil for his immature wife and was entirely convincing as the understanding husband. Marian Power's portrayal of Claudia's mother, Mrs. Brown, revealed all the professional smoothness she acquired in a season of summer stock at Woodstock. English novelist Edwin Godwin was charming as the English novelist Jerry Seymour and Frances Grafe played the sister-in-law, Julia Naughton of Boston.

Wanda Lewis, from her smooth blonde upsweep to her wild gesticulations and difficult accent, was always in character as Madame Darushka. Gretchen Osterhoudt and Jules Viglielmo were well paired off as the Naughton's household couple, Bertha and Fritz.

The production was directed by Jules Viglielmo, whose previous directorial chores include "Arsenic and Old Lace" and "For Love or Money" and as dramatic instructor in the Adult Educational Program at Hyde Park.

Credit for the set goes to co-chairmen Ray Smith and Tom Cerwonka, Doris Myers, James Roe, Frank Mack, Valdo Viglielmo, John Berinato, and Betti Williams. Bernice Pfieffer, Adeline DeCicco, and Ruth Fredericks worked hard on properties, business was handled by Frances and Ernest Grafe, Alfred Flowers, Carol Mogan, and Ernest Ward.

AGAIN RETURN ADDRESSES

Referring to one of my columns, a reader protests: "All my life I've agreed with you on most things, but not in your answer about writing return addresses on envelopes. You advise that on a letter to someone whose address is definitely known, a return address is unnecessary. Disadvantage of Taken Wedding Present

Dear Mrs. Post: It would be easiest and safest for us to take our wedding present in the car with us when driving to my sister's for my niece's wedding, but I'm told that doing this would be out of order. Is this true?

Answer: If really difficult to send ahead of time it would be possible to take it as you suggest. The reason why presents are sent in advance is so that the bride herself can open them and enjoy seeing them and also put them on display for others to see. If taken to the wedding she would have no chance on that very busy day, to look at them.

Mistaken Junior

Dear Mrs. Post: We have named a son for his father except for his middle name. Because of this difference he is not a junior. But we are warned that later on this may prove confusing since people pay so little attention to a middle initial. What is your opinion?

Miss Marjorie E. Brower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Brower of Haines Falls became the bride of William Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Safe July 4th Is Urged by Newkirk

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today called on every citizen of the City of Kingston to participate in a nationwide drive to reduce accidents on the Fourth of July.

"This campaign is being waged by 160 national organizations," the mayor said, "and is being coordinated by the National Safety Council. Its only purpose is to save lives—but it cannot be successful unless it has the wholehearted support of every man, woman and child in the country.

"No contributions nor dues are required to join in this great humanitarian effort. All anyone has to do to take part is resolve to exercise greater caution on this holiday.

"Heavy travel and recreational activity always make holidays danger days. Over the Fourth of July last year—a four-day holiday—793 Americans died in accidents. This year the calendar will save lives, but even one day can exact a high cost for celebration.

"Such tragedy can and must be prevented. I hope every citizen will make it his personal responsibility to see that an accident does not mar the celebration of anyone in Kingston this Fourth."

Electrol Roof Is Damaged by Fire

A slight roof fire at Electrol Incorporated, on grand street was quickly extinguished by employes and firemen early this morning.

A section of roof and one roof timber ignited from the heat of a vent pipe from a gas fired machine, the fire department reported. The fire was kept under control by employes using a hose line, and the smouldering timber was extinguished by firemen with a chemical extinguisher after a hole had been cut in the roof around the vent pipe. The telephone alarm at 1:53 a. m. brought out firemen and apparatus from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the A. H. Wicks Engine Company. Patrolmen Louis Sapp, William Hanley, George Loughran and Charles Hoehing were dispatched.

Organdy for Rain or Shine

Heberlein and Co.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

New York — (NEA) — In this season of sheer summer dresses, organdy that stays permanently crisp is pretty to look at and pleasant to wear. Organdy with this permanent finish never wilts in the sun, needs no starching, keeps its stiffness and lustre after each washing.

The tunic ensemble by Pauline Trigere (left) is in two shades of gray. The basic sheath is in dark gray, has a belted overtunic in pale gray. Accessories, too, are in permanent-finish organdy. The small pleated hat in dark gray is a Laddie Northridge design; there is a matching bag. Even the shell pumps by Capezio are of organdy.

Organdy in the rain seems an anomaly, like a straw hat worn in winter. But it's not. Lawrence of London turned permanent-finish organdy that's also water-repellent into a duster (right) with deeply-cuffed sleeves and billowing back. A matching hood ties on under the collar. The parasol is for sun and shower; it works well both ways. It's dark gray lined in light gray.

Two Child Health Clinics Scheduled

Two child health conferences are scheduled by the Ulster County Health Department for next week.

The first is at Aallaben on Monday July 9 and the second is on Wednesday, July 11, at Port Ewen.

These clinics are for infant and preschool children for the maintenance of health and prevention of disease, not for the care of the sick child.

Both clinics are to be held in the health centers of the communities listed. The one in Allaben will last from 2 to 4 p. m. and the one at Port Ewen from 3 to 5 p. m.

New Talks Scheduled In Bakery Walkout

New York, July 3 (AP)—Federal mediators scheduled new talks today (noon EST) to end a strike by 4,000 truck drivers against 16 baking companies in the New York metropolitan area.

The firms affected produce about 80 per cent of the wrapped white bread sold in southern New York state, northern New Jersey, and a part of southwestern Connecticut.

Negotiations were adjourned shortly after midnight last night after day-long deliberations.

The truck drivers, members of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters, are seeking a 40-hour, five-day work week. They now work 40 hours over a six-day week.

The first day of the strike yesterday did not cause the consumer any immediate hardship. Many stores had stocked shelves in anticipation of trouble.

Independent bakeries, not affected by the strike, prepared to increase their production.

Cooking With Glass Is Featured at M.G.

As a part of its regular program of special service to housewives, Montgomery Ward is featuring Cooking with Glass at its North Front street store all this week.

Miss Marjorie Burns, a member of the Pyrex Test Kitchen of Corning Glass Works, is in charge of the demonstrations during which she points out how the product can be used on the stove, in the oven, on the table and in the refrigerator.

She stresses that although Pyrex ware retains heat, it does not hold lingering food flavors or odors. Miss Burns also shows how one utensil may be used for several purposes, such as cooking corn on the cob or asparagus in a coffee percolator. Another feature is that the glassware cleans easily.

Two Persons Treated

Two persons were treated at Kingston Hospital last night for dog bites. Michael DeCicco, 40, of 29 Abruyn street was bitten by his own dog while he was trying to give it a bath at about 10:40 p. m., and Bernard Cline, 16, of 20 Ravine street was bitten on his right leg by a dog at 9:15 p. m., according to police department reports.

Moss Forms on North Side

Many big barns run north and south because in the old days farmers wanted to expose as little of the structure as possible to the effects of moss, which formed on the north side. The custom has carried over to the present day.

There are about 20,000 trailers, or "caravans" as they are known, in use in England.

AGAIN RETURN ADDRESSES

Referring to one of my columns, a reader protests: "All my life I've agreed with you on most things, but not in your answer about writing return addresses on envelopes. You advise that on a letter to someone whose address is definitely known, a return address is unnecessary. One thing I think you neglected to consider is that in the event of wet weather even this correct address may become blurred and unreadable and without a return address on the envelope might conceivably land in the Dead Letter Office."

This seems to me a very strange point of view. Surely rain to such a degree would be far more liable to smudge a little address in the corner than the large one across the center of the envelope. By all means, however, write a return address if you want to!

Disadvantage of Taken Wedding Present

Dear Mrs. Post: It would be easiest and safest for us to take our wedding present in the car with us when driving to my sister's for my niece's wedding, but I'm told that doing this would be out of order. Is this true?

Answer: If really difficult to send ahead of time it would be possible to take it as you suggest. The reason why presents are sent in advance is so that the bride herself can open them and enjoy seeing them and also put them on display for others to see. If taken to the wedding she would have no chance on that very busy day, to look at them.

Mistaken Junior

Dear Mrs. Post: We have named a son for his father except for his middle name. Because of this difference he is not a junior. But we are warned that later on this may prove confusing since people pay so little attention to a middle initial. What is your opinion?

Answer: For the very reason of avoiding this confusion the son is usually called by his middle name; thus the father is known as John W. and the son as J. Henry.

Baseball Is on Trial - - - - What Is Your Decision?

Baseball is on trial on two widely separated fronts in Kingston this week.

Not so far apart geographically, but widely divergent in their purpose and scope. We mean the municipal stadium which houses the Class C Can-Am League Colonials and the Athletic Field where City Twilight League teams have held forth for nearly three decades.

Within a matter of a few hours, a new regime and a new Can-Am League gets under way. Forgotten are the miseries of the ill-fated first half. The Kingston Colonials, strengthened and refurbished, will have a ball club the city can be proud of. We predict they will be contenders in the second half setup which will feature eight teams.

The question arises: Will the Kingston baseball public, so apathetic, so indifferent during first half of play, respond to a greatly improved ball club and an enlightened front office setup?

For the sake of baseball itself, we hope the answer is yes. We firmly believe that the community owes a debt of gratitude to that small group of hard working men who have struggled to keep the national pastime alive. They deserve your support. And the Kingston Colonials will be the kind of club you will want to see in action during the second half.

Remember, there's nothing that ever captures the excitement of a good baseball game like being there and seeing it for yourself.

If you agree that baseball is good for Kingston, there are three things you can do to help the Colonials. First, go to the games; second, influence your friends and neighbors so that they will attend; and third, talk baseball. Make yourself a committee of one to boost the team.

There's nothing wrong with the Colonials that a few more fans in the park wouldn't help. Kingston will have a good ball club, a good manager and as fine a bunch of young men as you will ever want to meet. Get around to municipal stadium and see the young men you have been reading or hearing about.

No team can play to empty stands and stay in organized baseball. If you felt that the Colonials weren't up to the kind of par you set for yourself in the first half, we know they'll change your mind the second time around.

Do you want baseball to stay here in Kingston? If you want it, the burden of the proof is in your laps. Go to the games. If not, the ball club no matter how strengthened or improved will not survive.

As we said a few days ago, there is more to an organized baseball team than a mere enjoyment of it. There is also our responsibility to give support and encouragement to our local baseball team so that as a community we will be playing an active part in the development of a truly American sport . . . from right here at home.

Kingston has enjoyed a grand baseball tradition since before the turn of the century. It seems incredible that the good citizens of Kingston will permit either the Colonials or the City League to die on the vine.

And City League fans, when you visit the games don't put a nickel or dime in the basket. If you feel the game is worthwhile enough to attend and enjoy, then it should be worth at least a quarter, don't you think?

Colonials Win Over Amsterdam, 7-3; Ready for Holiday Action

Dick Connors Hurls Second Victory

The new order is beginning to take shape at municipal stadium.

A newcomer, Bill O'Brien outfielder on option from Harrisburgh, Pa. of the Class B Inter-State League, played an important role in the Colonials' 7-3 conquest of the Amsterdam Rugmakers last night at municipal stadium.

Another new player — first baseman Jack Bickett—arrived too late to see action, but will be in uniform against the Yankee farmhands in the closing game of the series tonight.

The July 4th day-night doubleheader with the Pittsfield Electrics, who may have established themselves as first round champions by that time, will find the Colonials at their top strength for the season.

Bickett replaces Jack Allen at first base. The Kingston catcher has done a commendable job since replacing Red Klinger, who drew his release a few days ago.

Connors Wins Second

Southpaw Dick Connors finished against the Amsterdam powerhouse to nail down last night's win, but it took a couple of sensational defensive plays by O'Brien and Nick Marino to pull him out of two dangerous spots.

In his Colonial debut, O'Brien drove in a run with a seventh-inning single. He made a sensational shoe-string, one-handed catch of Ossie Barham's sinking liner in the sixth and turned it into a double play. The score was 5-3 at the time and had the ball gone through, it would have been a tie ball game.

An inning later, Nick Marino made an equally spectacular play when he raced to short left field with his back in the infield to grab Rap Posipank's bid for a Texas Leaguer. Two runners were on and running with two out at the time.

Backed by these two superlative plays, Connors pitched creditably for his second decision of the season. Two of the Amsterdam markers were tainted. His own error contributed the first and a wild pitch and double steal set up the second in the third inning. A pass to Frank Wehner followed by singles off the bats of Al Stuhlmiller and John Paul Jones accounted for Amsterdam's third run in the sixth. A big inning threatened until O'Brien came up with his great catch.

Sam Out of Slump

Big Sam Piacentino, player-manager left fielder, came out of his batting slump with a pair of solid doubles that bounced off the billboard in left field. Sam also drew a walk and knocked in a run.

Nick Marino rapped a double and two singles and had two RBIs to continue his meteoric pace since transferring to the salubrious climate of municipal stadium.

Kingston sported a 5-2 bulge at the end of three innings. Marino doubled Dennis Healey home with the first run after the second sacker walked. Leo Rozyla, the Amsterdam starter, loaded the sacks with walks to Lou Kramberg and Piacentino and Joe Niro delivered Marino with a long fly to center.

O'Brien's walk, Jack Allen's single and an infield error set up Kingston's third run. Kramberg and Piacentino pounded back-to-back doubles for a run in the third. A big inning was in the makin when Posipanka miscued on Niro's grounder but O'Brien jammed into a DP. Allen singled and Connors walked to load the sacks but Charlie Aspromonte popped to third base.

Rozyla was relieved with two-out and one run in during the seventh. O'Brien's single to center had scored Nick Marino, who singled and stole second. Tom Mollica got Allen on a fly to right to end the frame and Lou Paz pitched the eighth for the visitors, yielding an unearned run on a couple of errors and Marino's third hit.

Can-Am Capers

Miron Lumber and Schryver Lumber billboards add new color to the stadium setup. It's beginning to look like a real ball park. KBC officials pondering possibility of setting up box seats along baselines. Crowd was enthusiastic and lively for a change. O'Brien got a big hand the first time at bat. Bickett was accorded a similar ovation when he arrived in the seventh inning. The Oneonta Red Sox and Pittsfield Electrics tangle tonight to decide the winner of the first half of the Can-Am League's split schedule. The Sox trounced the Electrics last night, 10-4, to take a half game lead, but Pittsfield can climb back into first place tonight with a victory in the final game of the first half. The pennant winner will be decided in a one-game playoff between the winners of the first and second halves. Gloversville edged the Rome Colonels, 5 to 4, as Buck Etchison, the Rome manager, had "4 for 4" including a homer and drove in three runs. At Pittsfield, Joe Ross racked up his 10th win in a two and is now 11 and 2 for the season. He took the measure of a 14 and 2 performer in Lee McPhail. Fireworks follow the night game of July 4th.

City Baseball League Calls Meeting for Friday Night

SAM THE MAN, AND TWO NEW COLONIALS

Big Sam Piacentino, acting player-manager of the Colonials, center, is flanked by some high class talent who will boost Kingston's chances in the second round of the Can-Am League. On the left is Bill O'Brien, new outfielder on option from the Class B Inter-State League, who made an impressive debut last night. Nick Marino, hard hitting shortstop, is on the right. Marino, formerly with Amsterdam, has been batting near the .500 mark since joining the club. These three topnotchers will be on display tonight at municipal stadium when the Colonials meet the Amsterdam Rugmakers at 8 o'clock. (Freeman Photo).

Snead-Burkemo In PGA Finals

Oakmont, Pa., July 3 (AP)—If anyone ever had a chance to write a fabulous finish to a Cinderella story in golf, 32-year-old Walter Burkemo is the guy.

And the folks up on St. Clair street in Grosse Pointe, Mich., are rooting for him to take his putter in hand today and write it with a flourish.

The strong-hearted blond from Franklin, Mich., goes against the great Sam Snead, the par-busting West Virginian, in the 36-hole finals for the 33rd professional golf championship.

And the startling angle is that the former army sergeant, winner of two Purple Hearts as the result of World War 2 wounds, believes he has a good chance to win the title test over Oakmont's 6882 yards of heavily-trapped and treacherous terrain.

The experts point to the fact that Snead, two-time winner and twice runner-up in the professional fixture, is 18 under par for 136 holes of match play over this rain-soaked course, while Burkemo has been forced into extra holes by three of five opponents and is 10 over the cards for 147 holes.

In yesterday's semi-finals, in which the losers picked up a $750 pay check, Snead was six under par in whipping Charley Bassler of Catonsville, Md., 9 and 8, one of the most impressive showings in the history of the classic.

Burkemo, two down with two to go against former tennis champion Ellsworth Vines, rallied to win the last two with a birdie and a par, and then copped the finals berth with a birdie on the first extra hole.

The Scoreboard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

All Murry Dickson needs to become the first pitcher in 48 years to win 20 games for a last place National League club is 10 more victories and the cooperation of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The last-place Buccaneers, of course, must remain in the cellar.

The 33-year-old righthander notched his tenth triumph last night to lead a large list of individual achievements in an unusually active Monday of baseball.

Here are some of last night's highlights as every club but Detroit and the St. Louis Browns saw action:

1. Allie Reynolds' scoreless streak was snapped at 32 1/3 innings and he walked his first batter in 37 2/3 innings but he gave the New York Yankees a full game lead in the American League race by stopping the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-5. It was Reynolds' sixth straight victory.

2. Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan scored all three runs as the Indians nipped the Chicago White Sox, 3-2 with the aid of Lou Brissie's perfect relief hurling for 2 /3 innings.

3. Rookie southpaw Leo Kiely, in his first big league start, pitched the third-place Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over Washington as Vern Stephens hit his third big league homer in spacious Griffith Stadium. The win cut Chicago's second-place margin to 2½ games.

Hodges Clouts 25th

4. Gil Hodges clouted his 25th homer for Brooklyn to help Preacher Roe beat Boston's Braves, 6-1, for the southpaw's 11th victory against only one defeat. The homer put Hodges a game ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when the Bambino hit his record 60 homers.

5. Jim Hearn of the Giants whipped his Philadelphia "cousins" for the 10th time in 11 decisions but he needed relief help from George Spencer as well as Bobby Thomson's 11th homer in the sixth inning with a man on base. It was the second straight day Thomson won a game with a homer.

6. Pete Castiglione batted in three Pittsburgh runs with a single, double and triple, and scored twice to lead the Pirates to their 7-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

7. Stan Musial raised his league-leading batting mark to .370 with two singles and drove in two St. Louis runs as the Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds, 8-2.

A home run by Ransom Jackson with one on in the seventh deprived Dickson of a shutout but the little curveballer rang up his 10th win. Since Pittsburgh still has 87 games left on its schedule, Dickson stands a fair chance of gaining 20 wins.

Distinct Class

Only two pitchers ever won 20 or more games for a last place National League club. Noodles Hahn copped 22 for the 1901 Reds and Bob Wicker won 20 for the 1903 Cardinals. The American League has had three. Scott Perry won 21 for the 1918 Athletics, Howard Ehmke registered 20 for the 1923 Red Sox and Sloppy Thurston rang up 20 for the 1924 White Sox.

The Yankees belted Bobby Shantz, Alex Kellner and Johnny Kucab for 20 hits, including two homers by Hank Bauer and one by Gene Woodling.

The Dodgers clubbed Johnny Sain and Bob Chipman for 14 hits as they retained their 5½-game lead in the National League.

Travel Improves Game Says Savitt

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP)—There's nothing like a world tour to improve your tennis game says Dick Savitt, the new hero of Wimbledon.

"I've been home only one week in the past year," Dick observed while resting before going into the semi-final round of the All-England championships tomorrow. "And believe me, I've learned plenty in my tour of the world, especially in Australia."

The 24-year-old Cornell graduate will meet Herbie Flam in one semi-final, a totally unexpected match. Savitt eliminated American champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, and Flam polished off Australian star Frank Sedgman, 2-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, yesterday in the quarter finals.

The other semi-final will send South Africa's Eric Sturgess against Ken McGregor, an Aussie Davis Cup mate of Sedgman's. Sturgess whipped Armando Vieira of Brazil, 6-2, 6-0, 6-3, while McGregor had a fight on his hands before prevailing over Lennart Bergelin of Sweden, 6-0, 4-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Casey Suicide; Ex-Dodger Great

Fleming said Casey's body was found with a .16 gauge shotgun wound in the neck.

The officers said ill health apparently led the great relief pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers to take his own life. Casey was known to have been in poor health for some time.

Mrs. Casey told officers she heard the shot.

Fleming quoted a bell boy at the (Atlantan) hotel, where the former mound star registered last week, as saying Casey told him Saturday that his physician had given him only about 10 days to live because of a heart ailment.

Gordon McNabb, a friend, told police Casey telephoned him shortly after midnight and said he planned to kill himself. McNabb, officers related, sought to dissuade Casey, then hurried to the hotel.

When McNabb was about 30 feet from the door to Casey's room he heard the blast. McNabb said Casey had made similar threats for the past three days.

Police Captain Marvin Thomas said Mrs. Casey told him she had tried to persuade Casey not to take his life. The Caseys had not been living together, Capt. Thomas said.

He pitched for Brooklyn between 1939 and 1948. In 1947 he established a record for most games pitched in a World Series—six—and for the most games finished in a World Series—six.

Last summer he returned to Atlanta and pitched in relief for Atlanta. At one time this spring he was reported working out with Brooklyn in an effort to return to the majors.

Financial Crisis Up for Discussion; New Plans Set

Jones Dairy Blanks Merchants, 8 to 0

The City Baseball League has called an emergency meeting for Friday, July 6, at 7:30 p. m. at the Y.M.C.A. to decide the fate of the league, it was announced this morning.

An unofficial source said the twilight circuit had incurred a deficit of nearly $450 for operations to date and unless new sources of revenue are tapped the 1952 schedule is likely to end with Thursday's game between Morgan's Merchants and Boulevard Gulf.

A league official said that several persons came forward with panaceas to cure the ills of the twilight league, following publication yesterday of the news of the league's financial dilemma.

The schedule resumes this evening at the Athletic Field with a game between Wiltwyck Motors and Old Capital Motors.

Jones Dairy Wins

Clark Donlon shut out the Merchants, 8 to 0, on two hits in yesterday's contest, as Jones Dairy notched its fourth victory of the season to go a game over the .500 mark.

Singles by Post and Davis were the only Morgan safeties off the Dairy hurler, who fanned five and walked two.

The Dairymen collected only six safeties off Vince Clearwater but picked up three unearned runs and five legitimate tallies to win in a breeze with two big innings.

A base on balls, two hit batsmen, two errors and singles by Charlie Neff, Sal Misasi and Donlon accounted for five Jones markers in the first. A trio of tallies in the third closed out the scoring.

All persons interested in the fate of the City League are invited to attend Friday's meeting at the Y. Ways and means of raising money will be discussed.

Flint, Mich.—Lightweight champion James Carter, 135½, New York, knocked out Ronnie Harper, 139¼, Charleston, W. Va., (5) non-title.

Baseball Is on Trial - - - - What Is Your Decision?

Baseball is on trial on two widely separated fronts in Kingston this week.

Not so far apart geographically, but widely divergent in their purpose and scope. We mean the municipal stadium which houses the Class C Can-Am League Colonials and the Athletic Field where City Twilight League teams have held forth for nearly three decades.

Within a matter of a few hours, a new regime and a new Can-Am League gets under way. Forgotten are the miseries of the ill-fated first half. The Kingston Colonials, strengthened and refurbished, will have a ball club the city can be proud of. We predict they will be contenders in the second half setup which will feature eight teams.

The question arises: Will the Kingston baseball public, so apathetic, so indifferent during first half of play, respond to a greatly improved ball club and an enlightened front office setup?

For the sake of baseball itself, we hope the answer is yes. We firmly believe that the community owes a debt of gratitude to that small group of hard working men who have struggled to keep the national pastime alive. They deserve your support. And the Kingston Colonials will be the kind of club you will want to see in action during the second half.

Remember, there's nothing that ever captures the excitement of a good baseball game like being there and seeing it for yourself.

If you agree that baseball is good for Kingston, there are three things you can do to help the Colonials. First, go to the games; second, influence your friends and neighbors so that they will attend; and third, talk baseball. Make yourself a committee of one to boost the team.

There's nothing wrong with the Colonials that a few more fans in the park wouldn't help. Kingston will have a good ball club, a good manager and as fine a bunch of young men as you will ever want to meet. Get around to municipal stadium and see the young men you have been reading or hearing about.

No team can play to empty stands and stay in organized baseball. If you felt that the Colonials weren't up to the kind of par you set for yourself in the first half, we know they'll change your mind the second time around.

Do you want baseball to stay here in Kingston? If you want it, the burden of the proof is in your laps. Go to the games. If not, the ball club no matter how strengthened or improved will not survive.

As we said a few days ago, there is more to an organized baseball team than a mere enjoyment of it. There is also our responsibility to give support and encouragement to our local baseball team so that as a community we will be playing an active part in the development of a truly American sport . . . from right here at home.

Kingston has enjoyed a grand baseball tradition since before the turn of the century. It seems incredible that the good citizens of Kingston will permit either the Colonials or the City League to die on the vine.

And City League fans, when you visit the games don't put a nickel or dime in the basket. If you feel the game is worthwhile enough to attend and enjoy, then it should be worth at least a quarter, don't you think?

Colonials Win Over Amsterdam, 7-3; Ready for Holiday Action

Dick Connors Hurls Second Victory

The new order is beginning to take shape at municipal stadium.

A newcomer, Bill O'Brien outfielder on option from Harrisburgh, Pa. of the Class B Inter-State League, played an important role in the Colonials' 7-3 conquest of the Amsterdam Rugmakers last night at municipal stadium.

Another new player — first baseman Jack Bickett—arrived too late to see action, but will be in uniform against the Yankee farmhands in the closing game of the series tonight.

The July 4th day-night doubleheader with the Pittsfield Electrics, who may have established themselves as first round champions by that time, will find the Colonials at their top strength for the season.

Bickett replaces Jack Allen at first base. The Kingston catcher has done a commendable job since replacing Red Klinger, who drew his release a few days ago.

Connors Wins Second

Southpaw Dick Connors finished against the Amsterdam powerhouse to nail down last night's win, but it took a couple of sensational defensive plays by O'Brien and Nick Marino to pull him out of two dangerous spots.

In his Colonial debut, O'Brien drove in a run with a seventh-inning single. He made a sensational shoe-string, one-handed catch of Ossie Barham's sinking liner in the sixth and turned it into a double play. The score was 5-3 at the time and had the ball gone through, it would have been a tie ball game.

An inning later, Nick Marino made an equally spectacular play when he raced to short left field with his back in the infield to grab Rap Posipank's bid for a Texas Leaguer. Two runners were on and running with two out at the time.

Backed by these two superlative plays, Connors pitched creditably for his second decision of the season. Two of the Amsterdam markers were tainted. His own error contributed the first and a wild pitch and double steal set up the second in the third inning. A pass to Frank Wehner followed by singles off the bats of Al Stuhlmiller and John Paul Jones accounted for Amsterdam's third run in the sixth. A big inning threatened until O'Brien came up with his great catch.

Sam Out of Slump

Big Sam Piacentino, player-manager left fielder, came out of his batting slump with a pair of solid doubles that bounced off the billboard in left field. Sam also drew a walk and knocked in a run.

Nick Marino rapped a double and two singles and had two RBIs to continue his meteoric pace since transferring to the salubrious climate of municipal stadium.

Kingston sported a 5-2 bulge at the end of three innings. Marino doubled Dennis Healey home with the first run after the second sacker walked. Leo Rozyla, the Amsterdam starter, loaded the sacks with walks to Lou Kramberg and Piacentino and Joe Niro delivered Marino with a long fly to center.

O'Brien's walk, Jack Allen's single and an infield error set up Kingston's third run. Kramberg and Piacentino pounded back-to-back doubles for a run in the third. A big inning was in the makin when Posipanka miscued on Niro's grounder but O'Brien jammed into a DP. Allen singled and Connors walked to load the sacks but Charlie Aspromonte popped to third base.

Rozyla was relieved with two out and one run in during the seventh. O'Brien's single to center had scored Nick Marino, who singled and stole second. Tom Mollica got Allen on a fly to right to end the frame and Lou Paz pitched the eighth for the visitors, yielding an unearned run on a couple of errors and Marino's third hit.

Can-Am Capers

Miron Lumber and Schryver Lumber billboards add new color to the stadium setup. It's beginning to look like a real ball park. KBC officials pondering possibility of setting up box seats along baselines. Crowd was enthusiastic and lively for a change. O'Brien got a big hand the first time at bat. Bickett was accorded a similar ovation when he arrived in the seventh inning. The Oneonta Red Sox and Pittsfield Electrics tangle tonight to decide the winner of the first half of the Can-Am League's split schedule. The Sox trounced the Electrics last night, 10-4, to take a half game lead, but Pittsfield can climb back into first place tonight with a victory in the final game of the first half. The pennant winner will be decided in a one-game playoff between the winners of the first and second halves. Gloversville edged the Rome Colonels, 5 to 4, as Buck Etchison, the Rome manager, had "4 for 4" including a homer and drove in three runs. At Pittsfield, Joe Ross racked up his 10th win in a two and is now 11 and 2 for the season. He took the measure of a 14 and 2 performer in Lee McPhail. Fireworks follow the night game of July 4th.

City Baseball League Calls Meeting for Friday Night

SAM THE MAN, AND TWO NEW COLONIALS

Big Sam Piacentino, acting player-manager of the Colonials, center, is flanked by some high class talent who will boost Kingston's chances in the second round of the Can-Am League. On the left is Bill O'Brien, new outfielder on option from the Class B Inter-State League, who made an impressive debut last night. Nick Marino, hard hitting shortstop, is on the right. Marino, formerly with Amsterdam, has been batting near the .500 mark since joining the club. These three topnotchers will be on display tonight at municipal stadium when the Colonials meet the Amsterdam Rugmakers at 8 o'clock. (Freeman Photo).

Snead-Burkemo In PGA Finals

Oakmont, Pa., July 3 (AP)—If anyone ever had a chance to write a fabulous finish to a Cinderella story in golf, 32-year-old Walter Burkemo is the guy.

And the folks up on St. Clair street in Grosse Pointe, Mich., are rooting for him to take his putter in hand today and write it with a flourish.

The strong-hearted blond from Franklin, Mich., goes against the great Sam Snead, the par-busting West Virginian, in the 36-hole finals for the 33rd professional golf championship.

And the startling angle is that the former army sergeant, winner of two Purple Hearts as the result of World War 2 wounds, believes he has a good chance to win the title test over Oakmont's 6882 yards of heavily-trapped and treacherous terrain.

The experts point to the fact that Snead, two-time winner and twice runner-up in the professional fixture, is 18 under par for 136 holes of match play over this rain-soaked course, while Burkemo has been forced into extra holes by three of five opponents and is 10 over the cards for 147 holes.

In yesterday's semi-finals, in which the losers picked up a $750 pay check, Snead was six under par in whipping Charley Bassler of Catonsville, Md., 9 and 8, one of the most impressive showings in the history of the classic.

Burkemo, two down with two to go against former tennis champion Ellsworth Vines, rallied to win the last two with a birdie and a par, and then copped the finals berth with a birdie on the first extra hole.

The Scoreboard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

All Murry Dickson needs to become the first pitcher in 48 years to win 20 games for a last place National League club is 10 more victories and the cooperation of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The last-place Buccaneers, of course, must remain in the cellar.

The 33-year-old righthander notched his tenth triumph last night to lead a large list of individual achievements in an unusually active Monday of baseball.

Here are some of last night's highlights as every club but Detroit and the St. Louis Browns saw action:

1. Allie Reynolds' scoreless streak was snapped at 32 1/3 innings and he walked his first batter in 37 2/3 innings but he gave the New York Yankees a full game lead in the American League race by stopping the Philadelphia Athletics, 14-5. It was Reynolds' sixth straight victory.

2. Cleveland catcher Jim Hegan scored all three runs as the Indians nipped the Chicago White Sox, 3-2 with the aid of Lou Brissie's perfect relief hurling for 2 /3 innings.

3. Rookie southpaw Leo Kiely, in his first big league start, pitched the third-place Boston Red Sox to a 5-2 victory over Washington as Vern Stephens hit his third big league homer in spacious Griffith Stadium. The win cut Chicago's second-place margin to 2½ games.

Hodges Clouts 25th

4. Gil Hodges clouted his 25th homer for Brooklyn to help Preacher Roe beat Boston's Braves, 6-1, for the southpaw's 11th victory against only one defeat. The homer put Hodges a game ahead of Babe Ruth's 1927 pace when the Bambino hit his record 60 homers.

5. Jim Hearn of the Giants whipped his Philadelphia "cousins" for the 10th time in 11 decisions but he needed relief help from George Spencer as well as Bobby Thomson's 11th homer in the sixth inning with a man on base. It was the second straight day Thomson won a game with a homer.

6. Pete Castiglione batted in three Pittsburgh runs with a single, double and triple, and scored twice to lead the Pirates to their 7-2 win over the Chicago Cubs.

7. Stan Musial raised his league-leading batting mark to .370 with two singles and drove in two St. Louis runs as the Cardinals downed the Cincinnati Reds, 8-2.

A home run by Ransom Jackson with one on in the seventh deprived Dickson of a shutout but the little curveballer rang up his 10th win. Since Pittsburgh still has 87 games left on its schedule, Dickson stands a fair chance of gaining 20 wins.

Distinct Class

Only two pitchers ever won 20 or more games for a last place National League club. Noodles Hahn copped 22 for the 1901 Reds and Bob Wicker won 20 for the 1903 Cardinals. The American League has had three. Scott Perry won 21 for the 1918 Athletics, Howard Ehmke registered 20 for the 1923 Red Sox and Sloppy Thurston rang up 20 for the 1924 White Sox.

The Yankees belted Bobby Shantz, Alex Kellner and Johnny Kucab for 20 hits, including two homers by Hank Bauer and one by Gene Woodling.

The Dodgers clubbed Johnny Sain and Bob Chipman for 14 hits as they retained their 5½-game lead in the National League.

Travel Improves Game Says Savitt

Wimbledon, England, July 3 (AP)—There's nothing like a world tour to improve your tennis game says Dick Savitt, the new hero of Wimbledon.

"I've been home only one week in the past year," Dick observed while resting before going into the semi-final round of the All-England championships tomorrow. "And believe me, I've learned plenty in my tour of the world, especially in Australia."

The 24-year-old Cornell graduate will meet Herbie Flam in one semi-final, a totally unexpected match. Savitt eliminated American champion Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, and Flam polished off Australian star Frank Sedgman, 2-6, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, yesterday in the quarter finals.

The other semi-final will send South Africa's Eric Sturgess against Ken McGregor, an Aussie Davis Cup mate of Sedgman's. Sturgess whipped Armando Vieira of Brazil, 6-2, 6-0, 6-3, while McGregor had a fight on his hands before prevailing over Lennart Bergelin of Sweden, 6-0, 4-6, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Casey Suicide; Ex-Dodger Great

Atlanta, July 3 (AP) — Hugh Casey, former major league pitching star, committed suicide in a hotel here early today, Lt. C. R. Fleming of the Atlanta police reported.

Fleming said Casey's body was found with a .16 gauge shotgun wound in the neck.

The officers said ill health apparently led the great relief pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers to take his own life. Casey was known to have been in poor health for some time.

Casey was talking by phone to his wife in their Atlanta home when he fired the blast that took his life, Fleming said.

Mrs. Casey told officers she heard the shot.

Fleming quoted a bell boy at the (Atlantan) hotel, where the former mound star registered last week, as saying Casey told him Saturday that his physician had given him only about 10 days to live because of a heart ailment.

Gordon McNabb, a friend, told police Casey telephoned him shortly after midnight and said he planned to kill himself. McNabb, officers related, sought to dissuade Casey, then hurried to the hotel.

When McNabb was about 30 feet from the door to Casey's room he heard the blast. McNabb said Casey had made similar threats for the past three days.

Police Captain Marvin Thomas said Mrs. Casey told him she had tried to persuade Casey not to take his life. The Caseys had not been living together, Capt. Thomas said.

Casey, 38, was a native of Atlanta. He began his baseball career with Atlanta of the Southern Association in 1932. He left the big leagues after pitching for Pittsburgh in 1949.

He pitched for Brooklyn between 1939 and 1948. In 1947 he established a record for most games pitched in a World Series—six—and for the most games finished in a World Series—six.

Last summer he returned to Atlanta and pitched in relief for Atlanta. At one time this spring he was reported working out with Brooklyn in an effort to return to the majors.

Financial Crisis Up for Discussion; New Plans Set

Jones Dairy Blanks Merchants, 8 to 0

The City Baseball League has called an emergency meeting for Friday, July 6, at 7:30 p. m. at the Y.M.C.A. to decide the fate of the league, it was announced this morning.

An unofficial source said the twilight circuit had incurred a deficit of nearly $450 for operations to date and unless new sources of revenue are tapped the 1952 schedule is likely to end with Thursday's game between Morgan's Merchants and Boulevard Gulf.

A league official said that several persons came forward with panaceas to cure the ills of the twilight league, following publication yesterday of the news of the league's financial dilemma.

The schedule resumes this evening at the Athletic Field with a game between Wiltwyck Motors and Old Capital Motors.

Jones Dairy Wins

Clark Donlon shut out the Merchants, 8 to 0, on two hits in yesterday's contest, as Jones Dairy notched its fourth victory of the season to go a game over the .500 mark.

Singles by Post and Davis were the only Morgan safeties off the Dairy hurler, who fanned five and walked two.

The Dairymen collected only six safeties off Vince Clearwater but picked up three unearned runs and five legitimate tallies to win in a breeze with two big innings.

A base on balls, two hit batsmen, two errors and singles by Charlie Neff, Sal Misasi and Donlon accounted for five Jones markers in the first. A trio of tallies in the third closed out the scoring.

All persons interested in the fate of the City League are invited to attend Friday's meeting at the Y. Ways and means of raising money will be discussed.

Flint, Mich.—Lightweight champion James Carter, 135¼, New York, knocked out Ronnie Harper, 139¼, Charleston, W. Va., (5) non-title.

• A Busman's Holiday:

Instead of taking off to the hills to forget it all for a precious 168 hours, what does the sportswriter, the low-brow of the journalistic profession, do? He just spends his time in ball parks and golf clubs. No music, no culture, no theatre, no sipping. Just baseball, boxing and golf.

If you Brooklyn Dodger fans want a sure-fire whammy on the Giants, let us know and we'll show up at the ball park. That's all. Four times running now, we've seen the Daffiness Boys upend Loud Leo's Lions. The latest was that 10-4 job Don Newcombe turned in last week. Newcombe didn't have enough stuff to keep warm on a rather humid day, but from the stands it was quite obvious that Big Jim Hearn had even less.

Caught the Giant-Dodger game and the Jake LaMotta-Bob Murphy shindig with Pete Keresman from a mezzanine box at the Yankee Stadium. Below us, Harry Markson was scanning the skies anxiously with the threat of rain hovering over New York almost up to fight time.

Suffice to say Murphy, the Terrible Mick, gave LaMotta, a now docile Bull, an artistic shellacking. Except for a boxing purist, the contest had little eye appeal. Murphy butchered fatstuff Jake in the last three rounds. With his money and a gorgeous blonde wife, that LaMotta insists on getting his ears beat in, yet.

Judging from the excitement around town, the Little League got off to an auspicious start. President Bob Umpleby of KAA seemed very pleased with public response to the first week's play in the Little League.

And how about that Joe Hoffman, Jr. Three home runs and a pair of doubles in his first game! All of which caused one wag to remark: That's more homers than the old man hit in his entire career. That sounded like a needle set up by Tommy Davitt or Hank Cragan. Hank's youngster is among the more polished batsmen of the circuit and Tom Davitt, Jr., must rate as the Hal Chase of the first sackers. We got quite a charge watching Hobart Armstrong make a nice catch in centerfield and then double a sleepy runner off first base.

On a flying trip to Pennsylvania, we spent some time at Fred Waring's lush Shawnee-on-the-Delaware golf club. The golf course is bisected by the Delaware river and is one of the most impressive layouts in the country.

Tom Robbins, the distinguished Westchester golf salesman and the outstanding senior golfer in the nation, was in the finals of the annual Shawnee Invitational against a hotrod from Philadelphia and the bet were flying on the Philadelphian.

After the usual ceremonies, Robbins stepped up to the first tee, and, yep, you guessed it. He flubbed the drive. But champion that he is, he made a terrific spoon recovery to knock the ball stiff to the pin and capture the hole. He went on to win the crown.

A visit to Catskill Country Club for the 27-hole Northeastern Open afforded us the opportunity to play the last nine holes with Dr. Mahlon Atkinson of Catskill, master of surgery and delicate golf strokes. Catskill Country Club is a marvelous nine-hole layout at par 37. Ralph E. Gardner, the income tax tycoon, came along and collected a case of hot pups following Alex Gerlak, George Hughes and Alvin Boice.

News of the shaky financial setup at the Athletic Field came as a blow. The reaction has been inevitable with the twi circuit. Folks are still tossing in dimes and nickels, sometimes a quarter. And club officials are paying $36 a dozen for baseballs that ten years ago were purchased for $15 per. Cost of help and maintenance has doubled and tripled in some cases. And folks are still dropping in nickels and dimes. It was inevitable that this unbalanced state of economics would soon assert itself in disaster to the circuit.

We sincerely hope the City League survives this year and the seasons to come. It is a purely local institution that should never be permitted to die. The City League should be in existence at all cost.

If all baseball fails, this will be a nice, quiet little town in which to die.

Dodgers Place Seven On NL All-Star Team

Sawyer Selects Top Hurlers

By JACK HAND

New York, July 3 (AP)—A seven-man gang from Brooklyn dominates the National League squad for the 18th All-Star baseball game July 10 at Detroit.

Not bound by the purely American League rule limiting selection of pitchers to one from each club, manager Eddie Sawyer named Preacher Roe and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn and Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen of New York to his eight-man staff.

Sawyer, manager of the pennant-winning Phillies in 1950 and thus boss of the Nationals, picked 17 men today. The eight starters already were voted into the line-up by the fans.

Back of the "big four" from the leading Dodgers and runnerup Giants, Sawyer's staff includes his own Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn of Boston, Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati and Dutch Leonard of Chicago.

Sawyer has two lefthanders and six righties on his pitching roster to face a predominantly left-handed hitting American League starting lineup. Once the starters are out, the balance will swing, as 10 of the 17 non-pitchers on the American bat righthanded. The starter players must play the first three innings. Starting pitchers will be named Monday.

The fans made sure the Dodgers had a solid delegation by voting starting jobs to first baseman Gil Hodges, the home run sensation of the year; second baseman Jackie Robinson and catcher Campanella.

Apparently Sawyer shares the fans' respect for the Dodgers. He added Roe and Newcombe as well as shortstop Pee Wee Reese, named for the seventh time, and center fielder Duke Snider.

The squad:

(Pitchers)
Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati
Larry Jansen, New York
Emil (Dutch) Leonard, Chicago
Sal Maglie, New York
Don Newcombe, Brooklyn
Robin Roberts, Philadelphia
Elwin (Preacher) Roe, Brooklyn
Warren Spahn, Boston

(Catchers)
*Roy Campanella, Brooklyn
Bruce Edwards, Chicago

(Infield)
*Alvin Dark, New York
*Bob Elliott, Boston
*Gil Hodges, Brooklyn
Willie Jones, Philadelphia
Harold (Pee Wee) Reese Brooklyn.
*Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn
Al (Red) Schoendienst, St. Louis

(Outfield)
*Richie Ashburn, Philedelphia
*Del Ennis, Philadelphia
Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh
*Stan Musial, St. Louis
Enos Slaughter, St. Louis
Edwin (Duke) Snider, Brooklyn
Wally Westlake, St. Louis
Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati
*Starters.

Musial, Minoso Lead Averages

New York, July 3 (AP)—Stan Musial has boosted his National League batting lead to 15 points with a .366 average as the race nears the half way post.

The St. Louis Cardinal slugger, now back on first base, pulled away from slumping Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn who fell into a second-place tie with the Phils' Richie Ashburn at .351. All averages include Sunday's games.

Bob Elliott of Boston, always a powerful threat, clung to fourth place at .345. There is a 10-point gap between Elliott and fifth-place Al Dark of New York, the all-star shortstop, who is hitting .335.

Peanuts Lowrey, putting on another spurt for St. Louis, gained 14 points to take sixth place at .329. Then came Roy Campanella of Brooklyn, .323.

Frank Baumholtz of Chicago was eighth, .322 and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh ninth at .314. There was a tenth-place tie between Johnny Wyrostek of Cincinnati and Walker Cooper of Boston at .309.

Minoso Tops AL

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Orestes (Minnie) Minoso, Chicago White Sox rookie outfielder-infielder, has taken over the American League batting leadership from the Philadelphia Athletics' slugging first baseman, Ferris Fain.

Including Sunday's games Minoso had a .335 average to Fain's .352. In the see-saw battle for the top spot Fain topped Minoso .358 to .356 a week ago.

There was only one other change last week among the 10 leading A.L. hitters. Luke Easter of Cleveland moved into fifth spot one point ahead of Boston's Dom DiMaggio. Easter's mark was .331 in 157 times at bat.

The eight A.L. leaders trailing Minoso and Fain are: Nelson Fox, Chicago, .336; Ted Williams, Boston, .335; Easter; Dom DiMaggio; Vern Stephens, Boston, .325; Bob Avila, Cleveland, .319; Gil Coan, Washington, .318, and Jim Busby, Chicago, .316.

Williams and Minoso tied for most runs scored, each with 62. Minoso's 10 triples are tops in that department, and Williams has batted in the most runs—70.

Dom DiMaggio has the most hits, 94. Fain is tops in the doubles department with 22, and Philadelphia's Gus Zernial leads the home run division with 18. Busby, with 17 stolen bases, leads the circuit.

Randy Gumpert of Chicago continues to lead the pitchers with seven triumphs and a single loss. Vic Raschi holds the strikeout top spot, having fanned 74.

One of the worst lies to plague a golfer is the kind that requires shooting out from under a tree with low, overhanging branches.

The ball is going to be played very low to miss the branches.

At the same time it will have to have the impetus to carry the green.

I use the five iron with certain modifications in manner.

I play the ball well back—off my right toe, as a matter of fact.

I make sure I hit down into the ball and not cause it to rise as rapidly as it normally would.

My left foot is withdrawn giving me an open stance and my feet are close together.

I am not going to take a full swing.

Therefore, there is no necessity to have my feet wide apart for balance and power. My follow through will be abbreviated.

It is necessary to make certain adjustments in the grip to keep the ball low.

Using the five iron, the normal loft of the face will cause the ball to rise rather sharply.

To counteract this, I turn my right hand over a bit and close the face just enough to get under the branches.

I shorten my grip somewhat to be standing close, well bent over the ball, with just enough club to make a good, crisp shot with the greatest degree of accuracy possible.

The ball will have to travel 75 yards or more past the branches to reach the green. It is going to be necessary for the ball to rise somewhat after it has cleared the trees. This will take care of itself since the ball still will be rising when it passes under the branches.

Do not even raise the arms to a horizontal position on the follow through.

That will give you too much loft.

NEXT: Herman Barron on the short approach.

That sounded like a needle set up by Tommy Davitt or Hank Cragan. Hank's youngster is among the more polished batsmen of the circuit and Tom Davitt, Jr., must rate as the Hal Chase of the first sackers. We got quite a charge watching Hobart Armstrong make a nice catch in centerfield and then double a sleepy runner off first base.

On a flying trip to Pennsylvania, we spent some time at Fred Waring's lush Shawnee-on-the-Delaware golf club. The golf course is bisected by the Delaware river and is one of the most impressive layouts in the country.

Tom Robbins, the distinguished Westchester golf salesman and the outstanding senior golfer in the nation, was in the finals of the annual Shawnee Invitational against a hotrod from Philadelphia and the bet were flying on the Philadelphian.

After the usual ceremonies, Robbins stepped up to the first tee, and, yep, you guessed it. He flubbed the drive. But champion that he is, he made a terrific spoon recovery to knock the ball stiff to the pin and capture the hole. He went on to win the crown.

A visit to Catskill Country Club for the 27-hole Northeastern Open afforded us the opportunity to play the last nine holes with Dr. Mahlon Atkinson of Catskill, master of surgery and delicate golf strokes. Catskill Country Club is a marvelous nine-hole layout at par 37. Ralph E. Gardner, the income tax tycoon, came along and collected a case of hot pups following Alex Gerlak, George Hughes and Alvin Boice.

News of the shaky financial setup at the Athletic Field came as a blow. The reaction has been inevitable with the twi circuit. Folks are still tossing in dimes and nickels, sometimes a quarter. And club officials are paying $36 a dozen for baseballs that ten years ago were purchased for $15 per. Cost of help and maintenance has doubled and tripled in some cases. And folks are still dropping in nickels and dimes. It was inevitable that this unbalanced state of economics would soon assert itself in disaster to the circuit.

We sincerely hope the City League survives this year and the seasons to come. It is a purely local institution that should never be permitted to die. The City League should be in existence at all cost.

If all baseball fails, this will be a nice, quiet little town in which to die.

Musial, Minoso Lead Averages

New York, July 3 (AP)—Stan Musial has boosted his National League batting lead to 15 points with a .366 average as the race nears the half way post.

The St. Louis Cardinal slugger, now back on first base, pulled away from slumping Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn who fell into a second-place tie with the Phils' Richie Ashburn at .351. All averages include Sunday's games.

Bob Elliott of Boston, always a powerful threat, clung to fourth place at .345. There is a 10-point gap between Elliott and fifth-place Al Dark of New York, the all-star shortstop, who is hitting .335.

Peanuts Lowrey, putting on another spurt for St. Louis, gained 14 points to take sixth place at .329. Then came Roy Campanella of Brooklyn, .323.

Frank Baumholtz of Chicago was eighth, .322 and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh ninth at .314. There was a tenth-place tie between Johnny Wyrostek of Cincinnati and Walker Cooper of Boston at .309.

Minoso Tops AL

Chicago, July 3 (AP)—Orestes (Minnie) Minoso, Chicago White Sox rookie outfielder-infielder, has taken over the American League batting leadership from the Philadelphia Athletics' slugging first baseman, Ferris Fain.

Including Sunday's games Minoso had a .355 average to Fain's .352. In the see-saw battle for the top spot Fain topped Minoso .358 to .356 a week ago.

There was only one other change last week among the 10 leading A.L. hitters. Luke Easter of Cleveland moved into fifth spot one point ahead of Boston's Dom DiMaggio. Easter's mark was .331 in 157 times at bat.

The eight A.L. leaders trailing Minoso and Fain are: Nelson Fox, Chicago, .336; Ted Williams, Boston, .335; Easter; Dom DiMaggio; Vern Stephens, Boston, .325; Bob Avila, Cleveland, .319; Gil Coan, Washington, .318, and Jim Busby, Chicago, .316.

Williams and Minoso tied for most runs scored, each with 62. Minoso's 10 triples are tops in that department, and Williams has batted in the most runs—70.

Dom DiMaggio has the most hits, 94. Fain is tops in the doubles department with 22, and Philadelphia's Gus Zernial leads the home run division with 18. Busby, with 17 stolen bases, leads the circuit.

Randy Gumpert of Chicago continues to lead the pitchers with seven triumphs and a single loss. Vic Raschi holds the strikeout top spot, having fanned 74.

Allspice is obtained from the berries of the pimento tree, which grows in the West Indies. It derives its name from the fact that it is supposed to combine the flavors of cinnamon, nutmeg, and clove.

In reply to a request concerning the Woodstock Business Association's contribution to the Volunteer Firemen's Association of Ulster county's convention, to be held here in July, it was announced that the association would defray the expenses of a fireworks display for the added entertainment of visitors Saturday, July 28.

Mrs. William MacReady, who was elected a director of the association two weeks ago, resigned with regret. John Lullman, of the White Horse Inn, was elected to fill the vacancy.

During the meeting, Bauman was directed to communicate, on behalf of the association, with Kenneth Wilson, town supervisor, to investigate the possibility of installing a yellow caution light at the intersections of Route 28 and 375, and of Routes 212 and 375.

A discussion also took place as to ways and means of improving business in Woodstock other than the summer months. A committee was appointed consisting of William Mower, Leon Carey, Joseph Forno and Harry Alpern to consult with Sam Davis, of the Woodstock motion picture theatre at the Town Hall for this endeavor.

The secretary was instructed to communicate with the organization in New York to obtain full information about the formation of a Community Chest in Woodstock, details of which will be forthcoming at a later date.

The Woodstock Business Association will in the near future extend an invitation to people who are in business in the village, not yet affiliated, to become members of the association.

The association will intensify the activities of the credit bureau, one of the constructive innovations that the organization has fostered. It will continue to be under the supervision of Bauman, who organized the bureau for the association.

Religious Power Asserted

Ontario, Calif. (AP)—"American Christianity is a much more powerful weapon than the atom bomb," says a minister from Hiroshima, Japan. The Rev. Kiyoshi Tanimoto, addressing an open meeting here, said the A-bombs dropped on the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki "did not kill the human heart. American Christian spirit was the real source of victory (for the U. S.)." The Rev. Mr. Kyoshi, pastor of the Nageregawa United Church of Christ, is touring this country to raise funds for a service center for orphans and juvenile delinquents in Hiroshima.

Dodgers Place Seven On NL All-Star Team

Sawyer Selects Top Hurlers

By JACK HAND

New York, July 3 (AP)—A seven-man gang from Brooklyn dominates the National League squad for the 18th All-Star baseball game July 10 at Detroit.

Not bound by the purely American League rule limiting selection of pitchers to one from each club, manager Eddie Sawyer named Preacher Roe and Don Newcombe of Brooklyn and Sal Maglie and Larry Jansen of New York to his eight-man staff.

Sawyer, manager of the pennant-winning Phillies in 1950 and thus boss of the Nationals, picked 17 men today. The eight starters already were voted into the lineup by the fans.

Back of the "big four" from the leading Dodgers and runnerup Giants, Sawyer's staff includes his own Robin Roberts, Warren Spahn of Boston, Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati and Dutch Leonard of Chicago.

Sawyer has two lefthanders and six righties on his pitching roster to face a predominantly left-handed hitting American League starting lineup. Once the starters are out, the balance will swing, as 10 of the 17 non-pitchers on the American bat righthanded. The starter players must play the first three innings. Starting pitchers will be named Monday.

The fans made sure the Dodgers had a solid delegation by voting starting jobs to first baseman Gil Hodges, the home run sensation of the year; second baseman Jackie Robinson and catcher Campanella.

Apparently Sawyer shares the fans' respect for the Dodgers. He added Roe and Newcombe as well as shortstop Pee Wee Reese, named for the seventh time, and center fielder Duke Snider.

The squad:

(Pitchers)
Ewell Blackwell, Cincinnati
Larry Jansen, New York
Emil (Dutch) Leonard, Chicago
Sal Maglie, New York
Don Newcombe, Brooklyn
Robin Roberts, Philadelphia
Elwin (Preacher) Roe, Brooklyn
Warren Spahn, Boston

(Catchers)
*Roy Campanella, Brooklyn
Bruce Edwards, Chicago

(Infield)
*Alvin Dark, New York
*Bob Elliott, Boston
*Gil Hodges, Brooklyn
Willie Jones, Philadelphia
Harold (Pee Wee) Reese Brooklyn.
*Jackie Robinson, Brooklyn
Al (Red) Schoendienst, St. Louis

(Outfield)
*Richie Ashburn, Philedelphia
*Del Ennis, Philadelphia
Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh
*Stan Musial, St. Louis
Enos Slaughter, St. Louis
Edwin (Duke) Snider, Brooklyn
Wally Westlake, St. Louis
Johnny Wyrostek, Cincinnati
*Starters.

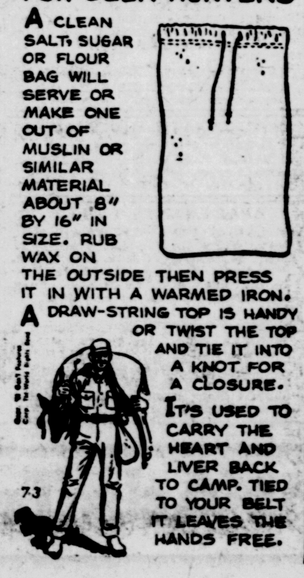
A BLOOD-PROOF BAG FOR DEER HUNTERS



★★★ Learn Golf From the Stars ★★★

By NEA Service

Twenty-first of a series by members of the P.G.A.
By JOHNNY PALMER
Former Western Open Champion

One of the worst lies to plague a golfer is the kind that requires shooting out from under a tree with low, overhanging branches.

The ball is going to be played very low to miss the branches.

At the same time it will have to have the impetus to carry the green.

I use the five iron with certain modifications in manner.

I play the ball well back—off my right toe, as a matter of fact.

I make sure I hit down into the ball and not cause it to rise as rapidly as it normally would.

My left foot is withdrawn giving me an open stance and my feet are close together.

I am not going to take a full swing.

Therefore, there is no necessity to have my feet wide apart for balance and power. My follow through will be abbreviated.

It is necessary to make certain adjustments in the grip to keep the ball low.

Using the five iron, the normal loft of the face will cause the ball to rise rather sharply.

To counteract this, I turn my right hand over a bit and close the face just enough to get under the branches.

I shorten my grip somewhat to be standing close, well bent over the ball, with just enough club to make a good, crisp shot with the greatest degree of accuracy possible.

The ball will have to travel 75 yards or more past the branches to reach the green. It is going to be necessary for the ball to rise somewhat after it has cleared the trees. This will take care of itself since the ball still will be rising when it passes under the branches.

Do not even raise the arms to a horizontal position on the follow through.

That will give you too much loft.

When you finish, the club should be pointing at the ground at about a 45-degree angle.

NEXT: Herman Barron on the short approach.

Day Camp Opens Second Week Slate

The YMCA Day Camp, operating at DeWitt Lake, started its second week of the 1951 season Monday with another large enrollment. A few boys and girls dropped out after one week, but there are 15 new registrants to take their place.

During the first week of camp, more than 125 appeared out of the 133 registered and all were augmented into a typical camping program. About 40 per cent of the boys and girls were in camp for their first time, which meant that it took longer to get all boys and girls actively engaged into the Day Camp routine. Last Thursday and Friday's camp program was somewhat curtailed because of the rainy weather, but camp was in progress just the same with much of the program operating inside the buildings and tents.

The second week will start with the first day of camp going into the regular program. It is the hope of many parents that their children learn how to swim. Swimming instruction is handled by Lou Schafer, camp director, and assisted by Paul Donohue and Carol Culloton. All campers in the beginners' swimming classes made good strides for two days of instruction. This second week, weather permitting, instructions will be given daily, both morning and afternoon.

New children entering day camp this week are, junior camp, Thomas Fitzgerald, Stephen Estroff, Theodora Sickles, Marie Myers, George Tomson, Edward Clark, Thomas Tellier, Douglas Robinson, Ellis Perlman, Ann Reilly, Thomas Wesneski.

Senior camp, Lewis Klein, Joanne Johnston, Gerald and Glen McDonough, Raymond Christiana, William Sill, David and Lois Brown, Eileen and David Eyles, Allen Fassenbender, Joseph Schrowang, Ed Boyle, Ronald Lovy, John Kelly, Barbara and Gail Zimmerman and Charles Turner, Jr.

Joan Winnie 'Fair'

The condition of Joan Winnie, 13, of Brabrant road is "fair," Kingston Hospital authorities reported today. The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Winnie, was reported injured at 8:20 a. m. Monday when the bicycle she was riding was struck by an automobile on the Washington avenue viaduct, police said.

A whale was entangled once in a submarine cable at a depth of 3,240 feet.

Independence Declaration Has Had Many Escapes

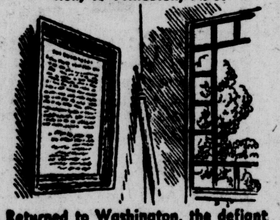
First home of the Declaration of Independence, signed by 56 patriots from the 13 original States of the Union, was in Independence Hall, Philadelphia.

In December, 1776, British troops battled General Washington's troops back across the Delaware. Forced to flee Philadelphia, members of the Continental Congress used a light wagon to transport the document and other precious papers to the safety of Baltimore.

Returned to Philadelphia in 1778, the Declaration's next trip was made in 1783, when angry Colonial soldiers, clamoring for their pay, marched on the State House with fixed bayonets. The lawmakers fled, with the Declaration, to Princeton, N. J.

A silent witness of historic assemblies at Annapolis, Md., and Trenton, N. J., the charter of liberties accompanied the Continental Congress to New York in 1785. There the first U. S. Congress was formed and the Declaration given to President Washington.

The document suffered its next narrow escape in the War of 1812. As the British laid siege to Washington, by now the nation's capital, Gen. Vincent Pleasonton had the government's papers wrapped in linen and placed into carts which were hidden overnight in an abandoned grist mill near Georgetown, Va.



Returned to Washington, the defiant document by which the Union had severed its allegiance to Britain was housed in several buildings—longest in the supposedly fireproof Patent Office Building where it hung for 35 years, exposed to light that made it fade badly.

In 1877, fire destroyed the Patent Office. Fortunately, the precious paper, which had just been brought back from Philadelphia's Centennial Exposition, was, at that time, on exhibition at the library of the State, War and Navy Departments.

For the next 27 years, the parchment was kept in a steel safe. In 1921, by order of the President, it was placed on public view in a permanent shrine in the Library of Congress.

As America celebrates the 175th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, few Americans realize the exciting, thrill-packed life the great document has led. Homeless for the first 101 years of its life, it had narrow escapes from "dangers of invasion from without and convulsions within." It survived journeys to 10 cities in five states as well as two wars on American soil. Above are illustrated some of the adventures the Declaration experienced in its drama-packed history.

Keator Is Chosen 'Manager of the Month'

Hervey Keator, manager of the 9W Drive-In, a Walter Reade Theatre on Saugerties road, north of the Kingston by-pass, has joined the select group of circuit managers to win the coveted "Manager of the Month" award, it was disclosed today by Walter Reade, Jr.

Keator was named "Manager of the Month" for May for outstanding work in the combined fields of personnel management, physicial theatre operation, public relations, advertising and exploitation, Reade said. He was in direct competition with managers of all 40 of the Reade Theatres located in New York and New Jersey. The award carries a cash prize.

Second prize in May was shared by Al Lidman, manager of the Lawrence Drive-In Theatre in Trenton, N. J., and Guy Hevia, city manager for the six Walter Reade Theatres in Asbury Park, N. J. The awards were presented last Tuesday at a conference of all managerial personnel at the circuit's New York city offices.

Reade particularly cited Keator for the outstanding physical appearance of the theatre, and his efforts which resulted in record-high grosses for the Drive-In in May.

It's Up to Aussies

Canberra, Australia, July 2 (AP)—Newsmen today asked Prime Minister Robert Menzies whether New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey on his Australia visit next month should be called "Mister Doo-ey or Mister Due-ey." "Well," said Menzies, "I'll call him Mister Due-ey, but many Americans call him Mister Doo-ey. It's up to you." "What about me?" the prime minister demanded. "When I am in the best society—when I visit the Melbourne Scots—they call me Mingies, and others call me Menzies."

Murphy Issues 58 Building Permits

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy issued 58 building permits in June at a total estimated cost of $154,276.

This was $456,894 under the May total when only 46 permits were issued, but that month's total was high because of two planned apartment projects for the Miller's Lane area.

The permits issued last month included 12 for new dwellings at $114,500, three for garages at $3,100, 27 for alterations additions and repairs on residential buildings at $14,746, and four for the same purposes on non-residential structures at $13,050.

One permit was issued for a gas tank at $2,500 and 11 for oil tanks and burners at $6,380.

Fast Discarding May Cost You

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Your best discard depends on a great many factors: the nature of your hand, the skill of your opponents, the skill of your partner, the state of the score, and so on. The nature of your hand is usually the most important feature to consider. The state of the score is usually the next most important item.

For example, let's consider the same hand at two different scores. We'll find that a different discard appeals to us because of the difference in the score.

You have just made your first draw from the stock, and you hold: Q-Q-Q, J-J, 10, 7-7, 6-6, 3-2.

The three is, of course, black in color. What is your best discard?

When both sides need 50 points, you might decide to throw one of the queens. This would keep four pairs in your hand and would leave you a chance to develop a fifth pair. The reason for throwing the queen rather than the black three is psychological. The player at your right may be persuaded into discarding a queen to you.

If you need 50 points against 90 for the opponents, there would be a somewhat stronger case for throwing the queen. If you need 50 points against 120 for the opponents, the queen discard is a virtual must.

Small cards will surely be thrown pretty soon, and your hand will almost surely win the pack in short order. You discard the queen partly to deceive the enemy and partly because you intend to discard all of the queens if necessary.

You will have four safe discards—the first queen, the black three, and then the other queens. In the meantime the right-hand opponent has to avoid giving you the pack. He'll have a hard time.

You would not begin to break up your meld if you needed more than 50 points. For example, at 90 all or at 90 for you and 120 for the enemy you would save your queens. Instead you would discard the singleton ten.

The reason is that you are just close enough to the count to hope for a joker or even another deuce. If you develop well, you may win the pack—provided that you don't lose your count. If you develop poorly, you might just as well keep your melds to help your partner. If your partner also develops poorly, you are in for a bad time, of course, but even then you will be better off if you save your meldable combinations.

more humid Wednesday with showers likely late Wednesday afternoon and at night. Highest temperature today in 80's, lowest tonight in 60's. Not quite so warm Wednesday.

Eastern New York — Partly cloudy, highest temperature 76-82 today. Fair tonight, lowest temperature 54-58 in west and north portions, 58-62 in southeast portion. Wednesday some cloudiness, little change in temperature.

MARINES "STRETCH" DURING A BREAK—Marines on the East Central front in Korea play a game called "Stretch" during a lull in fighting. The game goes like this: Players stand in a circle, with feet together, and take turns trying to stick a bayonet in the ground within a bayonet's length of any other player's foot. The target man must cover the bayonet scar with his foot. As the game goes on, players get progressively further "stretched" and are eliminated one by one as they can't stretch any more. Last man standing is winner. (Acme photo by Staff Photographer Jim Healy.)

STARTING THEIR COMEBACK—Citizens of Chinju, Korea, aren't waiting for the end of the war to rebuild their shattered city, which was 60 per cent destroyed when it was recaptured from the Reds by UN forces. Fully 60,000 of its 80,000 residents were homeless when the Communists were driven out. Here a Chinju farmer plows a field while workers build a new home for him.

Word of Caution on Korea

Chairman Tom Connally (D-Tex.) (right) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee thanks Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk for coming to the Capitol in Washington to brief the senators of Korean cease-fire negotiations. Rusk told newsmen there still is as much reason for caution regarding the Korean situation as there was a week ago. "They are still building up on the other side." (AP Wirephoto)

Howard R. Davis (right) of Williamsport, Pa., newly-elected Grand Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, is congratulated by Joseph B. Democrats to Hold Two Conventions

The Democratic unofficial conventions will be held this evening at the court house at 8 o'clock with the county convention getting under way first, followed by the city convention.

As usual there seems to be some difference of opinion as to who will be the ultimate candidates but the latest report which appears to have some basis is that Fred Dusing of New Paltz will be the party's choice for county clerk. It is unlikely that a candidate for coroner will be named this year. Dusing has been active in labor circles for several years.

While several candidates have been reported in the field for mayor of Kingston, it now appears that the nod will be given to Ray McAndrew with Fred Harder as a possibe running mate for alderman-at-large. The name of former Mayor Edelmuth has been mentioned several times and it is known that Harder has had aspirations for the nomination for mayor, his friends having been engaged in a campaign to have him named as late as the weekend. However, it is anticipated Harder will be named for the alderman-at-large post.

Francis O'Neil, former supervisor, was being prominently mentioned as a possible candidate for mayor, but it is believed he will not be the choice. O'Neil was recently designated by the Liberal party as its choice for mayor.

Should there be a conflict at the last moment for the mayor post, it is believed that Former Mayor William F. Edelmuth might be persuaded to be drafted to a position on the ticket.

A daughter, Muriel, 20, was aroused from sleep by her mother's scream. She had not heard the shot. Dessimoz is survived by his wife, Germaine, and one daughter. The remains were taken in charge by the Scott Funeral Home, Pine Bush.

Pine Bush Man Is Termed Suicide

John Dessimoz of Brookside Farm, Pine Bush, R.D., died at the Ellenville Hospital Monday from a self inflicted bullet wound in the forehead. Coroner Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson pronounced the death suicide. Mr. Dessimoz had been despondent for the past couple of months, worrying over business. He has been employed as a chef at the Cornwall Inn, Cornwall-on-Hudson.

Dessimoz was admitted to the Ellenville Hospital shortly before 10 o'clock and died shortly after 11 a. m. Dr. Henry Weiss of Ellenville attended him at the hospital.

Coroner Chipp stated that the wound had been inflicted with a .22 calibre rifle. Dessimoz arose about 6:30 o'clock Monday morning and ate breakfast. Mrs. Dessimoz was outside hanging up clothes and called to her husband to bring out other clothes. He failed to respond and she entered the house and was attracted to OLD FAITHFUL — Never absent from work and late only once in 65 years is the record established by Thomas W. Dumas, employed by the American Optical Company at Southbridge, Mass. He's shown wearing spectacles of the type he worked on when he joined the firm in 1886. Once he was late three minutes because he stopped to watch snow-removal operations following the historic blizzard of '88.

Heavy Sleeper

With the First Marine Division in Korea (AP) — When the enemy attacked one night, Pfc. James W. Flett was asleep in his foxhole. A yelling mob of Chinese burst out of the 3 a. m. darkness. Artillery roared, machine guns rattled, grenades flashed, automatic rifles chattered. For three hours the Reds blasted away, and the Marines blasted back. Within 100 yards of his foxhole, a fierce hand-to-hand struggle swayed. Flett slept serenely through it all. Next morning he awoke, gazed with astonishment upon a counted heap of 112 enemy bodies. "It's embarrassing," he gulped, "to have to ask your buddies what happened."

ranking Republican on the committee, and others insist that the "real problem" comes in fiscal 1953, the year starting next July 1.

Government budget experts estimate spending will hit a level of between $80,000,000,000 and $90,000,000,000 in that year as compared with $68,400,000,000 this 12 months.

Milliken suggested yesterday to Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston that the proposed budget in fiscal 1953 could not possibly be balanced without invading new "tax fields." He did not specify the field although others have suggested a federal sales tax.

Johnston said, however, he hoped the senators would go ahead with $10,000,000,000 tax increase bill for this year and let fiscal 1953 take care of itself.

The answers to everyday insurance problems

By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: Does a $50,000 and $100,000 Public Liability and Property Damage policy on an automobile cost ten times as much as a $5,000 and $10,000 policy? We just want to settle an argument.

ANSWER: Far from it! Many people have this mistaken idea, however, and carry much less protection of this kind than they should. Actually the larger policies you mention can be obtained for a very few dollars more than the minimum protection.

If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

No Bell-Ringers!

Smith-Parish employ no unsolicited door-bell pushers. The only time we'll ring your door-bell is in response to your call for a discussion of your Roofing needs! For 19 years Smith-Parish has been installing new roofs, fixin' old ones, repairing gutters, or doing siding work. We are extremely appreciative of your invitation to ring your doorbell, and we'll give you the best advice we know, to help you with your roofing or siding problems.

We use the best materials, the finest workmanship, and we absolutely guarantee our work—it must be done to your satisfaction (and ours too!) There's no obligation on your part to have us call—we'll be happy to estimate your job.
